Win Sours Romance

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man engaged to a $1 million lottery winner says the wedding is off following a fight over the money, and he is suing her for half of her winnings.

Wilfred Stoeser, 58, has launched county court action in New Westminster, claiming Dorreen Holgate, 53, had agreed to share any winnings equally with him.

Stoeser, a construction foreman, and Miss Holgate, a mail clerk, had agreed to be married and looked for an apartment in Burnaby.

But the relationship cooled after she won the top prize in the March 27 draw of the Provincial lottery. Stoeser said when a lottery official went to Miss Holgate's apartment to inform her of her prize, he had to leave because the excitement was too much for his heart problem.

He said Miss Holgate was to call him later and she did so—to tell him to quit pestering her.

Judge Stewart McMorran has ordered Miss Holgate to pay half the $1 million into the court or a lawyer's trust fund until the suit is settled.

GOYER'S FILES DESTROYED?

Large Gap Bared In RCMP Reports

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-four monthly reports by the RCMP to the federal solicitor-general giving details of the force's surveillance operations are missing and might have been destroyed, according to the CBC.

In a report from Ottawa the network says the reports for 1971 and 1972 were requested by the McDonald royal commission investigating RCMP activities but have not been found.

It says the practice of reporting monthly to the solicitor-general continued until 1974 and that the McDonald commission has the reports for 1973 and 1974. Jean-Pierre Goyer was solicitor-general in 1971 and 1972.

The CBC says the missing documents cover crucial years when the RCMP was under strong pressure to avoid another crisis similar to the one in 1970 involving the Front de Liberation du Quebec. It says the RCMP began some highly questionable activities such as the break-in at the Agence de Presse Libre du Quebec during those two years.

In the Commons, meanwhile, Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais said Tuesday government lawyers have determined that about 400 RCMP break-ins without warrants, revealed last week at a federal royal commission, were legal operations.

Blais told opposition MPs justice department lawyers have prepared a legal opinion "to the effect that these procedures are legal."

He told reporters he thinks the legal argument has already been tabled before the federal commission investigating illegal RCMP acts. He refused any further comment.

Blais said that if an illegal act is revealed contrary to instructions given the RCMP by the government "that activity will be the subject of possible prosecution."

In Toronto, the Globe and Mail says that selected members of the RCMP were issued detailed instructions on political surveillance and on reporting on candidates in federal, provincial and municipal elections in the early 1970s.

In an Ottawa story, the newspaper says seven pages of instructions, apparently taken from an RCMP manual, were received in the mail Monday by one of the national political parties.

But a spokesman for

MISSING MAIL BEHIND SAFE

KAMLOOPS (CP) — About 85 pieces of mail, including post cards, hydro bills and income tax returns, misplaced during the last 10 years, have been discovered behind a safe in a postal substation at Knutsford, seven kilometres south of here.

The postmistress "poked" behind the safe that supported the basket used to catch posted letters" and found the missing letters.

B.C. Seeks BCR Deal In Ottawa

The provincial government is trying to negotiate a multi-million dollar deal for Ottawa to help B.C. with transportation in the north, including the upgrading of the financially-troubled B.C. Rail link to Fort Nelson.

In a proposal presented to Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen last week, the B.C. government says it wants the federal government and a pipeline consortium to help pay for the upgrading of the financially-troubled railway link to Fort Nelson, arguing that the rail link will be used to carry supplies for use on the pipeline project in northern B.C. and southern Yukon.

The suggestion is that without the requested financial assistance from Ottawa, the B.C. government will have to collect the needed revenues by imposing higher and perhaps discriminatory taxes on the pipeline that passes through B.C.

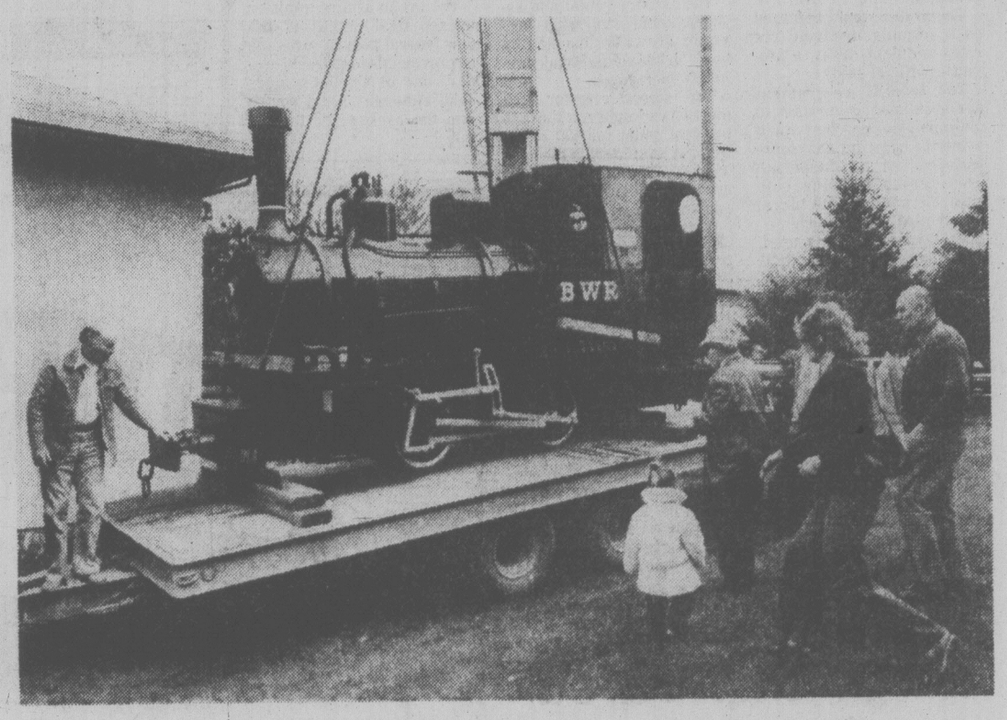

Under a U.S.-Canada agreement Canada agreed that there would be no discriminatory taxes imposed on the pipeline.

But since Ottawa cannot restrict the constitutional right of the affected provinces — B.C., Alberta, and Saskatchewan — to levy taxes on projects within its borders, the federal government has been trying to complete agreements with each of the three provinces to guarantee that they would refrain from imposing taxes.

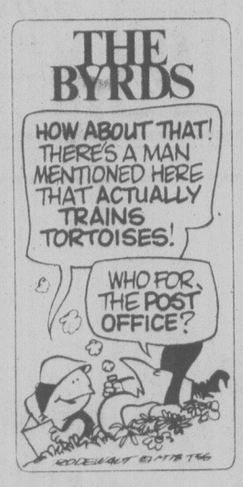

Premier Bill Bennett said Tuesday the talks have been going on for several months and have reached a detailed, ministerial level, involving Economic Development Minjster Don Phillips, Labor Minister Allan Williams and MacEachen.

Bennett discussed federal

Committee Slams Wolfe

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The Crown corporations legislative committee Tuesday criticized Finance Minister Evan Wolfe for turning over questions regarding B.C. Hydro to the committee.

Committee members — a majority of whom are Socreds — unanimously passed a resolution to investigate the Vancouver Province questions on its own initiative.

Committee chairman Elwood Veitch (Socred — Burnaby Willingdon) tabled the list of questions along with a resolution which said in part: "The committee regrets the manner in which the question was drawn to its attention; namely a statement by the minister responsible for B.C. Hydro in the house."

The committee also said it does not intend to be used as a clearing house for questions from the media.

The 45 questions, mainly concerning the letting of contracts for Hydro power projects, will be the basis for the committee's inquiry which will commence May 10.

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson who initiated the motion, said the fact it passed unanimously is an indication of how important the independence of the committee is to all its members, even the Socred backbenchers who form the majority on the 13-member committee.

Meanwhile, Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) produced an internal B.C. Hydro memo telling employees to keep mum if approached by newsmen.

The date on the memo, which went out over the signature of D. G. McKillop, manager of general services, shows it was issued two days after the reporters met with Hydro chairman Robert Bonner seeking answers to the same questions.

Under the heading protection of confidential information, the memo warns employees that if approached by Insulation Hazard?

Steel Suffering

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite a temporary reprieve in the imposition of import duties, the British Columbia steel industry has lost a large portion of its traditional Alberta market to Ontario producers and is suffering because of a sluggish economy, industry officials say. See story on page 8.

PM Eyes Sun Life

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday he will examine whether the federal government can or should take measures to prevent Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada from moving its head office to Toronto from Montreal. For details and other reaction see page 26.

Namibia Accepted

CAPE TOWN - A Western-sponsored plan to bring independence to the disputed territory of Namibia by the end of the year has been accepted by the government of South Africa, Prime Minister John Vorster announced Tuesday. See story on page 41.

Chrysler Tumbles

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Chrysler Corporation, plagued by slumping car sales, increased costs and problems overseas, today reported the biggest quarterly loss in its history. The automaker, third largest in the United States, said it lost $120 million, or $1.98 a share, in the first quarter of the year. For story on GM loss see page 18.

BUS BOMBED

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — A bomb was thrown through the window of a bus carrying West German tourists in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan today, killing two people and wounding six, witnesses reported.

Loco Puffing Southward

After years of trying to find a home for his steam locomotive in Victoria, Leonard Hutton has finally made a sale — south of the border.

Buyer Al Simpkins arrived today with crane and truck to lift the eight-ton engine out of Hutton's backyard at 1770 Townley for the trip to Port Angeles.

Simpkins plans to develop a mini-rail-line, something Hutton tried but could not ever seem to get permission to do here.

"He'll probably do okay," said Hutton, a 74-year-old former steam engineer.

"I sure don't like to see it go. But I'm getting up in years and can't seem to find a place for it here."

Hutton bought the engine through a an ad in a train buff magazine in 1964. Made by Henschel & Son of Kassel, Germany, it had been used on dam construction projects in Germany after the war.

He tried unsuccessfully to convince Saanich it would be just the thing for Beaver Lake Park.

He tried Surrey but only got an offer of a five-year lease without any guarantee of renewal.

He said always thought Beacon Hill would be the ideal place but didn't ever bother approaching the city.

"I knew they'd just turn me down."

Hutton said he isn't sure what he'll do now.

"I've been thinking of picking up something else ... maybe a steam roller."

300,000 Jobs Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien said Tuesday a minimum of 300,000 new jobs should be created in 1978 but he declined opposition invitations to estimate the jobless rate over the next year.

The growth in the number of jobs is based on government projections of five-per-cent real economic growth this year, Chretien told the Commons finance committee.

He noted that despite a seasonally-adjusted jobless rate in March of 8.6 per cent, there were 330,000 more jobs in March than a year earlier.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, tried to get Chretien to speculate about unemployment levels for the rest of the year and 1979 but the minister refused.

Stevens noted that a paper prepared for the February meeting of federal and provincial premiers had predicted 5.5-per-cent unemployment by 1981.

Why was it easier to predict the unemployment rate for 1981 than it was for the next few months? Stevens asked.

"That's a target, not a prediction," Chretien retorted. "The target (for 1979) is lower unemployment."

Finance officials also told the committee they had looked into the cost of allowing deduction of municipal taxes and mortgage payments from income tax but concluded they would cut too much into government revenue.

Exchange Controls 'Fiction'

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday denounced as "fiction" the claim by the official opposition's financial critic that the federal government has now prepared in draft form legislation that would impose foreign exchange controls.

Progressive Conservative Finance Critic Sinclair Stevens informed the commons that he had learned fron two officials that the justice department has drafted a measure which would impose a limitation of $600 on the amount of Canadian funds a resident of this country could take out of Canada in one year.

Trudeau said since he had been drawn into "this fictional account" by the opposition's finance critic he wanted to assure the commons that the statements by Stevens had no foundation in fact. He said there was no such legislation "in my hands."

In New York today the Canadian dollar was down slightly at 88.22 cents U.S. after a modest recovery Monday and Tuesday.

BRYCE QUITS QUE. SEAT

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Bryce Mackasey resigned his seat in the Quebec national assembly Tuesday.

His resignation puts pressure on Claude Ryan, the former publisher elected April 15 as leader of the Quebec Liberal party, to run in Mackasey's Montreal riding, Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

Ryan says he will make a decision on whether or not to run in the next three weeks.

2,4-D Spraying Delayed Year

A one-year postponement of plans to spray the herbicide 2,4-D along power line rights-of-way on Vancouver Island will be used by B.C. Hydro to increase research into alternative methods of controlling vegetation.

Gordon Roper, Vancouver Island manager, said the Crown corporation will continue research into limiting the growth of alder and maple trees, the main problem on rights-of-way on the island.

Roper said maintenance requirements for power line rights-of-way were re-examined following meetings with residents in the Campbell River area, where spraying of the herbicide was proposed.

Hydro had proposed that crews using backpack spray equipment would apply 2,4-D to alder and maple stumps along power lines between Black Creek and Campbell River and between Gold River and Tahsis. Strong opposition to the spraying was voiced by area residents.

Black Creek residents had threatened to set up picket lines to stop the spraying and to refuse to pay Hydro electric bills until the use of 2,4-D was cancelled. The Campbell River Environmental Council feared it would be toxic to numerous fish habitats.

Council secretary Shirley Duncan said Tuesday that Hydro appears to have considered the feelings of local residents be cancelling spraying.

Roper said studies show selective cutting of higher trees one year later would not jeopardize the safety of power lines. Hydro studies will concentrate on non-chemical maintenance methods, including clearing by hand and introducing species which will dominate alder and maple.

He said limited spraying might be needed for comparisons but Ms. Duncan questioned Hydro's plans to continue the use of 2,4-D in small test-plots, saying the corporation has been spraying for 25 years and should have all the information it needs.

Roper said Hydro will apply limited amounts of herbicide on some sections of rights-of-way elsewhere on Vancouver Island, primarily to stumps after hand-cutting to prevent re-growth.

Murder Charged

SASKATOON (CP) — Two Saskatoon teenagers were charged with first degree murder today in the fatal shooting early Tuesday morning of RCMP Constable Thomas King.

3 SLAYING SUSPECTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mexican state police are holding three suspects in connection with the murder of an elderly Canadian couple found Friday shot to death in their beach home at Playa Azul, a Canadian consular official in Mexico City said Tuesday.

The three, arrested in nearby Manzanillo, are being interrogated by police as the search continues for other possible suspects, the official said in a telephone interview.

McGeer Wants ICBC Award Scale

A major reform in the automobile insurance system was urged Tuesday by Education Minister Pat McGeer.

McGeer, the minister responsible for the Insurance Corportion of B.C., said in an interview that he wants a system of compensation for bodily injury with a set scale of benefits, similar to that provided under the Worker's Compensation Act.

The benefits would be predictable and therefore fair to all concerned.

"The present system seems to be in a little bit of chaos because we don't really know what an appropriate award for a given bodily injury might be," McGeer said.

"One victim of an automobile crash may receive 10 times the compensation that another receives."

The minister said he was outlining a personal view which had not been presented to cabinet, and anticipated that it will be opposed by lawyers.

McGeer said disputes frequently go to court — he estimated that 50 per cent of the cases before the B.C. Supreme Court are automobile injury cases — and the plaintiff frequently has to pay a large share of his award to his lawyer.

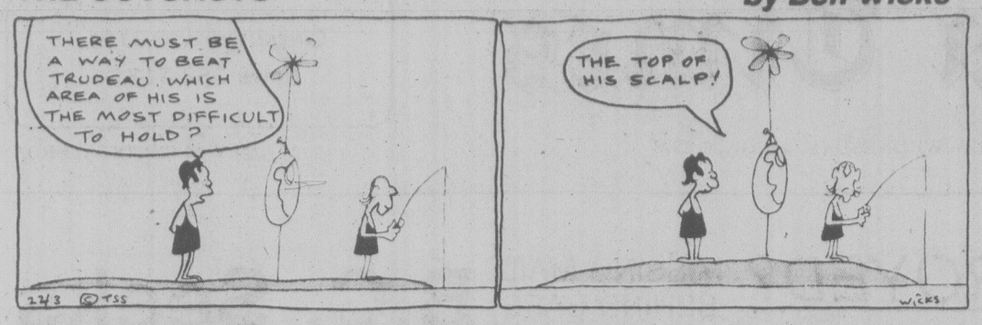

"It's an excellent thing for the lawyers but it's not a particularly good thing for the public because so much time, energy and money are wasted while these decisions are thrashed out in lengthy court trials."

McGeer said drivers now pay the same premiums "but you might be able to claim in the event of injury many times what I would be able to claim simply because your earnings were higher or you might have a smarter lawyer working for you in court."

McGeer said the decision to go to such a system would have to be made by the legislature with the consent of the public and the legal profession.

ICBC has put aside $76 million this year to take care of anticipated bodily injury claims for prior years.

New Confrontation Looms Over Housing Policy

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A new, three-part federal housing policy, soon to be announced by Urban Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet, has upset the provinces and is almost certain to trigger another Quebec-Ottawa confrontation, it was learned here Tuesday.

The policy makes major changes in the programs of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. It involves:

—Direct federal grants to municipalities to replace three existing or recently terminated programs;

—Restructuring of financial arrangements for the assisted rental and assisted home ownership programs;

—Merging of public, non-profit and co-operative housing programs under the general heading of social housing, with 100 per cent mortgage financing but no more capital grants.

Ouellet has been dealing with the provinces on an individual basis to get them to accept his proposals. He cancelled a federal-provincial housing ministers conference set for April 1. That conference had been agreed to at a federal-provincial meeting in Edmonton, early in February, where Ouellet first outlined the new direction for CMHC.

The direct grants to municipllities, levels as yet unspecified, will replace the municipal incentive grants of $1,000 per unit for moderately priced, medium density housing; the now expired Neighborhood Improvement Program that provided funding for residential rehabilitation programs by the provinces and municipalities; and the forgivable federal loans provided to municipalities for water and sewage systems.

The new grants program, which according to a federal official has been budgeted at $250 million for the first year, will allow municipalities to spend money on a much wider range of services and facilities, including skating rinks, recreation centres and parks.

The federal official said the $250 million would be allocated to the provinces on a population basis and it would be up to the provinces to allocate their portions to the municipalities. The grants program will be co-ordinated by the ministry of state for urban affairs, not CMHC.

The grants would be based on a formula involving tax rates and debt ratios, a provincial official said.

The federal government has been looking for ways to aid municipalities that would avoid the constitutional problems caused by municipalities generally being considered within provincial jurisdiction, he claimed.

The argument being used, according to the official, is that while the government itself cannot make direct grants there is nothing to prevent CMHC, which is a Crown corporation, making them.

Some provinces are worried about the political overtones of the municipal grants. They see it as an opportunity for government ministers to pass out thousands of cheques in cities and towns across Canada.

Quebec, especially, has resented federal attempts to "meddle" with municipalities, going so far as to withdraw from a conference of Quebec municipalities some months ago because the federal urban affairs minister had been invited to speak.

The assisted rental and assisted home ownership programs are to be financed by new "graduated annual payment" mortgages.

The interest rate for such mortgages would run some 15 per cent under market rates. Initially a builder, in the case of the assisted rental program, which is primarily for apartment for multiple-unit construction; or a home owner, in the case of the assisted home ownership program, would make a lower mortgage payment in the early years than in the later years of the mortgage.

Some provincial officials fear that the "gap" mortgages for AHOP will not help low-income families become home owners. The existing interest-reducing AHOP mortgages and the $750 nonrepayable grant are eliminated in the new program and a provincial source said the gap mortgages were not "rich" enough to compensate.

B.C. has threatened to change the provincial income tax rate to compensate investors if Ottawa drops the capital cost allowance, now five per cent.

The urban affairs minister telexed final details of the new federal housing package to provincial ministers Tuesday, one of Ouellet's aides said, although he did not go into the package or the details.

BRIGADES STRIKE AGAIN?

Times News Services

Rome — Gunmen shot a leading Christian Democratic politician in the legs today, and an anonymous caller to the newspaper Il Messaggero said the attack was launched by the Red Brigades.

The young gunmen fired 10 pistol shots at Gerolamo Mechelli as he left his home in a Rome suburb, witnesses said. Five bullets hit his legs, but doctors said his condition was not serious.

Mechelli, 54, is the floor leader of the Christian Democratic minority in the Lazio regional assembly, which includes Rome.

"I heard shots and felt pain in my legs and my legs just gave way," Mechelli told police. "I only saw two persons. After the shooting they just walked away calmly to a nearby car."

Police said the car, stolen and carrying false licence plates, was found abandoned a few hundred metres from the ambush site. There was no trace of the assailants.

Meanwhile, the government named six men and three women as the kidnappers of Christian Democratic leader Aldo Moro.

Large Gap Bared In RCMP Reports

RCMP headquarters in Ottawa said his office never saw such instructions.

With the document sent to the newspaper was an unsigned, typewritten note in French from someone described as a victim of the RCMP.

RCMP headquarters — A Division in Ottawa — was to supply statistical information on federal elections, including a complete list of candidates, their occupation, address, constituency, votes received and information concerning popular vote by provinces, the Globe says.

One set of instructions applied to reports on election candidates in English Canada, with a different set for candidates (on all three levels) in Quebec.

The Globe continues: "Although 'election' files are of value to the security screening program," the document states, "their main purpose is to gather statistical (the world statistical is underlined) information for various briefs, comparative analysis, and federal Government requirements."

Last November Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said the RCMP had been instructed in March, 1975, to discontinue systematic surveillance of legal political parties.

This was after the government had learned that the RCMP had the Parti Quebecois under surveillance.

Weather map unavailable today.

Clouds lingered over much of B.C. this morning as a weakening disturbance drifted slowly across the province. A ridge of high pressure gradually building over B.C. behind the system will allow the sun to filter through the thinning cloud cover and allow temperatures to climb to around 20 degrees in many areas of the interior. Another frontal system, which brought more showers to the north coast this morning, will spread to northern Vancouver Island this evening. The front will weaken as it encounters the ridge of high pressure. Thus only patchy clouds are expected over the remainder of the province on Thursday.

Without His Private Jet Phil Won't — uh — Run

EDMONTON (CP) — Phil Gaglardi, the former British Columbia cabinet minister known as "Flying Phil", said Tuesday night he will not run for the national Social Credit leadership because of lack of party support and a jet plane.

He told reporters that he had set certain conditions which must be met before he would run. They included the jet, three research writers and an estimated $1 million for campaign funds.

He said the conditions have not been met.

Gaglardi, who was a provincial cabinet minister in the 1950s and 1960s, said that he will probably will not even attend the Social Credit leadership convention scheduled for May 7 in Winnipeg.

He said he hoped his supporters will vote for Edmonton lawyer Martin Hattersley, one of two candidates left in the leadership race.

"If I am going to run, I will only go first class because all the other leaders will be going first class," he said.

"I will need certain things available such as the jet plane, three research writers and enough money to do things without having to worry about where the finance is coming from," he said in an interview.

He said he had asked the party to show him where the support was "and its not there . . . it's not a party of great consequence."

Gaglardi was in Edmonton to appear with Hattersley and the other leadership candidate, Lorne Reznowski, a Winnipeg university professor, at a candidates' meeting.

Hattersley said later he is not convinced that Gaglardi will fail to run for the leadership but feels that if he is out of the race "I have a better chance."

Mining Brass Pushing Gold

OTTAWA (CP) — The mining industry is pressing the government to put the mint to work turning out gold coins for investors around the world.

Industry spokesmen say such a multi-million dollar business would be a boon to the gold mining industry and would allow Canada to cash in in a need being felt by investors around the world. They say it would create thousands of jobs.

Until now the mint has produced limited-edition issues for collectors, commemorating specific events such as the Olympics or the Queen's Silver Jubilee last year.

Supply Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer said this week the idea of producing bullion gold coins is attractive and he is prepared to investigate of its merits.

The idea came to light as Goyer explained legislation that would allow the mint to strike gold coins without parliamentary approval.

Goyer's purpose in introducing the bill was to make it easier for the mint to issue new commemorative gold coins.

But these are of marginal interest to the mining lobby. It has set its sights on the much larger bullion coin business.

The trading value of a bullion coin depends on the price of gold on any given day. A commemorative coin is a collector's item with a value that changes gradually, if at all.

Bullion coins must be produced in great volume with a low profit margin—three per cent is the widely accepted standard—unlike commemorative coins which are produced in small numbers with a large mark-up for the mint.

Mining officials prefer coins to other forms of gold because government-minted coins can be sent out of the country duty-free. Other gold exports are subject to a 17.5 per cent duty.

Vancouver Bound Jet On Fire

MONTREAL (UPI) — An Air Canada Boeing 747 carrying 253 passengers and a crew of 18 bound for Edmonton and Vancouver was forced down at London's Heathrow Airport today after an engine caught fire, a spokesman at the airline's headquarters here reported.

The jumbo jet, flight 853, landed safely after the engine was automatically shut down.

The spokesman said no injuries were caused by the incident, which occurred less than an hour after the plane took off.

Passengers were being billeted at various London hotels, he said, and would be flown out Thursday.

A new engine was being flown from Canada for installation in the jet.

Former premier W. A. C. Bennett, 77, was feeling better in his bout with viral pneumonia, his wife Mae said Tuesday.

Mrs. Bennett said her husband's condition was improving and he was starting to eat again.

ONE-FOURTH ADULTS IN B.C. ILLITERATE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Almost one-quarter of the adults in British Columbia were either illiterate or severely undereducated when the last census was taken, says a University of B.C. education professor.

Gary Dickinson, of UBC's adult education department, says in his report that 20.1 per cent of B.C.'s population—316,625 adults—had fewer than nine years of school according to the 1971 census, and about 62,000 adults (3.9 per cent of the population) had less than a Grade 5 education.

On the basis of a population of 1.5 million aged 15 and over, the figures point to an alarming number of adults with little or no employment qualifications, the report says.

"The criterion of less than five years of schooling provides a measure of what might be termed absolute illiteracy, while that of eight years or less assesses the population that is severely undereducated and thereby inadmissible to most existing vocational training programs," Dickinson says.

"The initial and continuing education of Canadians is based almost entirely upon literacy. Consequently, those who lack facility in reading and writing are virtually uneducable, and without education, their employment prospects are diminished.

Dickinson found that the incidence of undereducation was lower in B.C. than in other provinces.

"In Canada as a whole, more than five million people had eight or fewer years of schooling with 6.4 per cent reporting less than five years and 27.3 per cent five to eight years of schooling," the report says. "In terms of the percentage of population affected by undereducation, the figures for British Columbia were the lowest of any Canadian province.

"In actual numbers of people, however, only Ontario and Quebec had more persons with less than nine years of schooling."

Pensions Clamps Forecast

MONTREAL (CP) — Public criticism of inadequate company pensions is so intense that governments will soon legislate improvements, representatives of Canada's $30-billion pension industry were told today.

"The momentum for change is now so powerful that a lot of the very big decisions will be made (by the governments) within the next few years," said Donald Coxe, a member of the Ontario royal commission on pensions.

"The changes will be immense," Coxe told delegates at a two-day conference on the industry's future.

"Anyone who thinks the private pension system can survive with band-aids is either deluded or ill-informed," he said.

Coxe said the royal commission, which began hearings in February, has received more than 300 briefs, many of them criticizing private pensions and urging that governments provide the bulk of retirement income.

He said private pensions are being attacked for failing to provide adequate retirement income, for discriminating against women, for lack of portability from job to job, for failing to offer protection against inflation and for being too complicated for most people to understand.

He criticized the private pension industry for badly managing pension funds.

Establishing a Model

Saanich council took an interesting and innovative step last Monday night when it decided to ask a panel composed of members of ratepayers' groups to make recommendations on salary increases for the mayor and aldermen.

This should be a significant improvement over the previous system which is still in effect nearly everywhere else, where elected officials, be they municipal, federal, or provincial, decide their own salaries. That is an unfair burden to place on those officials, one that is placed on almost no one else in today's society. Even the senior executives of large corporations normally have their salaries set by outside boards of directors.

The difficulties are made even worse for the elected officials by the fact that they are spending taxpayers' dollars rather than private corporate funds. A politician will always be unpopular if he votes to raise his own salary, yet the expenses of his office, be they for travel, for research or for time lost from work because of public duties, increase with inflation just as everyone else's do.

It seems a much fairer system to set up an outside panel of citizens — the equivalent of a corporate board of directors — to make recommendations on the salary increases that aldermen should be allowed.

The only question remaining is whether a panel formed from local ratepayers' groups is the best sort of tribunal to set up to make the recommendations. There would appear to be some compelling reasons to believe that it is not.

By their very nature, ratepayers' groups are bound to come into conflict with aldermen on other issues, such as those involving local developments. It could be extremely hard for both sides to deal with those conflicts in the knowledge that the ratepayers' groups would have some say in the setting of council salaries.

Aldermen, for example, might be unconsciously tempted to give in to some ratepayers' demands against their own better judgment in the hope that the ratepayers' panels would then treat them kindly at salary time. Ratepayers, for their part, might be unconsciously tempted to reward aldermen in years when things had gone well or even to punish them if the groups' wishes had not been much listened to by council in the previous 12 months.

Perhaps a better system would be for council to appoint a salary advisory panel entirely separate from any other group. For the system to work, the panel members would have to be well-respected in the community, known for their fairness and impartiality. It would not necessarily be an easy job to find such people, but higher levels of government do it regularly in appointing judges.

If Saanich council continues to develop this concept and perhaps appoints such a panel, it might well end up with a system that could serve as a model not only for B.C., but for all of Canada.

Watch Your Language

All the fretting and fussing about the coming federal election has members of Parliament in an uproar. Tempers are short, language is frequently insulting.

Why, only the other day Tory House leader Walter Baker called National Revenue Minister a hypocrite. Baker also recently compared Transport Minister Otto Lang's moral standards to those of an alley cat.

And Finance Minister Jean Chretien said his counterpart on the opposition benches, Sinclair Stevens, was dishonest.

On Monday, both men apologized to those they had offended. Speaker James Jerome said: "We have to adhere to certain standards of language and conduct to guard the sense of dignity and decorum of the House now and for all time." They take this sort of thing seriously in the House of Commons.

They're a little more hardened in the British Columbia legislature. Such epithets ring off the walls so often that such meek insults as Stevens and Chretien uttered pass unnoticed. True, Nelson-Creston MLA Lorne Nicolson was quickly hustled out of the legislature on Friday for calling Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf a liar, but that was more a misunderstanding amid the noise and confusion and a new speaker with a fast and firm hand.

Pick a day at random and scan the B.C. Hansard. April 12, there's Graham Lea (NDP — Prince Rupert) speaking in the budget debate, calling the Liberals "the prostitutes of Canadian politics." He was referring to the several ex-Liberals who now sit in Premier Bill Bennett's cabinet. Not an eyebrow raised.

Next day, opposition House Leader Bill King called across the floor to Jack Kempf (SC — Omineca), one of the more conservative Socreds, who had been making interjections: "Next time you parachute into Scotland, we'll make sure they get you." The allusion to Rudolf Hess apparently passed him by.

Our MLAs aren't crybabies like MPs in the House of Commons. They can take it and they can dish it out. Decorum and dignity? A firm of Liberal lawyers, aren't they?

STUART UNDERHILL

No Friends like Old Friends

With a faint sigh Mother laid aside the letter which had just been delivered by Mr. Day the postman, as imposing as a sergeant-major in his dark blue uniform and peaked cap.

"Mrs. Newton is coming to stay," she said.

"Uh-huh," said Dad. His comment, though brief, conveyed volumes.

Mother's lips quirked. "No reference to baths this time, please." Dad looked at her over the top of his gold-rimmed spectacles, his blue eyes twinkling.

Mrs. Newton was a frequent visitor. She was an old lady who lived on the south side of the Fraser River; her late husband had been one of the first to settle and clear land there. She never did much when she descended on us — just sat in a comfortable chair, her long, full skirts spread out, her shawl draped cosily around her shoulders, a lacy cap on her grey head, knitting or crocheting.

A Bath Tonight?

On one of these occasions Dad had appeared at the door after supper to ask: "Will you be having a bath tonight, Mrs. Newton?" It was a reasonable inquiry. Hot water in our house was heated in a cylindrical tank attached to the wood range. Children earmarked for a bath could be packed off early to enjoy water heated for washing the supper dishes. If an adult was similarly inclined it meant "keeping the fire in" — that is, putting more wood in the stove.

Mrs. Newton's flashing needles hesitated for a second, then resumed their rhythm. She did not reply. Dad looked at Mother, who nodded. Later Mrs. Newton told her that she was astonished that Reverend Underhill had asked such a question. A gentleman did not discuss such matters with a lady.

Most households I knew in those days (the 1920s) had one or more regular visitors. They did not always come from afar but might be local.

My grandmother, for example, had my Uncle Walter to high tea on Sundays. I suppose he didn't count, being family, but in a way he was typical — a lonely bachelor of restricted means.

Years before in Quebec he and his older brother Herbert both sought the hand of my grandmother — a slim girl with laughing eyes. Herbert had won her but Walter had followed them out to Vancouver and now she bossed both of them around.

Walter always left about 7 p.m. He detested Mr. Redpath, who turned up half an hour later. Another old bachelor, who smelt of moth balls and tobacco, he sat with Grandad in the little room called the study. They didn't say much but puffed contentedly at their pipes. Grandad bought his tobacco in a solid block and sometimes I was permitted to shave tissue-thin slices with a long blade attached to a hardwood board.

At 9 p.m. sharp Grandmother brought in tea and a pile of thick sandwiches which Mr. Redpath consumed before saying good night and disappearing into the outer darkness for another week.

In Victoria my Great-Aunt Margaret and Great-Uncle Billy also had a regular male visitor. Mr. Streatfield was a tall, energetic man with a hawk's beak for a nose, flashing blue eyes, red hair and moustache to match. He usually wore a knickerbocker suit of greenish tweed and a hat of the same material. His only concession to cold weather was to toss a scarf around his neck and stride off with the ends flying.

He was not a bit like Mr. Redpath. "I have just walked through the rose hedges of Oak Bay," he boomed one day on arrival.

Over teatime scones he and Uncle Billy conversed in quiet tones. Then as if the second or third cup of tea had enflamed them they went at it hammer and tongs, as my Aunt Margaret put it.

She always removed herself to a far corner of the long sitting room to read a book or placidly do her needlepoint. Sometimes she disappeared altogether for 20 minutes or so. I was told later that she liked to retreat to her room upstairs and have a quiet nip. Can that be so?

Uncle Billy and Streatfield talked about, and disagreed about, everything under the sun: the conduct of the First World War, spiritualism (which fascinated my great-uncle), the conduct of B.C. politics, Anglo-Irish problems. The last was sure to set things off, since Streatfield was English and Uncle Billy had come from Ireland to B.C. in the wild old Cariboo days.

Their voices rose. Sometimes Streatfield could bear it no longer and would storm out of the house, snatching up his tweedy hat and his stick on the way. Uncle Billy would sit for a while very red in the face. Then his wrath would subside. He knew that Streatfield would be back for more.

One day after a particularly stormy scene Uncle Billy said: "Let's take advantage of the light, Stuart, and have a little walk."

That meant he wanted mushrooms for his breakfast. Craigdarroch Road to the east of his big house was still woodland, mostly Garry oaks. The thick, well-rotted carpet of leaves beneath them abounded in mushrooms. It lay a couple of feet below the level of the sidewalk and under Uncle Billy's direction I would reap a harvest.

"Wrap up well, Billy," Aunt Margaret called.

Though it was a mild evening he was soon swathed in a thick scarf and heavy overcoat, with a cap on his shiny crown. He held my arm as we set out.

Crinkling Blue Eyes

"There, boy, there," he exclaimed suddenly, pointing with his stick.

I jumped down into the leaves and soon the little basket I had brought from the hall table was filled with mushrooms.

"You and Mr. Streatfield were awfully mad at one another today," I said as we resumed our walk.

"Mad? What d'you mean?"

"Well, you quarreled like anything. And he banged the door when he left."

Uncle Billy stood still, a rotund figure almost as wide as he was tall. I loved it when he laughed, even when I didn't understand the joke, and laugh is what he did now. His pink face grew rosier than ever, so that his neat moustache showed up like a ridge of snow. His blue eyes crinkled until the tears ran down.

"Oh dear," he wheezed. "Oh dear me. Streat and I quarrel? Never! Hang it, boy, we weren't quarreling. But what's the use of having opinions if you don't defend them?"

Thanks from Gati

I conducted my final concerts as music director-conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. I extend my warmest thanks to all who made my 11 years at the helm of the orchestra not only possible but a most rewarding experience.

First of all, I would like to express my special thanks to the local committees in Duncan and Campbell River, who made us always feel not only welcome, but at home.

A big thank you to the audiences in the other 35 communities of British Columbia, Alberta and the Yukon (where I had the pleasure of conducting the orchestra) for the wonderful reception extended to us. My warmest feelings of gratitude go to my colleagues in the orchestra, who through their strenuous effort and support made possible many memorable concerts.

Last but not least, a special thanks to all the various hard-working members of the symphony boards, the Victoria symphony womens' committee, the administration staff, members of the Victoria summer festival board and various individuals who gave me such tremendous support over the years and who helped to make possible the gradual improvement of the status of the musicians in the orchestra and the community.

Finally, I wish to express my appreciation and my gratitude to representatives of the local, provincial and federal governments who not only increased generously their support of the orchestra over the past 11 years, but also gave me personal recognition for my work in the service of music in Victoria and the province of British Columbia.

May I wish the Victoria symphony orchestra a bright, happy and successful future. — Laszlo Gati, Musical Director and Conductor, Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

LASZLO GATI: after more than 20 years in Canada and 11 as music director and conductor of Victoria symphony Gati makes farewell

Land and Lots

Having read the letter concerning the prices of lots being reduced for young couples by a person signed as Robert J. Hutchinson, 2-1060 Southgate, (Some Comparisons, April 21), I wondered how well he has examined the money-making system that we've endorsed for the last one hundred years or more.

He seems to think the shortage of lots is due to the land freeze of the NDP. Either he has been misled, or is trying to mislead. For information's sake, there is land in my area that did not come under any land freeze and yet cannot be developed, because there is already an over-supply of lots waiting to sell at market value or the price the developer expects to make the percentage on. Also, land has been on an open market of supply and demand long before any land freeze and prices rose and rose like everything else anyway.

Why then blame an act of parliament which froze only farm land, which in today's world is severely threatened?

If he is really concerned about young couples, why not support a policy of government development for land banking and housing? It was done in a similar sense for the war veterans with the Veterans' Land Act.

I tried to phone Mr. Hutchinson, but there wasn't any listing by his signed name and address either in the book or since publication. However, I'm open to discussion by phoning 652-1573. — Richard Morrison, 6922 Central Saanich Road.

Honest Person

This is to thank a very honest person here in Victoria. On April 10 I left my wallet in the Fort Royal medical building on Richmond Road.

Checking with the girls at McGill and Orme I found that someone had turned it in after finding it at the pay phone. It did not contain much money but all my credit cards, birth certificate and other items very hard to replace. To the finder I would like to say a heartfelt thank you and also thank the girls at McGill and Orme. — Sandy Smith, 529 Selkirk Avenue.

Academia

It was interesting to see Walter Young castigate the Minister of Education (Pat McGeer) for his commitment to Open University and distance learning systems — especially on the grounds that such schemes were grandiose, inappropriate, and founded on arrogance (Times, April 22). Professor Young's sally came hot on the heels of an announcement that a team headed by him had been awarded $757,000 to research the political history of this province over the last nine years.

An American social scientist just got dusted off by a senator for accepting a grant of $75,000 to study the dynamics of a Peruvian brothel — what are we to say then of Young's success in nabbing over 10 times that amount for what might appear to be a similar line of business? — George Lazarus, 1960 Lee.

PSA and Bill C-28

The Public Service Alliance of Canada has become increasingly concerned with the false impression that is growing out of our dispute with the federal government as employer. Almost every time we hear about the government's intentions with respect to Bill C-28 (An Act to Amend the Public Service Staff Relations Act), the media refer to "comparison with private industry . . ." Generally speaking, the statements are much too simplistic and do not accurately describe the system that is being suggested by the government.

To simply say "comparison with private industry" overlooks the fact that the government is really talking about "comparison with the average pay and fringe benefits paid in private industry." This means that the employer's technicians can be instructed to throw into the statistical hopper any information that the employer considers valid. It raises the possibility that fly-by-night operations, small family businesses, two-man shops, private entrepreneurs paying only the basic minimum wage, can be used to water down final averages.

As long ago as 1953 in the United Kingdom, the government of the day listened to a royal commission that suggested such a system would bring nothing but trouble. That commission argued that the government had a responsibility to pay salaries and fringe benefits that could be equated to those paid by good employers. It did not say that the government should pay the same rates as the best employers in private industry. Although it also favored "comparability", it was careful to point out that a government has the responsibility to be a good employer but not necessarily "the best." Our employer has rejected this concept on several occasions.

If the government is successful in its determination, it will reduce federal public service employees to the status of second class citizens and legislate poverty level rates of pay. — William Doherty, First Vice-President, Public Service Alliance of Canada.

Beach Logging

I appreciate the time which Oak Bay council devoted on April 17 to my request that something be done to remove or reduce the number of logs that obstruct our beaches. However, I am disappointed that the decision to defer action until June was the final outcome of the the meeting. There is little enough time now before the tourists, sun-worshippers and locals, flock to Willows and the other beaches in and around Victoria and Oak Bay; any more deferment will simply allow the bureaucratic process to take over and nothing will be done at all.

It is true that private individuals are already busy cutting and removing logs, but their efforts are spasmodic and there has been no evident reduction in the vast tangle of logs on the foreshore.

It was suggested that the wear and tear on chain saws is excessive because of sand and stones. If so, is this also true for the private enthusiasts already mentioned? They use proper care and apparently have no problem. In any event, sharpening or replacing blades must be reckoned with in a budget for this project.

Some people believe that much of the sand will be eroded if the logs are removed. This would only be true if all the logs were removed. Leave 30 per cent of them to act as a stabilizer.

This could be a partially self-liquidating cost to the municipality if the project is organized and logs sold to the public. We might even help to save a little of our precious oil along the way. — Geoffrey Walker, 2650 Dunlevy Street.

That Mean Old Man

By ALLAN FOTHERINGHAM
The Sun

If there could be a definition of a mean old man, it is John Diefenbaker. Mischief-making is a term often applied to the 82-year-old Dief. Mischief-making is not what he is up to at the moment. What he is doing is mean and vicious.

You will have noticed, in recent weeks with an election call imminent, how the sly old warrior has been coming out with the juicy quotes that contrast neatly with Joe Clark's gift for non-juicy quotes. Smelling an election, Dief wants the spotlight once again.

Sensing a good issue, he was at it last week, trying to seize the campaign issue from his leader on the very shaky case of the Liberals prosecuting the Toronto Sun under the Official Secrets Act. It's bound to be a major campaign albatross for the Liberals and Dief will now claim he is the champion for the accused.

He can lie dormant for four years but, come each election, he has an inner need to shoulder aside whatever current leader and turn the spotlight to the martyr John Diefenbaker.

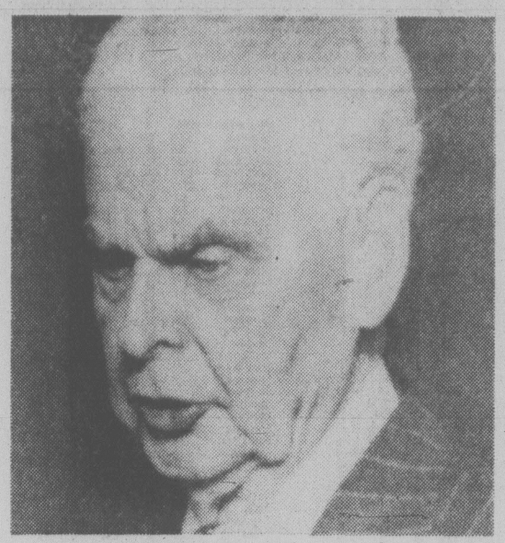

The old man's insatiable appetite for revenge on his own party hit an early peak last week at his nomination in Prince Albert — his 13th consecutive Tory nomination. In an astonishing demonstration of back-stabbing, Dief invited to the nomination meeting David Crombie, the tiny perfect mayor of Toronto, who is the Tory's No. 1 acquisition this time around.

Crombie is in the race not because he thinks Joe Clark will win but because he suspects Joe Clark will lose — and the famous Tory wolves will make swift meat of his body.

So here's Dief, before the election call has even come, touting Crombie, dropping great heavy hints as to his leadership qualities and generally trying to establish the impression that he has acquired a protege, that the talked-about future leader is in his camp and that, by golly, if 82-year-old John Diefenbaker cannot be leader of his party he will pretend to hold sway over the pretender to the throne.

This is the same Diefenbaker — still resentful over the fact he was replaced by Robert Stanfield 11 years ago — who made life miserable for the gentlemanly Stanfield through three elections, ignoring him and sniping at him behind the scenes. Before his nomination meeting in Prince Albert last week, he was still doing contemptuous imitations of Stanfield's speech mannerisms for the benefit of reporters.

Before the final ballot at the Tory leadership convention two years ago, you'll recall, Dief made an elaborate show of marching from his seat to the box of Claude Wagner to shake hands and try to prevent the last-ballot victory of Joe Clark.

DIEFENBAKER . . . insatiable appetite for revenge

He failed, and has been plotting revenge ever since. He got it last week, creating a flurry of speculation about Crombie waiting in the wings to catch the falling, blood-stained body of poor Joe before it hits the floor.

The man who claims such regard for Canada proves, once again, that his regard for himself surpasses his loyalty to his party.

The Tories' gift for forming a firing squad in a circle has surfaced even earlier than usual this campaign. Hal Jackman, the prominent Toronto Tory millionaire, at Crombie's nomination meeting in Toronto-Rosedale, made a speech calling the tiny mayor "the next prime minister of Canada." That must be great assurance for Clark, who apparently is under the impression he is still leader of the party and has first crack at that honor.

Friday saw the latest desertion in the long line of Tory front-benchers who have jumped ship rather than serve under Clark. Wagner, accepting the Liberal gift of a seat in the Senate, leaves poor Clark with only two seats in Quebec. Thanks a lot for the timing, Claude.

He is just the latest in a growing list. Jack Horner, of course, fled Clark in return for a Liberal cabinet post. Gordon Fairweather accepted the inducement of a government appointment as human rights commissioner.

A senior finance critic, Jim Gillies, has packed it in because of personal complications. Young Sean Sullivan, another Dief protege, decided he'd rather be a priest than stick with Clark. The Liberals have successfully tempted a Maritime Tory MP by appointing him a judge.

In all, some 20 Tory MPs elected in 1974 — almost one-quarter their total strength — have declined for one reason or another to run this time.

Electronic-laden Trucks Used by Reds for Spying?

By COLIN NARBROUGH

STOCKHOLM — Scandinavian security officials believe that the massive growth of heavy road transport in Europe may be providing the Soviet Union and Eastern bloc countries with the means of using land counterparts to their spy trawlers, freely roaming the roads of Western Europe, electronically gathering valuable military and civil intelligence.

Trucks in transit across most European states are protected by an international agreement that prevents local customs or other authorities investigating their cargoes unless there are very strong grounds for intervention. Vehicles bearing the TIR (Transports Internationales Routiers) plate are sealed by the customs at their point of departure and opened again only on arrival at their destination. In the meantime they can cover thousands of kilometres and cross innumerable international borders.

Major thoroughfares often run near vital military installations or coincide with military training areas. Public roads can also bring traffic within extremely close range of many key diplomatic, economic or intelligence agencies and the large truck can provide an ideal and seemingly innocent monitoring station.

Modern electronic techniques make it possible to pick up almost anything from highly coded radio communications to top secret ministerial backroom chats.

The possibility of a spy truck trail across Scandinavia was commented on cautiously by foreign ministry and defence staff here and in the other Scandinavian capitals after press claims that the Warsaw Pact used their international truck fleet for information gathering.

The Swedish armed forces said they had earlier received reports about electronically equipped trucks from unnamed countries parking in strategic places, especially at sensitive times. But a spokesman added that Sweden still had no definite proof of such activities.

The foreign ministry in Stockholm said that while the government was aware of the spy truck danger the police were allowed to open up seals on vehicles carrying the TIR designation only if they had strong grounds for suspicion. So far there have been no incidents or accidents that would have warranted official intervention.

In Denmark police said they had heard about a Soviet truck in which Danish mechanics found suspicious radio equipment when called out to repair it. But Danish security officials were guarded about the threat and could merely confirm that they were aware of vehicle movements.

Though Scandinavian security men would appear to have known about this spying potential of TIR trucks for some time there does not appear to be much enthusiasm for intervention. Growing trade with Eastern Europe, particularly in Finland, and fears of possible reprisals against Scandinavian trucks on routes behind the Iron Curtain, could explain the seeming complacency.

The Soviet trucks drive from the Russian border west of Leningrad, across Finland to the ferry ports on the Baltic and from there to neutral Sweden. They then cross the country to Denmark, passing through a key strategic area in the event of an East-West conflict. Finally they take the ferry from southern Denmark to East Germany.

A spokesman for a Finnish company that provides maintenance for Soviet trucks told me recently that the drivers never leave their vehicles unmanned at the repair shop and often have rather odd cargoes listed on their way bill. He said that many of them are officially carrying waste paper from Russia to East Germany. But why go via Finland, Sweden and Denmark with this bulk commodity, he wonders.

The official Soviet news agency Tass issued a vitriolic attack on spy truck reports last week, claiming they were the product of the diseased imagination of one suffering from the spy mania so widespread in the West. But the same comment confirmed that Soviet trucks do transport electronic equipment among their other cargoes and are liable to the occasional breakdown.

'Diploma Mills' Have Their Use

By M.E.K.

(From a column in The New Republic)

"Sixty Minutes" recently carried a typically breathless expose of diploma mills in California. The segment showed CBS producers and other patently unlikely types being awarded advanced degrees for nothing more than the payment of a cheque. After each such outrage we would cut to Mike Wallace doing his incredulous number at a California state education official ("Do you mean to tell me . . . ?!?!?"), eliciting the shocking confession that California does almost nothing to regulate the granting of diplomas. Any institution with $50,000 in assets and a statement of educational purpose can grant any kind of degree it wishes to anyone who walks in the door. Mike Wallace never made clear what he objects to about this arrangement. Why should the state participate in the gigantic conspiracy in restraint of trade that is formal education? By devaluing degrees, these diploma mills may force employers and others to rely on more realistic methods of judging people and also free up the human resources now wasted chasing after those little initials.

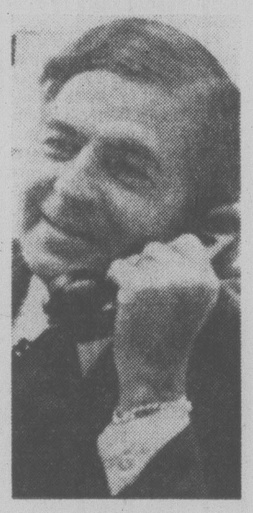

The absurd waste of human brainpower — and taxpayer dollars — caused by degree-chasing and conference-attending come together in the career of a current figure in the news, Murdock Head, MD, JD, DDS. A doctor, a lawyer and a dentist, Dr. Head practises none of these learned professions. Instead he runs a large estate and conference centre called the Airlie Foundation, out in the Virginia horse country south of Washington. He put together an impressive board of trustees, then went into business hustling grants from the government for studies, conferences, panels, the usual. Head now stands accused of hustling too hard, by having greased the palms of congressmen with cash rather than the usual junkets and flattery. It's a pity, because the Virginia countryside is turning green and a nice conference out at Airlie on morality in government would be just the thing.

Wagner: You've Got to be Flexible

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

Now it is Senator Claude Wagner, a man who has, in his time, played many parts.

He first came to public attention as a stern and righteous judge of the Court of Queen's Bench, relentless scourge of underworld corruption. Then, overnight, came high political office: the Ministry of Justice of Quebec under the Liberal government of Premier Jean Lesage, an office that served him as a base from which to launch a blitzkrieg crusade for the preservation and encouragement of the hangman's art. That chapter of Mr. Wagner's career in Liberal politics ended with a performance, as an also-ran, in the nominating convention that chose Robert Bourassa to succeed Mr. Lesage, and with Mr. Wagner's return to the bench.

WAGNER
. . . man of many parts

Mr. Wagner's reputation for political charisma, however, remained surprisingly intact after his Liberal convention defeat, just as his mystique as the champion of law and order survived the growth of a trendy coiffure. Mr. Wagner, once acceptable provision had been made for his security, was chosen to fill Marcel Faribault's shoes as Conservative savior in Quebec. His success in that role was comparable to his success in the Quebec Liberal leadership race. But he demonstrated his ability to land on his feet by running second in the race for the national Conservative leadership.

Having had the second best of both worlds, Liberal and Conservative, Mr. Wagner might have been thought to have run out of fresh and tempting horizons. But, perhaps by the alchemy by which one crass opportunist can unfailingly recognize another, across a crowded room, Mr. Wagner came to the attention of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau as a man who still had something to offer. To be more specific, he could offer a vacancy in the Quebec riding of Ste. Hyacinthe. And Mr. Trudeau, in exchange, could offer a berth in that convenient catch-all known as the Senate.

Every man, it is said, must seek his place. And the truly flexible can seek a whole series of them. As long as Mr. Trudeau is in a position to use the upper house of Parliament as a commodity exchange for party gain, there will always be a market for shopworn loyalties and used principles.

The Folks of Cloudland

Riding the big jets, I studied the culture of airplanes. It is partriarchal. At the head of the airplane, occupying the best seats, sit the pilot and his crew. They are always men. Airplane pilotage is apparently one occupation in which feminists make no claim for equality.

Perhaps it is because women are unable to get the proper nuance of insincere lechery into such preflight utterances as, "And to serve you this morning, we have three beautiful hostesses." As in most male cultures, one is expected to make a genteel pretence at lechery while airborne, but never more than might be appropriate to a gentleman at his club.

The hostesses' form-fitting suits, careful cosmetic work and engaging smiles must not be misinterpreted, however, for the ladies can become disagreeable very rapidly if, say, pinched on the thigh, as one was on a recent flight I took to Florida.

In fact, the stewardess' role is closer to nurse than geisha. She administers drugs, in the form of a wide selection of alcohol, to keep the passengers sedated, and reprimands the unruly who try to walk in the corridor when the pilot has ordered everyone to be still. This order is issued frequently in most airplanes, although usually in genial tones.

One is instructed by amplifier to stay buckled into the seat for one's own safety or because entering the corridors will interfere with the stewardesses' work. Despite the geniality of the tone and the suggestion that the management is genuinely concerned for your well-being, one suspects that the crew also regards the passengers as nuisances to be kept immobilized as much as possible.

Behind the pilot sit the first-class passengers in comfortable seats. Most commonly, they seem to be businessmen travelling on expense accounts.

These men are concerned with establishing their positions in the hierarchical order, which they do by asking each other, "Who are you with?" To be with one of Fortune's 500 biggest corporations is superior to being with yourself. Being with the government is better than being with the government of Biloxi, Miss. And so on. It is very rare for anyone to ask, "What are you interested in?" or "What does it all mean?" Gathering information of this sort is not considered commercially justifiable on an expense account.

Behind the first-class section sit the people who, for the most part, have paid for their own tickets. Their seats are cramped and jammed uncomfortably close together. This is consistent with the national policy that people who do not enjoy tax deductibility must be made to suffer.

At the rear of the airplane, in a ghetto marked by signs, sit the miserable smokers, confined to the back of the cabin by federal fiat and clean-air zealots. These people feel ashamed because their vice is exposed for all to see by the mere fact of their seat assignments.

Their sense of shame, coupled with a natural terror anyone might experience upon being sealed into an oversized metal container and shot through the sky at 550 miles an hour, tends to make them puff at an even faster rate than they do in the privacy of their homes.

Quite commonly, after the stewardesses have sedated everyone with alcohol, passengers are offered trays bearing material which looks as if it should be autopsied. This is the famous airline food, of which so much has been written. Unlike smoking, the eating of this food is permitted any place in the cabin, disgusting though it is to witness people indulge themselves in this squalid vice.

Why persons who desire to consume the contents of these trays are not compelled to ride confined like smokers in degrading sections of the airplane where normal people will not be exposed to their vice is difficult to say. It is one of the logical inconsistencies that make airline culture so curious. Not long ago, on a trip to California, I had to sit next to a man who ate the whole thing — the inert gray matter, the broccoli-colored cardboard splattered with dark yellow mucilage, something that looked like a sponge.

I would have gone back among the smokers for relief, but the pilot had commanded me to stay strapped in place, and in a patriarchal society one does not challenge authority as casually as in wide open spaces which are not moving at 550 miles an hour.

For relief, I begged the stewardess for a strong drug called brandy, but she refused. I had already taken the limit, which was two. The airplane is like a father. It does not want sedation to become addiction. It would have been dangerous to make a scene. Armed federal policemen ride the airplanes in civilian clothes to deal with makers of scenes.

The stewardess asked the eater how he liked his dinner. "Fine," he said. He probably didn't dare say anything else.

Aquitaine

Aquitaine Co. of Canada Ltd. will pay a dividend of 39 cents a share on or about June 1 to shareholders of record May 5.

Placer Dev.

Placer Development Ltd. reported net earnings for the three months ended March 31 of $3.7 million or 31 cents a share, compared with $7.4 million or 61 cents a share for the same period last year.

President R. G. Duthie said the decline in earnings was due primarily to a loss by Gibraltar Mines Ltd. and to substantially reduced earnings by Mattagami Lake Mines Ltd., resulting from continued depressed prices for copper and zinc. Placer holds interests in both companies.

Duthie said that despite generally poor world economic conditions, the demand for molybdenum has remained strong and this product now is an important contributer to Placer's earnings.

Westcoast

Westcoast Petroleum Ltd. reported earnings of $2,086,000, or 30.9 cents a share for the first quarter of 1978, compared with $1,511,000, or 22.4 cents a share in the same period last year.

Revenue was $6,834,000, compared with $5,042,000.

business

Westcoast Transmission Co., of Vancouver, has a 57.6 voting interest in the Calgary-based company, which held its annual meeting here Friday.

Oil production in the first quarter averaged 2,316 barrels a day, and gas production 37.4 million cubic feet a day, said R. H. Lawrence, company president.

"This is a gain of 74 per cent for oil production and a 24 per cent increase in gas production over the first quarter of 1977," he said.

C. Cellulose

Canadian Cellulose Co. Ltd. reported a sharp drop in sales and earnings for the first quarter of 1978.

Donald Watson, president and chief executive officer, told the company's annual meeting profits fell to $551,000 or five cents a share, compared with $3.4 million or 28 cents a share in the same period last year.

Sales were $38.6 million compared with $41 million.

Watson said the reduced performance continues to reflect the low price of kraft pulp.

Electrohome

Electrohome Ltd. reported a loss of $3.1 million in 1977 compared with a loss of $8 million the previous year.

James Holmes, chairman, said in the annual report to shareholders the 1977 loss included an extraordinary net loss of $19,000 and the 1976 figure included a $2.8-million extraordinary loss.

The 1977 loss included a $463,000 loss related to the disposition of a manufacturing facility in Malaysia, partly offset by a net gain of $444,000 on the sale of surplus buildings, machinery and equipment in Canada.

The 1976 figure included an extraordinary loss of $2.9 million related to the realignment of operations and inventories.

Holmes said the fourth-quarter operating loss in 1977 was $194,000 compared with a loss of $1.8 million in the last three months of 1976.

Consolidated sales in 1977 totalled $92.1 million, down from $93.7 million the previous year.

A refinancing program announced last December restored the company's working capital to a satisfactory level, Holmes said.

Scott Paper

Scott Paper Ltd. reported record profits and sales for the first quarter of 1978.

George O'Leary, company chairman, told shareholders that profits rose 11.2 per cent to $1,051,000 or $1.31 a share, compared with $945,000 or $1.18 a share in the same quarter last year. Sales went up 8.3 per cent to $29,683,000 compared with $27,411,000.

?'Leary said the encouraging results were due to well-balanced sales and the benefits of cost control measures and efficiency gains which offset cost increases.

C. Cablesystems

Canadian Cablesystems Ltd. of Toronto decided after its annual meeting to raise its dividend, a move it had discussed but not passed at the annual meeting earlier in the day.

Directors had talked about an increase in the dividend to 11 cents a share from 9.5 cents for shareholders of record June 16, 1978.

After the meeting, directors realized that they had distributed news releases announcing the increased dividends, along with the company's six-month results. After the error was caught, a meeting was held and the increase was passed.

Profit, including equity in Famous Players Ltd., was $5.7 million or $1.42 a share for the six months ended Feb. 28, 1978, compared with $2.9 million or 72.6 cents a share a year ago.

Profit from cable operations in the first half was $2.97 million or 74.1 cents a share, compared with $1.98 million or 49.6 cents a share a year ago.

Revenue from cable operations in the first half was $17.6 million compared with $12.5 million a year ago.

Griffiths said gross cable revenue for the year should be close to $34 million.

Voyager Pete

Company president Sydney Kahanoff said sales contracts Voyager has with TransCanada PipeLines Ltd. is providing an insulation against the general industry-wide problem of a lack of markets.

The market situation will prevent Voyager from reaching its productive capacity for much of this year but its "take-or-pay" contracts ensure that TransCanada will pay for the minimum volume of gas covered by the contracts, he said.

The contracts require TransCanada to pay for a minimum quantity of gas even if it does not actually receive the fuel—a feature which Kahanoff said is to Voyager's financial advantage since the payments represent advanced money for gas which will be delivered later.

Kahanoff said he expects gas sales will increase this year over the 1977 level of 48 million cubic feet daily but will fall short of the company's production capacity.

Voyager reported a net income of $10.5 million or $1.34 a share in 1977 compared with $6 million or 77 cents a share in 1976.

Cdn.Merrill

Gross production revenue for the first quarter ended March 31 increased 62 per cent to $6,065,000 from $3,752,000 for the same period in 1977, Canadian Merrill Ltd. said.

In a news release, the company said earnings before extraordinary items increased to $901,000 or 32.7 cents a dhare from $553,000 or 26.7 cents a shre in 1977.

Net earnings after extraordinary items increased to $901,000 or 32.7 cents a share from $758,000 or 36.6 cents a share in 1977.

Opening new doors to small business.

Make more of tomorrow.

The future doesn't come with a written guarantee. Not even if you're more intelligent than average. And have the will to succeed.

But we can give you an edge. The professional edge.

With the only study program designed specifically to prepare you for the profession of Management Accounting.

You will gain more than a thorough grasp of accounting, information systems and cost analysis. We also provide a broad range of management skills and insights.

So you learn to work with figures from the management viewpoint. To help plan future developments. Compare alternatives. Monitor progress. And measure results.

That's why so many men and women who earn accreditation as RIA Management Accountants also earn a central role on the management team.

As you'd expect, it's a demanding study program.

Professional scope and opportunity never come easy. It typically requires five or six years of evening lectures or home study combined with on-the-job experience. But many students who have completed equivalent post-secondary studies have finished the RIA program in less than two years. And you benefit long before graduation because you apply during the day, what you learn during the evening.

B.C. Steel in Recession

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite a temporary reprieve in the imposition of import duties, the British Columbia steel industry has lost a large portion of its traditional Alberta market to Ontario producers and is suffering because of a sluggish economy, industry officials say.

"This is the worst I have seen in 20 years in the business," said Julius Bekei, president of Zenith Steel which is operating with a crew of 15 compared with 150 last November.

Gordon Ward-Hall, general manager of the Western Bridge Division of Canron Ltd. says his company's workforce of 310 will decrease by half in the next three months.

Several other small fabricators have gone into receivership or declared bankruptcy in the last 18 months, said Ward-Hall.

"Largely, this is due to the sluggish economy," he said. "There is not enough work to go around.

"But, as well, a big chunk of our market in Alberta has gone to Eastern fabricators."

Ontario producers recently won two contracts in Alberta, worth a total of $10 million, said Ward-Hall.

B.C. fabricators have complained for years that they cannot service Alberta if they do not have access to foreign steel markets. The cost of transporting steel from Ontario, they argue, pushes them out of competition.

A 30-per-cent duty on foreign steel was imposed last fall, but B.C. producers said this has forced them to depend on Canada's only producer of wide-flange steel, Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. of Sault Ste. Marie.

Arguing that they had never been part of Algoma's market, B.C. producers were granted a temporary reprieve on quotas until June 29. The provincial government is pressing for a permanent solution to the problem, but have not received a decision from the federal government.

Plane Crashes

Charged Man Skips Country?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three people have been charged with conspiring to import cocaine, but only one of them appeared in provincial court here Tuesday.

Daniel Kazakoff, 31, who was remanded in custody Tuesday, is charged along with Richard Scott Lennie, 43, of Saltspring Island and Thomas Purakal, 31, of Vancouver.

Police said Lennie is believed to have fled the country while Purakal is serving a three-year sentence in Florida after being convicted in January of possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking.

The charges are connected with the seizure of 332 grams of high-grade cocaine in Miami last November. Police said the cocaine was destined for the Vancouver market and had an estimated street value of $90,000.

Milk Producers Recoup

VANCOUVER (CP) — Producers of industrial and fluid milk will get back 58 cents a hectolitre (100 litres) May 1. The money was taken away from them earlier this year by the federal Anti-Inflation Board.

The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture's legal counsel decided that the rollback had no legal foundation, so the 58 cents will be reinstated, says Garth Green of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

The price of agricultural products at the farm gate was supposed to be let alone by the Anti-Inflation Board Green said Monday. The board objected to the formula by which the price is worked out each month by the B.C. Milk Board.

Approved Budget Cut

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Kamloops school district, which had its original budget proposal increased by more than $2 million by the provincial ministry of education, has decided to cut the approved budget by $637,000, says district comptroller Jim Sheldon.

Sheldon said Monday the decrease will be accomplished by a $437,000 reduction in equipment and capital expenditure and $200,000 saved in salaries when 10 teachers who are leaving are not replaced.

Bill Mercer, school board finance chairman, said the taxpayers could have proabably afforded the increase, but "somewhere, someone has to say enough is enough."

"We've been well above the provincial average in mill rate for a number of years," Mercer said. "This town isn't growing very fast and maybe it's because of the high tax rate."

Double Slaying

KELOWNA (CP) — Leonard White, 49, of Kelowna, was charged with two counts of second degree murder Tuesday in connection with the fatal shootings of his wife and stepson Monday night.

The bodies of Audrey White, 43, and Robert Terry Graves, 21, were found on the driveway of their home.

Seaman Missing

PORT ALICE (CP) — Police were searching Tuesday for the body of Yugoslavian seaman Ivan Migar, 23, missing and presumed drowned after a pleasure-boat accident Sunday.

Police said Migar and two others from the Yugoslavian-registered M.V. Horotan, were in a pleasure boat on Victoria Lake, five kilometres east of this northwestern Vancouver Island community, when the craft overturned.

IWA Voted Out

BURNS LAKE (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America lost both a contract vote and its plant certification as the result of a weekend decision by workers at Decker Lake Forest Products Ltd. near here.

The workers voted 80 per cent against accepting a first contract with the mill.

The British Columbia Labor Relations Board ruled in March that the if the 58 workers did not vote for either acceptance of the contract or in favor of strike action, certification would be cancelled.

The board made the ruling when it rejected an appeal by dissident workers to cancel the certification or grant them a representative vote.

IWA vice-president Bob Blanchard, who negotiated the contract, said it now was up to the union local to decide what course of action to follow.

NUDE DANCING HIT

DELTA (CP) — Mayor Tom Goode says he will meet this week with management of the Scottsdale Inn pub to see what can be done to curtail the enthusiasm of female patrons who have been taking off their clothes and dancing with nude male dancers.

"I suggest there are limits to what we can allow in our community," the mayor told council Monday. "It (the conduct of the women) has been witnessed by some of the most outstanding people in the community."

Aldermen Bill Reid and Ernie Burnett said the police should investigate the performances. The pub limits the audience to women when the men perform.

Goode said in an interview that while he didn't approve of male strippers, it was the dancing with the women patrons that was most offensive.

He said he was told the conduct of the women customers "was more boisterous than when a female strips."

Similar entertainment is offered in nearby New Westminster, the mayor said, and apparently the Scottsdale Inn feels it must compete. He said he had 14 complaint calls about the performances.

Westcoast Argues New Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — Westcoast Transmission Co. said Tuesday it could save 6.7 billion cubic feet of gas a year if allowed to lay a new pipeline parallel to 388 kilometres of its existing natural gas line from Chetwynd to Huntingdon in northeastern B.C.

Westcoast said the double pipeline, called a looped line, would require less power to move the gas to market.

The 12 pumping stations along the line are driven by gas from the line itself, and Westcoast said five of them could be shut down if the line was looped.

The company said the saving "is in the public interest since it is the stated policy of the federal and provincial governments that energy conservation is a priority need."

B.C. Petroleum Corp., which supplies Westcoast with gas, B.C. Hydro and Inland Natural Gas Co., both Westcoast customers, the Union of B.C. Indian Chiefs and the Attorney-General's department opposed the application for a parallel line at a National Energy Board hearing Tuesday.

C.M.M. Goldie, legal counsel for Inland, said his client opposed the application because there do not appear to be shortfalls in the gas supply.

RCMP 'Pulled Me by Hair'

NANAIMO (CP) — A Vancouver man testified in county court Tuesday that an RCMP officer dragged him by the hair into the police detachment office at Ladysmith last year after he was arrested for being drunk.

Robert Raymond Simms told the court that he was getting out of a patrol car at the police building when Constable Dave Downey grabbed him by the hair and said "let's go."

Downey, along with RCMP constables Bruce Waite and William Van Wormer, is charged with assault causing bodily harm to Simms on Oct. 2, 1977.

Simms, a Vancouver apartment manager, testified he consumed seven bottles of beer in a Ladysmith hotel and was later arrested by Downey on a nearby street.

He said he was driven a short distance to the RCMP office, and the incident occured after he got out of the patrol car.

Simms said he could not remember if he was able to walk at this time, but said "when you are being pushed and dragged and your hair is being pulled in such a manner, it is hard to say if you are on your feet."

Alexander Brown of Ladysmith, who was in the police station after being arrested on a charge of impaired driving, said he saw one man dragging another by the hair around a corner. He did not specify if one of the men was a police officer.

Simms said he was held in jail overnight and the following morning went to Ladysmith General Hospital for a checkup.

Milfoil Weed Spreading

A provincial government report released Tuesday says the spread of Eurasian milfoil weed in the Okanagan Lakes system has more than doubled since 1975.

The report says that by 1977 there were 586 hectares of lake bottom affected by the weed, compared with 238 hectares two years previous.

Okanagan Lake was hardest hit with 405 hectares of lake bottom affected by the milfoil. In 1975, there were 233 hectares suffering from the weed.

At Vaseux Lake, there were 75 hectares affected by milfoil in 1977, compared with only one hectare in 1975.

Skaha Lake's milfoil problem grew almost 18 times in the period, with last year's total reaching 71 hectares.

The spread of milfoil in Kalamalka Lake grew to 10 hectares from three-tenths of a hectare; in Osoyoos Lake, 25 hectares were affected by the weed which was not present in 1975.

The government intends to use the herbicide 2,4-D to control milfoil this summer. As well, various mechanical methods are planned to combat the weed.

The report says that no detectable concentration of the herbicide could be found in the water 10 days after its use.

Meanwhile, four more permits have been issued for the use of 2,4-D to cover about 100 acres in Okanagan and Skaha lakes.

Getting A Close-Up Look at Nature

Spring is probably the best time of year to be outside exploring and the hardest time to sit in the classroom.

But teachers have thankfully discovered the Swan Lake Christmas Hill nature centre, a good place to learn about the outdoors.

There are enough birds, bugs, mice and frogs living on the 100-acres nature centre to capture the attention of any inquisitive child.

Several groups of children from Sir James Douglas elementary school spent the afternoon there recently.

They walked the trails, looked under rocks and examined the lake for living creatures.

The student got the chance to learn about the nature as part of the Greater Victoria school district's outdoor education program.

Two classes from the school took part in the two-hour nature study, under the supervision of Heather Crampton, a naturalist for the district.

Trips to Swan Lake, located in Saanich near the junction of Douglas and McKenzie St., have been part of the program for the last two years.

The outdoor education program itself has been in existance for five years.

While at the park, students had a chance to observe wild birds and small animals in their natural habitat.

The nature reserve was started by the Saanich municipality three years ago and has since been taken over by a non-profit society.

The park is a wintering area for ducks and other wild birds as well as a quiet place for a family walk, according to resident naturalist Grace Barclay.

It's available to the public at all times and the naturalist's office is open weekdays.

The public is free to walk the many short trails in the reserve, but picnicing is discouraged, Barclay says. The park must be kept as natural and unspoiled as possible.

It is located on Swan Lake Road, which can be reached by following Ralph Road. Ralph runs parallel to McKenzie, Barclay explained.

Students fill the float where specimens from Swan Lake are collected.

Adrienne Mennell (foreground) and Ruth Gates scoop up specimens from Swan Lake for study.

EYES ON PUCK, Yvon Lambert of Montreal Canadiens watches his shot deflect off pad of Detroit Red Wings' goaltender Ron Low during first period of National Hockey League quarter-final game Tuesday in Montreal. Canadiens went on to win game 4-2 and take best-of-seven series, 4-1. Game ended a much-improved season for Red Wings. (CP Wirephoto).

Islanders In Lead

Flyers, Habs Move Ahead

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens beat Detroit Red Wings 4-2 Tuesday night for a 4-1 win in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final series, spelling the bitter end to an extremely sweet National Hockey League season for Detroit.

This year saw the Red Wings win 16 more games than the last, lose 21 fewer, improve offensively and defensively, and, of course, make the playoffs for the first time in eight seasons.

The record book doesn't have time for such things, but Detroit coach Bobby Kromm had time to tell anyone who'd listen.

"We accomplished a lot of things this season which people did not think we would do," he said. "We surprised a lot of people around the NHL and probably ourselves. We gave the Canadiens everything they could handle and I think they would be the first to admit that."

Philadelphia Flyers also wrapped up their quarter-final with Buffalo, beating the Sabres 4-2 and winning the series 4-1. In the other quarter-final game Tuesday night, Bob Nystrom's goal at 8:02 of overtime gave New York Islanders a 2-1 triumph over Toronto Maple Leafs and a 3-2 lead in their series.

"We certainly had our hands full right to the end," said Montreal's Doug Jarvis, whose third-period goals paced the Canadiens' triumph.

"That team gave us a heckuva battle, which we really didn't expect," added Montreal defenceman Serge Savard. "We knew they were better than last year but we didn't think they would give us that much resistance."

They resisted enough to win the second game of the series in the Canadiens' Montreal Forum and rally twice Tuesday night to earn a 2-2 tie after two periods.

Jarvis's second goal of the contest, at 1:37 of the third period, broke Detroit's final tie of the season. But it didn't break their spirit.

"We could have won the game as well as the Canadiens," claimed Kromm. "We had as much right to win the game as Montreal did. We had the chances and it just wasn't there."

Just 14 seconds after making a mistake that resulted in a Buffalo goal, Philadelphia right winger Paul Holmgren snapped a tie and sent the Flyers to their series-clinching victory over the Sabres.

Holmgren's flip pass from behind the net hit the stick of Buffalo's Gil Perreault and deflected to the Sabres' Terry Martin, who scored from 10 feet.

"I was mad at myself," said Holmgren, who atoned with a shot that beat Buffalo goalie Don Edwards at 11:07. "It sure made me feel better."

The goal made it 3-2 Philadelphia and Don Saleski added a third-period score for the Flyers' second series triumph in two post-season meetings with the Sabres. The other time the teams met, the Flyers won in six games to take the 1975 Stanley Cup.

Buffalo, meanwhile, suffered its third consecutive quarter-final elimination since losing the final to the Flyers. They have lost 12 of their last 13 quarter-final games.

Nystrom, who had four goals in his 42 playoff games prior to the series against Toronto, capped a long dash by scoring his third of the set to give New York its second overtime triumph of the series.

He picked up the puck at the faceoff circle in his own end, rushed up ice, faked past defenceman Brian Glennie at the Toronto blue line and blasted a 20-foot shot past Mike Palmateer.

The goal could not blemish the phenomenal performance Palmateer had turned in. The Islanders took 10 shots—more than half from five feet or less—during a power play lasting three minutes and 14 seconds late in the third period, and Palmateer flipped, dived, lunged and kicked to stop them all.

He made a miraculous stop on Billy Harris from 10 feet at 6:54 of the overtime but was overpowered by Nystrom's drive. Lanny McDonald could have won the game for Toronto at 6:05 of the overtime, but hit the post of the yawning net with goalie Glenn Resch far out of position.

Defencemen Ian Turnbull of the Maple Leafs and Denis Potvin of the Islanders had traded second-period goals for the tie broken by Nystrom's score.

FRED SHERO
. . . headed for Vancouver?

Shero, Bowman On Move?

EDMONTON (CP) — The Sun says veteran National Hockey League coaches Scotty Bowman of Montreal Canadiens and Fred Shero of Philadelphia Flyers will be key figures in a large shuffle of coaches before next season.

The morning newspaper says Bowman, 44, will move to St. Louis Blues while Shero, 52, will shift to Vancouver Canucks. Bowman would replace Jean-Guy Talbot as coach of the Blues with Shero taking the job recently vacated when the Canucks dismissed Orland Kurtenbach.

Sounders Win Third

SEATTLE (AP) — Midfielder Tommy Jenkins' two first-half assists tied a club record as Seattle Sounders defeated Chicago Sting 3-0 in the only North American Soccer League game played Tuesday night.

The Sounders scored all their goals in the first half, before a Kingdome crowd of 18,927 as they claimed their third victory against three losses.

Chicago has not won this season in five tries.

PLAYERS HAVE SOMETHING TO PROVE

Team Canada To Try Harder

PRAGUE (CP) — A group of red-jacketed men with "We Try Harder" buttons on their lapels milled around the lobby of the hotel where Team Canada is billeted.

They were representatives of a well-known auto rental firm but the slogan might apply equally to the red-coated Canadian hockey team.

Coming as they do from the teams that either missed the National Hockey League playoffs or were eliminated in the first round, they feel they have something to prove when the world hockey championships get under way today.

They're young—average age 25—and only five of the 20 players took part in last year's championship in which Team Canada finished fourth.

But they're also proud. Thirteen players were first-round draft choices. For example, rookie defenceman Bob Picard was picked third by Washington Capitals in last year's NHL draft and Brad Maxwell, another rookie defenceman, went to Minnesota North Stars as the No. 7 pick.

Team officials feel four others would have been first-round choices if they had been involved in the draft.

While the youthful defence corps remains a question mark, although it played well in pre-tournament exhibitions, the four forward lines appear to pack devastating punch.

Pat Hickey of New York Rangers and Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh Penguins were 40-goal scorers, six others scored more than 30—Guy Charron of Washington and Bob MacMillan of Atlanta Flames 38 each, Denis Maruk of Cleveland Barons and Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles Kings 36, Garry Unger of St. Louis Blues 32 and Wilf Paiement of Colorado Rockies 31.

Tom Lysiak of Atlanta, who Achilles tendon injury appears to have healed, scored 27, Glen Sharpley of Minnesota North Stars 22, Mike Murphy of Los Angeles 20 and Don Lever of Vancouver Canucks 17.

Maxwell, a good point man on the power play, scored 18 goals as a defenceman with Minnesota and Rick Hampton, who played left wing for Cleveland but is on defence here, had 18.

The goalkeeping appears solid. Dan Bouchard of Atlanta, who had a good 2.75 goals-against average while winning 25, losing 12 and tying 19, was beaten only three times in three exhibition games, all fluke goals.

And Denis Herron of Pittsburgh, who had a 3.75 average, has been sharp.

Head coach Harry Howell, who admits he likes statistics, points to the fact that the players on this team scored 109 power play goals this season. The top power play club in the NHL was New York Rangers with 78.

Team Canada has six players among its forwards who are normally centres and Howell feels this provides versatility in event of injuries.

The tournament opens today but the Canadians don't play their first game until Thursday when they meet Finland. They face East Germany on Friday, the United States on Sunday and West Germany on Monday.

Then they have two days of rest before getting into what should be the toughest part of a well-spaced schedule. They play defending champion Czechoslovakia on Thursday, May 4, have a day off before meeting Sweden, Saturday, and another day before playing the Soviet Union on Monday, May 8.

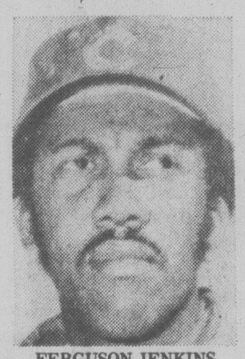

The eight teams then will be split into A and B groups with the top four playing another round-robin starting May 10 to determine the championship.

SOUTH AFRICA OUT OF MAJOR TENNIS

JOHANNESBURG (AFP) — South Africa's all-white tennis union announced today it would not take part in next year's Davis Cup or in the 1978 Federation Cup for women.

Union chairman Glen Franklin said the decision had been taken with regret and under protest.

He said the reason was that the union now believed that North American teams would not get government approval to play South Africa's women players registering for the Federation Cup tournament in November and December in Australia.

FERGUSON JENKINS
. . . returns to old form

Jenkins Just Loves That Texas Weather

By The Associated Press

When the wind is blowing right and the pitchers are throwing right, Arlington Stadium in Texas can be a wasteland for hitters.

No wonder Ferguson Jenkins is happy to be home on the range again.

"It's nice being back and pitching in this park," the right-hander said Tuesday night after his four-hitter led Texas Rangers to a 4-1 American League baseball victory over Kansas City Royals.

The win was Jenkins' first for Texas since the Rangers reacquired the Chatham, Ont., native from Boston Red Sox this year—and a sweet one it was, too, considering that he had been used strictly as a relief pitcher up until Tuesday night.

"I think I proved tonight I can still pitch," said the 35-year-old Jenkins, back with a team for which he won 25 games in 1974. "Boston didn't score very many runs for me last year."

The resilient Jenkins was untouchable for six innings. He had a perfect game until Willie Wilson lined a clean single to centre leading off the seventh inning.

"I've been around long enough to know you have to be awfully lucky to pitch a no-hitter," said Jenkins, a 14-year veteran in the major leagues. "Wilson hit an inside slider on me."

Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, for one, is happy to see Jenkins back in a Rangers' uniform.

"He threw the ball like he did in '74," Sundberg said. "He had tremendous velocity and his slider was really breaking."

Added Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog: "Jenkins just did a hell of a job, and as far as I'm concerned, he is still a master craftsman."

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland A's swept a doubleheader from Minnesota Twins, 5-3 and 4-3 in 14 innings; New York Yankees beat Baltimore Orioles 4-3; Boston Red Sox edged Milwaukee Brewers 4-3; Cleveland Indians turned back Toronto Blue Jays 6-5; Detroit Tigers stopped Chicago White Sox 8-4 in 10 innings and California Angels blanked Seattle Mariners 3-0.

Change Rules, FIFA Tells U.S.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The United States was warned Wednesday its soccer players may be barred from all international competitions, including the World Cup, unless the North American Soccer League (NASL) changes its rules of play.

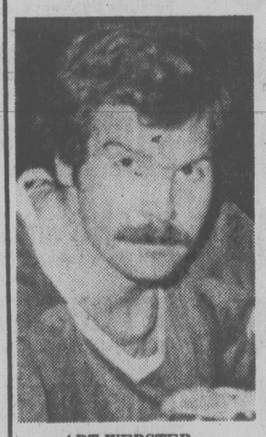

The warning was issued by the International Federation of Football Associations (FIFA), the world body of soccer.

Rene Courte, FIFA press chief, said the organization would consider suspending the NASL unless it adjusted internal rules of play to comply with world-wide standards laid down by FIFA.

Such a suspension, he said, would include a ban on U.S. participation in the World Cup, the Olympic soccer tournament and the World Youth competition.

Among U.S. deviations from FIFA rules of play is a contentious "offside" system, beginning at a line 30 yards from the opponent's" goal line instead of the standard concept which says a player can be offside anywhere within his opponent's half of the field.

ROCKS IN A BOX FOR BOXLA OPENER

ART WEBSTER
. . . not cleared by OLA

Victoria Shamrocks are in a slight fix on one week before their Western Lacrosse Association season opener.

Two players who joined the Irish from Brampton Excelsiors of the Ontario Lacrosse Association — Art Webster and Gord Lyons — still haven't obtained their releases and may have to sit out the opener against Vancouver Burrards next Wednesday at Memorial Arena.

Shamrock president Fred Wooster said Tuesday the team has applied for the releases through the Canadian Lacrosse Association but the Brampton team is balking because several of its players have moved to the WLA and under CLA rules, only one player per team may be transferred each season.

Wooton said the Sharmocks have applied for one outright release and one transfer.

Goalkeeper Scott Marshall, formerly with Fergus Thistles of the OLA, has joined the Shamrocks but officials expect no difficulty obtaining his release.

Irish coach Nirmal Dillon has 28 players in camp now and must cut the roster to 21 at least 48 hours before the league opener.

Softball Season Opens With Rush at Weekend

Softball gets underway on all fronts in the Greater Victoria area this weekend.

Victoria Budgets, the senior "A" men's squad formerly known as Victoria Bate, will sport a new look while facing Port Alberni All-Stars in an exhibition doubleheaders starting at 7 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

Budgets will wear their new brilliant orange uniforms with black and white trim for the first time.

The team now has four pitchers on staff with the return of hefty Stan Kern, who has recovered from injury problems that plagued him last season. The other righthanders are holdover Andy Konopacki and newcomers Larry Cole and Dave Wilson.

Cole, who pitched for Bate one season a couple of years ago, and Wilson, a 22-year-old from Oshawa Tony's of the Ontario Fastball Association, will try to make up for the loss of veteran Dave Ruthowski, who returned home to Peterborough after several outstanding seasons with the Victoria squad.

Cole pitched for Juan de Fuca of the Stuffy McGinnis League for one season and will be joined on Budgets by former clubmate Rob Coldwell, a rookie infielder.

Also joining Budgets from the Stuffy McGinnis League are infielder Randy Benn, another former Bate player; outfielder Dennis Eckert, formerly with Victoria Athletics; and catcher-outfielder Alden Govenlock, a standout with Sooke Merchants.

Returning players are catcher Bob Burrows, first-baseman Pete Songhurst, second-baseman Carl Walker, third-baseman John Green, shortstop Bob Holness and outfielders Reg Underwood and Dave Williams.

Not returning are Ken Bate, now residing in Nanaimo; Jim McMillan, an assistant coach with Vancouver Thirsk '79ers; and Norm McLeod, now coaching in New Westminster.

Harvey Stevenson, who takes over from Joe Patterson as coach, will be available for pinch-hitting duties and will has some help in the coaching department from newcomers Jim Buchan and Stan Emerick.

In addition to exhibition games against Port Alberni, Abbotsford, Vancouver, Springfield Missouri C.M.I., Aurora of Illinois, Santa Rosa Barons of California, Yakima, Portland and Billard Sunners of Reading, Penn., Budgets will compete in a 32-game schedule in the Seattle Nor'West League.

Other members of the league are Seattle Peterbilts, B&I Sports of Tacoma, Westside Federal of Seattle and Woodenville of Seattle.

Meanwhile, three local men's leagues and a women's league open play Sunday.

Stuffy McGinnis League play opens at 1 p.m. at Central Park, Heywood Avenue Men's League teams open at 1 p.m. at Heywood Avenue Park and Sidney Softball Association play begins at noon at Sanscha Park.

The Victoria Senior Women's League has a full slate of games beginning at 11 a.m. at Hyacinth Park.

SUNDAY OPENERS

Akamina-Kishinena Area Merits Park Designation

OUTDOORS
stewart lang

I know the Environment and Land Use Committee has a lot on its plate right now — but some things are pressing.

One of the decisions which should be made immediately concerns the disposition of the Akamina-Kishinena valley in southeastern British Columbia.

This remote valley in the West Kootenay region is noted for its wilderness values, which spurred recommendations for parks status in 1917 and 1927 to offer a measure of protection to its alpine meadows, caves, sunken lakes, glaciers and other interesting geological formations.

The area adjoins Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park and shares with the two national parks some key habitat for two endangered wildlife species, the Northern Rocky Mountain wolf and the Grizzly bear.

In 1956 the provincial lands management branch established a 25,000-acre land reserve on the area under the Lands Act, dedicated to the "use, recreation and enjoyment of the public."

Recently, the parks branch entered the picture by submitting a proposal to the government to create a 35,000-acre class "A" provincial park on the site.

Unfortunately, the forest service and ministry of mines and petroleum resources also have their eyes on the region.

The forest service wants to log the area to extract Lodgepole pines before the trees are "destroyed" by an infestation of mountain pine beetle.

Perhaps they forget that pine beetles have been infesting the forests of British Columbia since time immemorial. The policy in the adjacent parks has been to let the beetles run their course, letting them wax and wane naturally with the passage of time.

The logging operation is incompatable with wilderness and recreational values and presents a grave danger to the critical wildlife habitat. Maximizing access through an extensive road system would also threaten the remaining wilderness values with overuse and create additional pressures on the already overused Waterton Lakes National Park next door.

Road building would also pose a pollution threat to the stream systems and the attendant fisheries values in the area.

And, if the threat of logging isn't enough, the mines and petroleum resources ministry has granted an oil and natural gas permit to Shell Canada which takes in about 5,000 acres of the land reserve.

Neither mining exploration nor subsequent production does a thing to enhance wilderness values.

Both the forest service and mines department seem to hold the existing land reserve in rather low esteem, which brings up a few sticky questions about the value of portions of the Land Act.

I suggest the ELUC address itself to the problem post-haste and get on with the job of creating a park.

The people of not only British Columbia, but the rest of Canada and the United States have a vested interest in the outcome.

NIBBLES: Steelheaders are reminded that their punchcards, which expired March 31, should be sent to the fish and wildlife branch . . . The information gleaned from these punchcards is vital to the management of steelhead in this province.

Wests Go For Double

Victoria West will attempt to add the Price Cup to its trophy collection while facing Victoria Athletics in the first division playoff final of the Vancouver Island Soccer League tonight at Royal Athletic Park.

Game time is 7:30.

Wests have already claimed the McGavin Cup, emblematic of the league title, while Athletics have come on strong in the second half of the season and rate as favorites in the Jackson Cup final Saturday against Cosmopolitan Royals at Royal Athletic.

League scoring champion Rob Williams will spearhead the Wests' attack. He took the title by scoring twice in the final league game against Villas in Powell River and notched three in the semi-final victory over UVic Vikings last weekend.

Dave Williams, no relation to Rob, stepped into the A's lineup last weekend to replace injured George Pakos and scored twice in the semi-final win over Duncan.

Two-Year Pact

BOSTON (AP) — To the surprise of no one, Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox' amazing 38-year-old left fielder, is signed up through the 1979 American League baseball season. Yastrzemski recently signed a new two-year contract.

Spurs Run, Gun, Win

By The Associated Press

San Antonio Spurs, known for running and gunning, used that formula to stay in contention in the National Basketball Association playoffs, while Denver Nuggets called on their pride to bounce back from an embarrassing defeat.

"We've got to run to win," said forward Mike Green, a recent addition to the starting linup who scored 18 points as the Spurs got their running game going, hit 52 percent of their shots and beat Washington Bullets 116-105 in San Antonio Tuesday night.

It was a must win for San Antonio, which now trails Washington 3-2 in their best-of-seven quarter-final playoff series. Washington can wrap it up Friday night at home, where the Spurs have never won.

"This puts a great deal of pressure on us now," said Washington coach Dick Motta.

"If we have an 11-man effort in Washington Friday night like we had tonight, the Bullets are in trouble," said San Antonio's George Gervin, who led all scorers with 27 points. "We've got to keep running."

Denver, meanwhile, beat Milwaukee Bucks 118-104 at Milwaukee. The Nuggets leads that series 3-1 and can close it out at home Friday night.

"We all watched the film of Sunday's game and it was tough," said Denver coach Larry Brown, referring to the 143-112 pasting the Nuggets suffered at Milwaukee. "We heard the commentary and we saw the expressions on the Milwaukee players' faces when they were introduced and how the crowd got them all hyped up. I heard Marques (Johnson, Milwaukee's rookie forward) say the word 'pride' before Sunday's game, and we appealed to that tonight.

"It was a lot of pride and execution."

Tonight, Seattle SuperSonics, leading 2-1, play host to the defending champion Portland Trail Blazers.

Ace Globetrotter Stabbed by Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Meadowlark Lemon, one of the clown stars of the Harlem Globetrotters basketball team, was stabbed in the back on a Manhattan street Tuesday evening while a policeman stood nearby, police said.

A police spokesman said Lemon, 45, was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where a five-inch steak knife was removed from his back. He was listed in stable condition.

Police said Lemon's wife, Willye Lemon, 40, was charged with first-degree assault.

The police report of the incident said Lemon, of Sierra Vista, Ariz., was driving his car down Second Ave. and his wife was following him in another car.

"She kept hitting the back of his car with hers," said a police spokesman. "He spotted two officers at the corner of 53rd Street and Second (in midtown Manhattan), stopped the car and approached them to tell them to get his wife away from him."

As she approached the officers, Mrs. Lemon ran from her car and stabbed him in the back, police said. She was arrested and taken to the 17th Precinct.

Mrs. Lemon gives her home address as Fairfield, Conn.

Hammers Keep Slim Hope

LONDON (Reuter) — Nottingham Forest, already assured of the English Football League championship, added two more points to its total Tuesday while at the other end of the table West Ham United improved their prospects of First-Division survival.

An own goal by Ipswich Town's Paul Mariner and another score by Frank Clark gave Nottingham Forest a 2-0 win at Ipswich and a total of 61 points from 39 matches.

West Ham hit back after conceeding a 19th-minute goal at Middlesbrough, and two goals by David Cross gave it a 2-1 win and a fighting chance of staying in the First Division.

Queen's Park Rangers, also in the danger zone, could only draw 0-0 at home to Birmingham City after Stan Bowles had missed scoring for them from the penalty sport in the 37th minute. He hit the upright.

With Newscastle United and Leicester City already condemned to play in the Second Division next season, several other clubs are involved in a tense struggle to escape the third relegation spot.

Wolverhampton Wanderers have 30 points from 39 games, Chelsea 31 from 38, West Ham 32 from 41 matches and Queen's Park Ranges 32 from 40.

Second-Division leaders Southampton took a further step towards a place in the First Division when it shared a hard-fought 1-1 draw with relegation-threatened Orient on Orient's ground.

Joe Mayo headed Orient into the lead in the 32nd minute, but Tony Funnell got the equalizer six minutes later, also with a header.

A 70th-minute goal by Malcolm Poskett, signed by Brighton in February, kept them in the running for promotion for the Second Division.

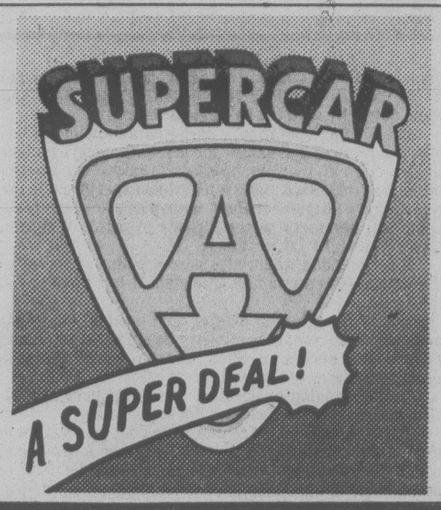

Four teams are locked in a struggle for the three promotion places—Southampton with 56 points from 41 matches, Bolton Wanderers with 55 from 40, Brighton with 54 from 41 and Tottenham Hotspur with 53 from 40.

Down at the bottom of the Second Division, Orient's point against Southampton and Milwall's 1-0 home win over Luton Town improved its hopes of avoiding relegation.

Luton defender Paul Price flicked a header from Dave Mehmet into his own net to give Millwall its fourth successive win.

With Hull City already doomed to the Third Division and Manfield Town also virtually certain to go down, Cardiff City, Millwall and Orient are just above them with 34 points apiece, but Millwall has played one more match than the other two clubs.

Only One Canadian Official

PRAGUE (CP) — The only Canadian member of the officiating team for the world hockey championship is Pat McCormack of Toronto, a former Eastern League referee who now handles amateur games.

McCormack, 30-year-old liquor board inspector, has never refereed in Europe before but has handled games involving Finnish and Czechoslovakian teams in Canada.

The six other referees here are Viktor Dombrovski of the Soviet Union, Stig Karlsson of Sweden, Josef Kompalla of West Germany, Kenneth Pierce of the United States, Raimo Sepponen of Finland and Vladimir Subrt of Czechoslovakia.

There are also eight linesmen and two substitutes, none from Canada.

Clippers Awarded Junior Title

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo Clippers have been awarded the British Columbia Junior Hockey League playoff championship, league chairman Ernie McLean said Tuesday.

The decision was made after Penticton Vees pulled out of the best-of-seven final series with Nanaimo after three games, saying the Clippers were too violent and dangerous to play. Nanaimo was leading the series 2-1.

McLean said the problem was not covered under any league regulations or bylaws, but in that situation the chairman can make a binding decision. He said the series will be considered a best-of-three with Nanaimo winning 2-1.

"Penticton is a whipped hockey club," said McLean, after meeting with players and management in Vancouver Tuesday. "The boys are down on everything to do with the game."

He said that considering the way the Penticton players felt, "if any player was hurt or disabled, we'd have it on our conscience for the rest of our days."

"I don't condone Penticton's actions," he said. "I feel it's a black eye for the British Columbia Junior Hockey League and there will be further discussions at a board of governors meeting later this month."

Penticton quit the series following a game in Nanaimo Sunday that was delayed 55 minutes by a bench-clearing brawl 23 seconds into the game.

Penticton coach Terry Martin said his players wanted to bring the violence to the attention of the league.

LAFLEUR CHECKED

MONTREAL (CP) — Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens has split many a defence en route to three straight National Hockey League scoring titles.

But he is having difficulty stickhandling his way into a television commercial for yogurt because of stiff resistance thrown up by the Union des Artistes.

So far the union has refused Lafleur the temporary work permit he requires to do the commercial. It cites the fact that there are sufficient singers, dancers and comedians available within its ranks to do the work.

Firestone®

OUR BEST STEEL BELTED RADIAL

No other tire company has ever offered so much. But then there's never been a tire like the Firestone 721. The New Generation Steel Belted Radial.

The Very Different Radial

Our new steel cord is the very strong difference.

To make each cord, we wrap 7 brass-plated steel filaments around 2 and then bind them together with 1 more.

7 + 2 + 1 adds up to "721." And this adds up to ten steel filaments per cord.

That's twice as many as in our previous steel belted radial tire. These stronger belts add up to increased wearability and resistance to punctures. And the low rolling resistance means increased gas mileage.

What's more, we've developed a new and better way to bond rubber to steel for better insulation against moisture.

Proven over 5 Million Miles

721 is the most proven tire that Firestone has ever introduced.

We punished it on test tracks, highways, country roads and city streets. In the heat and the rain.

We drove it through tight turns and at speeds you'll never drive.

The full depth tread design ensures good wet weather traction for the life of the tire.

721 is new. But backed by 5 million miles of proof.

no-charge services.
Good for as long as you drive on them.

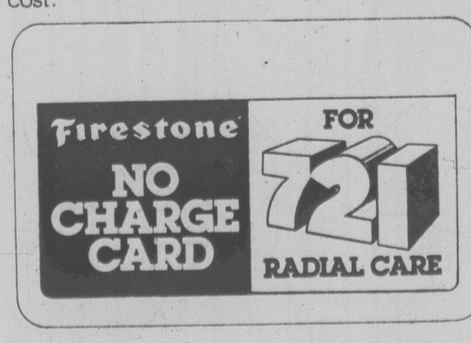

Here's how it works

When you purchase a set of 721 radials and pay for balancing all four wheels and a front end alignment, you'll receive a personalized "No-Charge" service card. Right from the start we want you to get the most out of these great tires.

This "No-Charge" card makes you eligible for "No-Charge" service for as long as the tires are on your car. This card is valid at any Firestone Store or participating dealer in Canada, displaying the "No-Charge" card decal on their place of business. With this card, you are eligible for the following "No-Charge" services.

Wheel Alignment

Wheel alignment check every 5,000 miles and if required, alignment is corrected. We use top quality equipment and our service staff is thoroughly trained to give you the very best service. At no additional cost.

Wheel Balance

Wheel balance every 5,000 miles if required. It's important, not only to your comfort, but to the life of the tires to make sure your wheels are in balance. At no additional charge.

Tire Rotation

Tire rotation every 5,000 miles. Another way to ensure even wear on your tires. At no additional charge.

Inflation Check

Inflation check whenever you wish. In radials, inflation is a key element to tire wear and your safety. At no additional charge.

McGowan To Try Despite Pain

EDMONTON (CP) — George McGowan wants to give it a try in the 1978 Canadian Football league season even though what he thought was cartilage damage in his left knee has been diagnosed as deterioration of the bone—arthritis.

The 29-year-old Edmonton Eskimos wide receiver says "I'm optimistic I can play. I felt the type of pain it would be before the operation and the question is if I can stand it under game conditions."

He will make a final decision during training camp.

"I'm sure they (the Eskimos) don't want to see me injure my knee permanently. I'm not too crazy about the idea either. But I now know the type of pain I'll have to live with to play.

"Right now it's just a matter of living with it . . . working out, and if it hurts working past the pain."

The problem with arthritis is that the deterioration of the bone becomes worse with time.

Dr. Gordon Cameron, who performed exploratory surgery Thursday, told the Eskimos McGowan should be able to play.

"George will have to make a decision if the pain persists," head coach Hugh Campbell said Monday. "But the doctor told me there's no reason why he can't play this year."

All-School Relays Billed Next Week

The 10th annual All-School Relays, co-sponsored by CFAX radio station and Victoria Meat Market will take place next month, beginning Tuesday at Esquimalt Secondary School.

Esquimalt will be the site of heats for junior and senior secondary school events Tuesday and Wednesday, starting at 4 p.m. each day, with the finals to be held at UVic's Centennial Stadium, Thursday, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Field events scheduled on the first two days will be finals.

Elementary school events will be held, May 16-18, with the heats at Esquimalt on May 16 and 17, and the finals at Centennial Stadium, May 18.

There will also be some open events on May 2 and 18 as well as some invitational junior and senior relay events on May 18.

All elementary, junior and senior secondary schools in school districts 61, 62 and 63 are eligible to enter the competition. Deadline for entries in the senior and junior secondary divisions is 6 p.m., Monday, May 1. Deadline for elementary entries is 6 p.m., Monday, May 15.

Inquiries should be directed to Ron Bowker at Esquimalt Secondary, phone 382-9226.

A new award this year is the Victoria Meat Market Participation Award which goes to the school with the greatest percentage of its students taking part in the relays.

Hornets To Register

Hornets Canadian Football Club will hold registration sessions for players aged 14 to 19 starting at 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Glanford Park.

Aeros Short of Goal

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Aeros are 2,484 season tickets short of their goal of 7,000, but president Harrison Vickers said Tuesday the World Hockey Association team still is committed to its May 4 objective.

Kenneth Schnitzer, chairman of the board and part owner of the Aeros, started a drive three weeks ago to sell 7,000 season tickets by May 4 in a "sudden-death" move to get the Aeros into the National Hockey League.

Schnitzer said if the goal was not reached, the Aeros would not seek entry into the NHL and the present owners would not participate in the WHA next season.

When You're Looking For A New Set Of Wheels

Washington, Oregon & Idaho.

The great green adventure land on your doorstep.

Just across the border is some of the most exciting holiday country anywhere, from evergreen forest to open seacoast, metropolis to magnificent mountain range. There are many points of entry... but suppose we begin by following Highway 5, south of Vancouver.

It's less than 3 hours driving time to Seattle where you'll enjoy attractions like the Space Needle, the monorail and the new Kingdome. From here, a short side-trip takes you to the mountain forests and alpine meadows of the rugged Cascade Range. But for a grand "circle tour", continue on Highway 5 through southwest Washington... crossing the Columbia River to Portland, "the City of Roses" and Oregon's major centre.

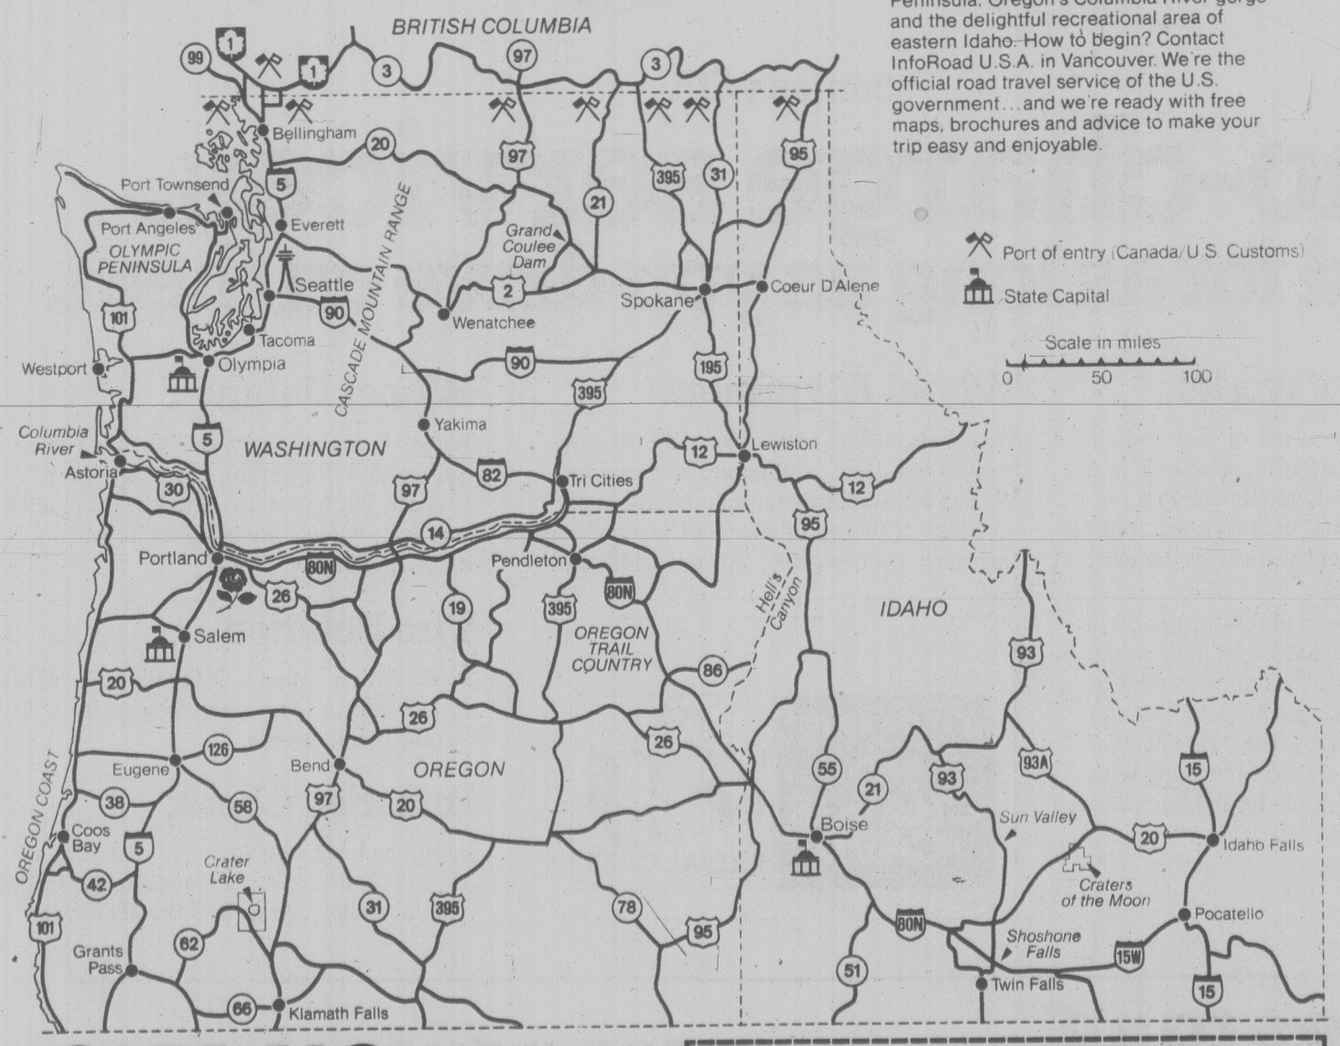

After shopping and sightseeing in Portland, swing west to Astoria and follow the spectacular Oregon Coast Highway route 101, over 400 miles past broad sandy beaches and rocky headlands. Fabulous for fishing, clam digging, beachcombing and savoring the clear sea air. Then head east to the Oregon interior, pausing at Crater Lake before continuing on to southwest Oregon, a totally different landscape that's a mecca for rockhounds.

Turning north, you'll enter the Oregon Trail country, land of round-ups ghost towns and cattle ranches. To the east is Idaho—a state of scenic surprise.

Entering southern Idaho, you can visit the state capital of Boise... then loop southeast and view breathtaking Shoshone Falls on the Snake River (it's higher than Niagara). To the north is Craters of the Moon National Monument, an incredible "moonscape" of volcanic origin, while just beyond here is the famous year-round resort centre of Sun Valley.

On the northbound leg of your "circle", be sure to see Hell's Canyon on the Snake River, North America's deepest river gorge. Then visit the Emerald Empire of northern Idaho before crossing the state line back into Washington. From Spokane, site of Expo 74, you can plan the final portion of your tour: west past Grand Coulee Dam and across the Cascades to the Coast... north across the border to the Kootenays, or northwest into B.C.'s Okanagan region.

We can help you see it all! It's a whale of a trip, but even then you haven't seen the half of it. Still remaining are other vast scenic stretches, including Washington's Olympic Peninsula, Oregon's Columbia River gorge and the delightful recreational area of eastern Idaho. How to begin? Contact InfoRoad U.S.A. in Vancouver. We're the official road travel service of the U.S. government... and we're ready with free maps, brochures and advice to make your trip easy and enjoyable.

Monks Hoard Rich Biblical Trove

BONN (AP) — Greek Orthodox monks on Mount Sinai are hoarding a major find of early Christian texts they discovered by accident in their monastery two years ago, says Martin Hengel, a West German biblical scholar.

"It is certainly one of the most important finds in recent years," said Hengel, a New Testament expert who holds Tuebingen University's chair of theology.

Hengel said European and U.S. theology scholars have known about the find for nearly two years but kept quiet until he leaked the news to a West German newspaper this month.

He said the thousands of parchment and papyrus fragments, some dating back to before 300 AD, include at least one real sensation — eight missing pages from the Codex Sinaiticus, a priceless, fourth-century Greek Bible manuscript now in the British Museum.

Hengel and other German theology professors fear that the hoard at the mountaintop St. Catherine's Monastery, in the Israeli-held part of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, might be lost in any Arab-Israeli war unless the monks allow foreign scholars to microfilm it soon.

"All we need is three men with the right equipment, and we could microfilm the whole lot in a week," said one scholar. "It's going to take them years."

The situation is reported complicated by rivalry between Greek experts from the universities in Athens and Salonika, rivalry between the the Greek and Egyptian governments, and the fact that the Greek Orthodox Church's Egyptian branch is not responsible to the church in Athens.

Hengel said the monks found the treasure when they tore down an old wall and found a storage cavity. The piles of manuscripts, written by early inhabitants of the monastery, now are in 47 large cartons, he said.

The rest of the Codex Sinaiticus was found at the monastery in 1844 and 1854 by German Bible researcher Konstantin von Tischendorf, who gave it to Czar Nicholas II, his financial backer. The British Museum bought it from the Russian government after the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution for £1 million, a vast sum in those days.

Court Bans Birching, But Manx Don't Listen

LONDON (AP) — The Manx islanders are giving the cold shoulder to a European court's order for them to spare the rod on male students.

The European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg, France, ruled Tuesday that the Isle of Man's traditional disciplinary application of a 40-inch birch to bare buttocks is a "degrading punishment" that must be banned. But birching was not raised at the next meeting of the island legislature.

The ruling, which is binding on Britain as a member of the 20-nation Council of Europe, ended six years of litigation started by a 15-year-old boy after he was whipped for beating up an older student who reported him for sneaking beer into school.

Birching has been out of fashion in Britain for years, and the Isle of Man is part of Britain. But it has a considerable degree of self-government and is only bound by acts of the British Parliament when specifically mentioned in them. To force it to ban birching, Parliament would have to pass a law specifically forbidding it.

British Home Secretary Merlyn Rees said he will consult the island government.

Last year 31,000 of the island's 45,000 voters signed a petition in favor of the punishment to deter juvenile violence.

Sino-Soviet Talks On

PEKING (Reuter) — Sino-Soviet border talks are to resume here for the first time since China's rejection earlier this year of Moscow's call for a joint statement on improving relations.

Deputy Foreign Minister Leonid Ilyichev, Moscow's chief negotiator, arrived in Peking today to resume talks held intermittently since October 1969.

China replied to the Soviet approach in February with a demand that Moscow remove its troops from Mongolia and the border areas. To "issue a hollow statement of principles guiding mutual relations" would do nothing practical, said the Chinese.

To Fertilize...
...or not to fertilize?
Uplands Special 10-7
That's one question B.C. gardeners are now facing. Is it easier to cut the grass twice a week or just not bother fertilizing your lawn this year and avoid looking at how brown it's getting?
Buckerfield's answer is Uplands Special Fertilizer, an organic and chemical blend that takes all that extra trouble and work out of caring for your lawn. The organic ingredients provide slow release nitrogen for greener growth, and the chemical portion provides phosphates and potash for sturdy leaf growth and vigorous root activity, as well as quick nitrogen for immediate greening.
This means that Uplands Special Fertilizer will give quick green growth, but not so fast that you will be cutting your grass twice a week, and slow green growth over a longer period of time, which means you won't need to fertilize as often to keep your lawn looking well fed.
Uplands Special Fertilizer . . . your solution to the question of whether to fertilize or not to fertilize your lawn this year!
Uplands Special Fertilizer is available at all leading Garden Supply Stores.

Kickbacks Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Auto magnate Henry Ford II has been accused in a stockholders' suit of accepting $750,000 in "illegal and improper kickbacks" for granting a company exclusive rights to cater food at a Ford Motor Co. plant.

The suit, filed Tuesday on behalf of four Ford Motor Co. stockholders, also accuses the company, its directors and Ford of being "agents of an illegal and fraudulent conspiracy" and of "gross waste" of corporate assets.

The suit seeks $50 million in damages, including recovery of Ford's $992,000 compensation as chairman and chief executive officer last year.

Henry Nolte, the company's vice-president said the complaint "is filled with untruths, inaccuracies and distortions, and the allegations of impropriety contained in it are totally without merit."

A lawyer for the catering company, Chicago-based Canteen Corp., said: "We have paid no kickbacks to Henry Ford or anyone else."

Roy Cohn filed the suit in Manhattan's Supreme Court, a court of original jurisdiction in New York state, on behalf of John Lang, who is trustee of Ford stock in the names of four children of prominent Manhattan lawyer Thomas Bolan.

It claimed "substantial loss" from what was called favoritism in awarding contracts to Ford's friends and relatives without competitive bidding.

GM Profit Slips 3.7%

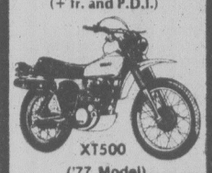

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. officials say "inflationary pressures" eroded record income in the first quarter and caused the company's profits to fall 3.7 percent from last year to $870 million.

In a quarterly earnings statement Tuesday, GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy and President E.M. Estes said despite the profit downturn, the auto industry and the U.S. economy will continue growing stronger.

The executives reported GM's car and truck sales in the January-March quarter hit a record $14.9 billion, an increase of 10 percent over the previous record $13.6 billion set a year ago.

But the company's profit margin for the quarter slipped to 5.8 percent, nearly 1 percent lower than last year when earnings hit a record $903 million, they said.

Income from worldwide sales of GM cars and trucks in the quarter totalled 2,335,000 units, up slightly from a year ago, they said.

France Socks Consumers

PARIS (AP) — The French government announced today increases in the price of electricity, cooking gas, rail travel, coal and tobacco.

Premier Raymond Barre said the increases were inevitable if the government was to meet its commitment to reduce deficits in state-owned industries.

Increases effective May 1 were:

—Railroads, 15 per cent on passenger fares; 10 per cent on freight,

—Post office, 20 per cent for an ordinary letter, telephone, up 12 per cent per unit charge,

—Coal, up 8.7 per cent,

—Electricity and gas, a 10-per-cent rise will be put to the industry's national price committee Thursday for ratification.

The above industries are state monopolies.

—Cigarettes and tobacco, the prices of which are fixed by the government, up 15 per cent.

$25B Tax Cut Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he will insist on a $25 billion tax cut despite strong congressional support for a smaller reduction.

Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference Tuesday that in his judgment, a $25 billion reduction in taxes is "about the right figure" and would not be inflationary.

If the proposed tax cut were to be blocked "it would mean that we would have a million people out of work by the end of the first 12 months after the tax reduction would have been enacted."

Insulation Fire Hazard?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of the cellulose insulation sold in the United States is a fire hazard and some of it contains a corrosive chemical that might collapse buildings, a House of Representatives commerce subcommittee concluded today.

The subcommittee said that while some cellulose insulation is safe, the lack of government standards leaves the public and installers without the means to determine product safety.

The report called the Consumer Product Safety Commission "derelict in failing to set safety standards for various types of insulation."

The report of the House subcommittee received quick action from the parent commerce committee. Acting before the report's public release, the full committee voted unanimously on Tuesday to require government safety standards for insulation.

Cellulose insulation, blown into attics and walls, is produced by chopping up newspapers and adding fireproof chemicals.

The subcommittee found that in Michigan an average of 80 fires were reported annually in which cellulose was the first material to catch fire.

A Wisconsin warehouse collapsed because of corrosion attributed to cellulose insulation, the subcommittee said.

An investigation showed that the insulation contained the chemical aluminum sulphate which combined with moisture to form sulphuric acid, which in turn destroyed metal studs supporting the roof.

BONUS FOR BABIES OFFERED BAVARIA

MUNICH (Reuter) — Couples in Bavaria are to be given government loans as an inducement to get married and have children in a drive to counter West Germany's decreasing birth rate.

Bavarian Social Affairs Minister Fritz Pirkl said that under a measure approved Tuesday and effective July 1, couples would be entitled to a 5,000-mark ($2,500) loan when they married and the same sum again when their first child was born.

West Germany has the lowest birth rate of any of the world's major countries. Demographers say that if the present trend continues, there will be only 40 million West Germans in 50 years compared with 58 million today.

Portrait Slasher Overpowered

AMSTERDAM (AP) — A self-portrait by Vincent Van Gogh was seriously damaged Tuesday by a man who slashed the painting twice before he was overpowered.

The attack occurred in the Vincent Van Gogh state museum.

The 32-year-old man, whose identity was withheld, was being interrogated at Amsterdam police headquarters, a museum spokesman said.

Russians Feared 707 Was Spying

Washington Post

MOSCOW — Soviet sources said here Tuesday that Soviet fighter pilots were specifically ordered by Moscow to fire missiles at a Korean Air Lines plane and bring it to earth last Thursday as it strayed over Murmansk, the strategic military port.

These sources said the soviet air defence command feared the plane could be an intelligence aircraft posing as an airliner, seeking information about the many military installations in the Murmansk area, bulwark of Russian northern defences in the Kola Peninsula. About 400 Soviet submarines, including nuclear-powered vessels with intercontinental nuclear missiles, are based at the closely guarded port.

The sources said the decision to force the plane down by firing on it was made in Moscow. They suggested the Soviets became convinced as the plane continued south at 35,000 feet, unresponsive to repeated radio queries from ground stations and circling interceptors, that it would suddenly turn west and flee to safety over the nearby Finnish border, carrying with it valuable intelligence data, presumably picked up by electronic gear in the plane.

The unarmed Korean Boeing 707, carrying 110 passengers and crew, was ripped by an explosion that killed two and injured 10, and forced to land on a frozen lake south of Murmansk.

The Soviet sources clarified the nature of the explosion, saying it was from a missile that was blasted at the plane. The missile apparently exploded on or near the rear edge of the 707's left wing, spraying lethal shrapnel into the cabin.

There is no way to check the veracity of this Soviet account, but it is remarkably similar to one given independently Monday by a Norwegian NATO officer who was reported in several London newspapers as saying that a missile fired on direct command from Moscow apparently exploded some distance from the airliner.

Soviet sources said Tuesday two fighter planes were sent to intercept the liner near the Soviet mainland as it headed south across the Barents Sea, drastically off course.

The sources said the fighters circled and signalled with landing lights, then fired across the nose of the plane with tracer bullets to warn it to land. When there was no response, the air-to-air missile, possibly a radar-guided ANAB, was fired. The Soviet account that surfaced here Tuesday does not provide a time sequence for the fatal events that unfolded after the interceptors met the plane.

Passengers interviewed at Helsinki told of seeing a single interceptor flying to the right side of the plane, then of sparkling lights moving past them on the left side, and then the explosion, all in the space of perhaps no more than 20 minutes. The copilot, S.D. Cha, said he saw a Soviet fighter flying close to the nose of his plane and that while it had made a signal, he did not understand its meaning beyond fearing that it was threatening.

According to the Soviet version, the plane was first spotted by ground radar stations in the vicinity of Franz Josef Land, a group of islands lying above the 80th parallel, far north of Murmansk. The stations began querying the plane on every available commercial radio frequency, but it did not respond. As Korean Airlines Flight 902 continued inexorably south, the decison was made to scramble fighters. One of these has been identified as a Sukhoi-15, a missile-firing interceptor.

journalists making inquiries about activities in their departments to refer them to senior management personnel C. W. Nash and J. A. McCarthy.

Following a meeting with Bonner, Province reportes presented a prepared list of questions to Bonner which in turn were turned over to Wolfe.

Wolfe then notified the house he was handing them to Veitch and the committee.

Some MLAs said all questions concerning Crown corporations could suffer the same fate and answers would never be known.

Tory leader Vic Stephens asked Veitch in the house Tuesday if, as chairman of the Crown corporations committee, he will guarantee reporters will not be subpoenaed before the committee and asked to reveal their sources that initiated their investigation.

Speaker Harvey Schroeder ruled the question out of order because it asked the member to anticipate future action.

Stephens then asked Wolfe if he has taken any steps protecting reporters' customary right not to reveal their sources.

Wolfe replied that the question pre-judges the intent of the committee and he referred the matter to the committee.

Macdonald said outside the house he suspected Hydro senior management acted on their own without Wolfe's knowledge when they sent out the memorandum.

He said management is closing its ranks in a media freeze that was a direct result of the reporters' investigation.

government support Monday in Fort St. John, saying that either federal subsidies or funds from Foothills Pipe Line (Yukon) Ltd. are needed to keep B.C. Rail's Fort Nelson extension in operation.

Bennett said earlier in Vancouver that the provincial government will unveil its first integrated transportation policy in stages later this year.

He told the B.C. Road Builders Association convention the policy will deal with highways, ferries, public transit, pipelines, air travel and railways.

MacEachen has refused to comment on the negotiations and Transport Minister Otto Lang, who would have final approval for rail subsidies, said his department has not been consulted.

Spokesmen for Foothills, which would be responsible for the B.C. segment of the Alaska Highway pipeline, said Tuesday they are unaware of Bennett's proposal that the company contribute to keeping the extension running.

Research documents prepared for the federal pipeline committee estimate 235,000 tons of goods will pass through Fort Nelson if B.C. Rail was part of the pipeline picture.

The current thinking of the pipeline companies is that Fort Nelson will be the main railhead for much of the pipe and equipment needed.

Haven for Sea Otters May Honor Explorer

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The director of the B.C. Ecological Reserves department has come up with a unique proposal to honor the memory of Capt. Cook.

Bristol Foster suggests that Checleset Bay — on the west coast of Vancouver Island — be established as an ecological reserve for sea otters.

Foster also wants to see a transplant of sea otters from Alaska to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The ecological reserve would provide a permanent home for the otters, which were almost hunted to extinction in B.C. waters during the 19th century, he said.

And the transplant proposal would restore the otters to the Charlottes where they once thrived in the thousands.

Foster's reason for proposing Checleset Bay as a memorial reserve is because Capt. Cook is considered one of Canada's first conservationists.

"Cook was aware of the impact Europeans would have both on wildlife and on the native people once his discoveries were made known," Foster said.

"He foresaw what was coming.

"But there is another reason. We owe it to these friendly animals which once were hunted to the brink. It (establishment of a reserve) is something constructive."

Checleset Bay, situated about 15 miles west of Kyuquot, includes the Bunsby Islands.

The area is where 89 sea otters from Alaska's Amchitka Island were released between 1969 and 1972 in a B.C. government project to restore them to provincial waters.

The colony is reported to be doing well. Seventy otter were counted around the Bunsby Islands in February and several other family groups are believed living in small inlets around the bay.

Foster said the Checleset Bay proposal is before the provincial government and has the backing of scientists.

The Island Protection Society in the Queen Charlottes has been pressing for an otter transplant from Alaska but so far has got nowhere because of bureaucracy.

"It's strange that the Vancouver zoo can obtain six sea otters from Alaska without any trouble while the Queen Charlottes request just sits there," Foster said.

"I know Prime Minister Trudeau would be in favor if we could get through to him. But I think it would take someone like Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf to get things moving in Ottawa."

Ian MacAskie, a biologist with the federal biological station at Nanaimo visited the Bunsby Islands last fall and found the Checleset Bay transplant was a huge success.

"But the best way to protect these animals is to designate the bay as an ecological reserve," he said.

Like many biologists and conservationists, MacAskie believes history alone is a good enough reason to set aside Checleset as a reserve.

Man's treatment of the sea otter over the years doesn't make pleasant reading.

Early records show that when Cook arrived on the coast, the otter was a friendly mammal with little or no fear of man. They numbered in the hundreds of thousands off the B.C. coast.

Indians took them only as needed and the otter population was undiminished.

But when Europeans offered iron tools to the Indians for the furs, a lucrative and bloody trade opened.

Otter fur was fashionable in China and fantastically high prices were paid for pelts from this continent.

Captain Dixon, in his voyage discovery to the Queen Charlotte Islands — which he named in 1787 — was greeted by Haidas wearing sea otter robes.

It is recorded that he bought 1,821 skins which at current Canton prices would have been worth $80,000.

In the late 1700s and early 1800s many vessels were engaged in the otter fur trade. The Russians obtained pelts from the Aleuts in Alaska, and the Europeans, mainly Boston traders, bartered for them from the Indians on the coast.

The greed of some Boston traders was such that they opened fire on native villages if the inhabitants did not produce furs.

The otters were clubbed to death wherever they were found on the coast and by the turn of the century, were practically extinct on the Pacific Northwest.

The slaughter of the sea mammals appalled poet-author Rudyard Kipling when he visited the coast in the early 1900s and his writings on the subject may have had some effect.

In 1911 the animal was finally given the protection of an international fur seal treaty.

In Alaska, the sea otter was able to make a comeback and today in the Aleutians there are now more than 150,000.

The Soviet Union has also established colonies off the coast of Siberia but has provided the world with little information on their progress.

Few British Columbians today have ever seen a sea otter.

The animal they often mistake for the sea otter is the river otter, a smaller animal weighing about 30 pound.

The sea mammal weighs between 50 and 80 pounds and frequents kelp beds where he is sometime seen sleeping on his back.

He is sensitive to pollution and like a sea bird will die if his fur comes in contact with oil.

Student Job Scene Looking Brighter

The youth employment office which opened in Victoria today will find work for about 2,500 students this summer, up 100 per cent from last year.

As a result, more than half the 6,000 students looking for work will find jobs, says Gordon Hubley, director of Employment and Insurance for B.C. and the Yukon.

"All but about 2,000 should be able to find work. The unemployed total could be even less if we have a better tourist year than expected."

The forecast is based upon 2,000 jobs provided in Victoria through various federal government programs plus about 500 in provincially-funded jobs.

Both levels of government will be operating out of the single office at 2653 Douglas, which was officially opened at 12.30 p.m. today by Postmaster General Gilles Lamontagne (in place of Employment and Immigration minister Bud Cullen) and provincial Labor Minister Allan Williams.

Hubley said that, in addition to the students placed through the youth employment office, several hundred more would find work on their own, leaving only about 2,000 students without jobs.

"The unemployment level is still serious but conditions are improving."

Last summer only 1,200 of 6,000 Victoria students found work through the federal youth employment office.

The tourist boom is credited for the improved conditions for young people. Many jobs will be available in hotels, restaurants and other service industries. Forest industry jobs will also be more plentiful than in past years.

This is the first year the federal and provincial governments are operating their programs out of a single office.

Employers can offer jobs or make inquiries by phoning 388-3458. Students looking for work should come to the office in person rather than phoning.

During the opening ceremonies, provincial Labor Minister Williams announced the province would provide jobs for 13,700 students this summer at a cost of $22.8 million. It was not immediately known how many of these would be available in Victoria but one spokesman estimated it would be at least 500.

Barber, Bawlf Argue Over Job Cutbacks

Victoria's two MLAs locked horns in the legislature Tuesday in a lengthy debate on the effect of civil service cutbacks on Victoria.

NDP MLA Charles Barber accused government spokesmen of making speeches throughout the province saying the civil service is being reduced, while claiming in Victoria the cutbacks won't amount to much.

During debate on Finance Minister Evan Wolfe's spending estimates for the current fiscal year, Barber asked Wolfe to detail the extent of the job loss in Victoria.

But it was Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf, the other Victoria MLA, who eventually rose to present the government's view.

The minister said Barber was once again getting hysterical over the alleged reduction of employment by government in its Crown corporations in the capital city.

He accused Barber of not having any facts and said his questions to Wolfe were an attempt to find figures to support his allegations.

Bawlf said the termination of an established position which may not be filled is not the same as laying workers off.

The latter number of people has not changed dramatically by any stretch of the imagination, he said.

Barber continued to press Wolfe unsuccessfully to get details of the 1,407 positions which the treasury board says have been terminated.

Quoting from Wolfe's own statements Monday Barber said: "Now listen carefully please, especially Sam (Bawlf). Get it right this time — 'a net reduction in provincial government employment of some 1,407 positions.' "

Barber said Bawlf's lame defence of Wolfe is unbelieveable.

"The impact on the economy of Victoria has been very bad, very heavy and very devastating."

WOMAN BILKED

Two con men posing as bank examiners have bilked an elderly woman of $1,700 and Victoria city police have warned the pair may strike again.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the fraud occurred Monday when the men asked the woman to help them nab a dishonest employee who was illegally withdrawing funds from bank customer's accounts.

The woman agreed to withdraw $1,700 and hand it over to the men, who told her it would be returned to her account.

If anyone makes such a request, the person involved should notify police immediately, Stewart said.

Dept. Store Plan Backed

Victoria Downtown Business Association director Bob Chorley said today he fully supports Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf's campaign for a third major department store in downtown Victoria.

Reginald Hind, Victoria manager for Eatons, said he also backs the proposal.

Chorley, manager of The Bay, said the verbal battle between Bawlf and Victoria Real Estate Board president Bev Highton, who said a convention centre is a higher priority for downtown than a third department store, is an example of the petty disputes that erupt in the Victoria region.

"There is no sense firing bullets at each other on this," Chorley said.

"It makes no sense to be quarrelling when it is clear we need both a convention centre and a third department store downtown. We should stop fighting and start working together."

Chorley said the lesson is clear from other cities that business must expand downtown or the core of the city with whither away.

"We are talking about something that can not happen before 1979 at the earliest. If a third department store is to be established downtown it will take many months of planning."

Other Victoria businessmen also supported Bawlf's proposal. Derek Denny of Standard Furniture said a third department store is long overdue.

Phillip Holmes, past president of the International Real Estate Federation and a past president of the local real estate board, said top priority should go to a convention centre but a third department store is also needed.

Tax Hike Looms For City Homes

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Property taxes will jump an average of 12 per cent on single family homes in Victoria this year unless city council can work some major changes between now and May 11.

Council's finance committee chairman Ald. Murray Glazier said today that after 20 budget vetting sessions the committee has tentatively settled on a mill rate levy for 1978 that calls for an increase of 5.9 mills.

In 1977 the mill rate was 98.8 but as the budget stands now that will increase to 104.8 mills, a jump of 6 per cent.

The city approved a $41-million budget last year and is now poised to pass a $45.7-million budget for 1978.

To avoid tax increases council would have to cut more than $2.5-million from spending estimates.

Although the mill rate is going up 6 per cent, the overall increase in taxes will be more because of shifts in assessment by the province.

"Now that we've worked out this tentative levy we know that we've got an impact here that will average 12 per cent on the ordinary single family home," said Glazier.

He explained that recent provincial government changes in the assessment act has shifted the tax burden in the community, so that owners of single family dwellings will be hit with increases while apartment owners will enjoy a decrease in taxes.

The city is pressing the government to change the assessment rates, and if it is successful — or if some sudden and unexpected chops are made from the city's provisional budget — the average property tax increase might be well below the 12 per cent mark.

But Glazier admits tax payers hoping for such a last minute reprieve might be overly optimistic.

He said council has done a thorough job on the budget, sometimes sitting for six hours at a time in the vetting sessions.

"And more than half of the total levy is in requisitions from other departments (hospital requirements, Capital Regional District, school purposes and the B.C. Assesment Authority).

"In the 50 per cent of the budget that is actually under our control the majority is in salaries and wages (where cutbacks are extremely difficult to make)."

Mayors' Help Sought

The Victoria Motorcycle Club plans to take the fight to regain its hill to city hall.

Club spokesman Gary Nordstrom said today that Mayors Mike Young and Mel Couvellier, of Victoria and Saanich respectively, will be asked to overturn a recent Victoria and Saanich parks board decision to ban the bikers from using Mount Douglas for its annual hill climb.

For more than 50 years the club has been holding a one day event at the park.

Nordstrom said that since their plight showed up in the local papers there has been lots of supportive public reaction.

He said the club will write the two mayors involved asking them to step into the controversy.

Meanwhile Victoria Ald. Robin Blencoe, one of the park committee members who voted to withold the hill climb permit, said it would probably take a massive public outcry for him to change his mind on the matter.

It's a Court Appearance That Max Will Enjoy

Right away I could tell he was going to be awkward.

As I pushed my British passport across the customs desk at the Vancouver Airport (after arriving back from a brief trip to London last summer) the frowns started.

"Where's your Landed Immigrant slip?" he asked abruptly.

Haven't the faintest idea, I told him.

"Well this is a new passport," he said.

I know, I replied. I lost my old one.

"This one doesn't have a stamp to show when and where you arrived in the country. There's no indication that you were ever here!"

Oh come on! I said, getting a little impatient. It was issued in Canada.

"That doesn't mean anything," he insisted. "You'd better have the slip with you next time or you won't get back in."

Then suddenly, there was a cheeky glint in the man's eye.

"Why don't you do yourself a favor — become one of us. Because you know now you'll never go back over there to live again don't you?"

I knew. But I didn't take his advice. Not right away. I thought a lot about it, though. And this year (in November it will be 10 years since I first came to Canada) I decided I'd "do myself a favor."

And so one day recently I popped into the Customs Building on Government Street. Wandering lost along a long corridor on the third floor, I passed offices with little signs on the doors "Health of Animals", "Poultry Division" and "Fruit and Vegetable Division." I didn't figure I fitted into any of those but finally I found immigration which, of course, was the wrong place.

Downstairs is the place for you, I was told. On the first floor, and sure enough there it was: Canadian Citizenship Court Room 115.

I picked up a form to fill in and a young lady told me I could expect to wait four or five months.

"If you had come under the old system, it would only have taken eight weeks," she explained. "You just had to come in and take an oath then. Now you have to appear before a court and we have to receive verification from Ottawa before we can schedule you."

It was just over a year ago — February 15, 1977 — that the citizenship court system was introduced with the requirement of five years' residence in the country being reduced to three years. Suddenly, a million more new Canadians became eligible for citizenship. There was a flood back then when the gates were opened and judges at citizenship courts across the country are still busy today trying to catch up.

In Toronto, where about half the country's immigrants head for, 27,000 people went through citizenship courts in the first three months of this year.

"They have 11 judges in Toronto citizenship courts alone," says Victoria writer Betty Campbell, whose new book Becoming a Canadian (it's published by the International Self-Counsel Press and sells for $3.50) is the first real guide on the subject.

"They're putting 600 a day through in Toronto and they're trying to push it to 900 to catch up," she says.

Originally from Britain, Betty and her husband Doug lived here almost 20 years before deciding to become Canadian citizens. Their experiences in the court and contacts with other landed immigrants gave Betty, a freelancer, an idea for a magazine article. She found she had so many notes, however, that she decided to write a book and, with that in mind, set off travelling around the country with various citizenship judges.

She tells the story of one newcomer to the country who, when asked who is Pierre Elliot Trudeau, said "the leader of the Dhukobor Party."

And in another court a Hungarian was asked if he knew what the letters NDP stood for. "No down payment," the man replied quickly.

"The judge laughed and laughed," Betty says. "Everyone in the court laughed and soon the man himself realized it was funny and he laughed, too. But the judge gave him another try at it and he got his citizenship."

Well, I expect to be put through my paces in about another five months so I'll tell you more about it then. But Betty says it's a very moving experience.

"When you go through it you realize that, despite all the complaints we have, we've got a lot to be thankful for in Canada. You go to a citizenship court and the people are weeping. To them, this is a dream come true.

"To most people I talked to, it's a very emotional thing and very important to them.

"You feel like a visitor in someone else's house . . . but when you become a member of the family you can complain about things like the rest — and try to get something done about them."

Tax Break Urged For Small Farms

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe's budgetary estimates of $102,704,000 were approved by the legislature Tuesday after a government member called for a tax break for farmers.

The estimates, which passed after two days of debate, were the first of 18 ministries totalling $4.3 billion, to be debated in the legislature during the current session.

Debate on the estimates of Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf began today.

Social Credit whip George Mussallem (Dewdney) called on the government to reduce the minimum amount of sales a farmer must make so that his land can qualify as a farm under the Taxation Act.

He said the current minimum of $1,600 a year was unfair and the minister was advised by big operators who want farming to be maintained on a large-farm basis.

Mussallem said that in the Fraser Valley, farmers are unable to produce $1,600 income on five acres of property unless they produce "exotic production" such as bulbs or chicken. He called for a return to the old system of $100 an acre with a $500 minimum.

Chris D'Arcy (NDP—Rossland-Trail) urged the government to require that B.C. Hydro pay full property taxes on its projects, as is required of private-sector utilities.

He said projects built under the Columbia River Treaty and the W. A. C. Bennett Dam do not pay taxes, and the Kootenay had suffered greatly as a result.

"We lost many things in the Kootenay due to the treaty, and gained nothing except short-term jobs and no money for the local communities."

He said the communities had to provide facilities for the influx of workers and are still paying for them even though they are no longer needed.

Wolfe said Hydro has allocated $49 million for grants, school taxes and water rentals, and is paying school taxes on all its property except the hydro projects. The Crown utility also made grants in lieu of taxes to municipalities.

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson accused the government of not paying off the province's direct debts for political reasons — even when it has the cash to do so.

Gibson said that the interest on the provincial debt of $261 million had increased to $22 million from $14 million last year.

He said that interest on government investments will increase $32 million from $8 million last year.

"The clear implication there is that the province has enough money on hand in cash and short-term investments, to pay off the debt which is on the books," he said.

He said the debts were not paid off as a "political ploy for the next election."

Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) accused the government of increasing the share of school costs paid by property owners by 50 per cent.

He said government polices were forcing property-owners in his riding to pay 90 per cent of the school costs while those in Vancouver were paying 93 per cent.

Cocke said that instead of eliminating school taxes, the government would like to dump the whole load on property-owners all over the province.

Respect For Law Week

Victoria will observe Respect for the Law Week next week.

The event is sponsored by Optimist Clubs in both Canada and the U.S.

Jerry Croot, president of the Victoria Evening Optimist Club, said the program does not reflect a blanket endorsement of the practices and personnel of all law enforcement agencies.

"But it does emphasize the need for citizens to demand good law enforcement and to offer co-operation in every possible way," he said.

The club will distribute bumper stickers reminding citizens to respect the law, plus pamphlets on the responsibilities of good citizenship.

The main objectives of the program are to combat public apathy and indifference towards crime and criminals and to rekindle respect for and moral responsibility under the law.

"Next year the club will do more," he said. "We plan to recognize and honor unusual, outstanding services rendered by citizens and police officers."

Grants Tied to Handicapped

Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf says B.C. recreation centres must have facilities to accommodate handicapped persons in order to be eligible for provincial construction grants.

The minister says it's part of his ministry's plan that mandatory accommodation for the handicapped be provided, creating a better awareness of the need for handicapped recreation in the province.

He says the province can assist municipalities in capital terms but setting up programs must be done by individual communities.

Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm has also said recreation for the handicapped should be supplied by municipal recreation centres.

The Greater Victoria Society for the Recreation of Handicapped Persons closed last month because of lack of funding. About 250 people in institutions and homes were left without the service.

At a meeting of the Bishop Cridge Centre, Oak Bay's Henderson Park Pavilion and the Esquimalt Recreation Centre were named as examples of efforts to involve handicapped persons in recreation centres.

Five children have been registered in recreation programs at Henderson and three physically handicapped adults now take part in swimming programs at Esquimalt.

GIBSON SEEKING HYDRO CONTROL

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson introduced a private member's bill Tuesday to make B.C. Hydro more accountable to the public.

The Accountability Act would force Hydro to have all rate increases and changes approved by the B.C. Energy Commission.

Gibson said Hydro is currently beyond the control of the legislature and he knows of no other utility that sets its rates unilaterally.

The energy commission has both the expertise and the power to hold public hearings, and would therefore be the logical agency to scrutinize Hydro rate change applications.

Private members bills rarely, if ever, get beyond introduction.

Monaghan to Run

Robert Monaghan, a 49-year-old Oak Bay lawyer, was named by the Liberal party Tuesday night to contest the Victoria riding in the next federal election.

About 100 party members turned out to select Robert Monaghan by acclamation.

The current MP for the riding is Conservative defence critic Alan McKinnon.

Other B.C. nominations Tuesday were:

—MP Ron Huntington, to run for the Progressive Conservatives in Capilano.

—MP John Fraser, to run for the Progressive Conservatives in Vancouver South.

$32,000 INJURIES

Damages totalling $31,893 have been awarded to a former Victoria carpenter hurt in a motorcycle accident June 2, 1975.

The B.C. Supreme Court award by Mr. Justice J.A. Macdonald to Daryl George Sage, 22, was largely compensation because he is no longer able to work as a carpenter.

It includes $11,893 for lost wages during Sage's recovery from foot, neck and back injuries.

Sage, married and a father, resumed his schooling in September 1977.

The defendant was Laura Quaite, driver of a car which was in collision with Sage's motorcycle.

Cellist Recital Thursday

A recital of music for cello and piano will be given at the Victoria Conservatory of Music, Craigdarroch Castle, Thursday at 8 p.m.

Artists are cellist Gary Russell, and the Conservatory faculty's pianist, Kathleen Solose. They will perform works of Chopin, Bach, Faure and Poulenc.

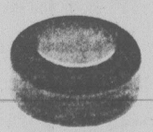

Russell will also be heard at UVic's MacLaurin auditorium, May 2 at 8 p.m., when, again assisted by Ms. Solose, he will give a recital of music by Francouer, Schubert, Beethoven and Canadian composer Leslie Mann.

Russell holds a Bachelor of Music degree from the University of Victoria and is a student of James Hunter. A consistent festival winner, he plans to pursue his studies in Europe.

Good news for hearing aid wearers.

Activair™ lasts twice as long as the battery you're using.

New Activair hearing aid batteries operate on a new principle. The air around us activates the battery and starts it producing electric current.
But the air doesn't get into the battery until you peel it off the protective seal in the battery pack.
That's when it starts working. So it starts fresh, and lasts longer. Twice as long as the conventional batteries you're using now. Buy Activair next time you need batteries.

Rifle Test Shots Smash Window

A 46-year-old man who tested a hunting rifle by firing it in his basement was put on probation for a year and prohibited from owning or using a firearm, when he appeared in Victoria county court Tuesday.

Michael Kennedy, of Victoria, was half way through a trial for unlawful use of a firearm causing danger to others when he changed his plea to guilty.

Judge E.J.C. Stewart confiscated the rifle, a .303 Enfield with ammunition, and ordered Kennedy to pay $60 to complainant James Brewster, of 2026 Richmond, within two months.

Brewster told the court he lived directly behind 1771 Pembroke, where Kennedy was living Dec. 1, 1976, and went out to his garage that day to find his car windshield smashed and what appeared to be pairs of bullet holes in opposite walls. The holes lined up with similar holes in the basement wall of Kennedy's house, he said.

They also lined up with Royal Jubilee Hospital nurses' residence situated about 200 feet away across the street, he added.

Police investigation traced the damage to Kennedy, who admitted he tried the rifle "to see if it was loaded."

Defence counsel Peter Freeman said Kennedy no longer lived at that address and had been unemployed since last summer. He had intended to keep the rifle at the home of his brother at Sooke and use it in that area, he said.

Kennedy had not been aware the bullets would penetrate walls and endanger others, Freeman said.

Crown counsel Peter Birkett said the rifle was of a calibre and character capable of reaching the hospital and nurses' residence.

Stewart said it was only by luck that damage was confined to property, but there was no evidence Kennedy intended to harm anyone.

Restitution Refused For Stolen Motorbike

Richard Michael Alexander, 22, of Victoria, pleaded guilty in county court Tuesday of being in possession of stolen property and wilful damage of a $4,500 motorcycle last July.

The court dismissed a charge of theft of the motorbike, alleged to have occurred between July 27 and 31 at the home of owner Paul Weston, 3868 Shelbourne. Alexander had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Judge E.J.C. Stewart noted Alexander is currently serving a nine-month sentence for dangerous driving arising from a police chase of the 1977 Harley Davidson motorcycle about two days after it was reported stolen.

Alexander pleaded guilty to being in possession of the bike between July 27 and Oct. 3, knowing it to have been stolen, and to causing mischief by damaging the machine. Stewart sentenced him to four months and two months, respectively, to be served concurrently and with the earlier nine-month term.

He rejected a Crown request for an order to pay Weston $1,392.69 restitution for restoring the motorcycle to its original condition. The bike had only 1,600 miles on the odometer when it was stolen, court was told.

Stewart doubted Alexander's ability to pay such an obligation and said he was unsure if the amount was correct as alleged. He also noted such restitutions are under review and suggested remedy be sought in the civil courts.

"This man has started out on quite a varied criminal career," Stewart said, after hearing a previous record for theft, obstructing police, possession of a restricted drug, impaired driving, impersonation and taking an auto without the owner's consent.

It's time the people of Victoria had a better garlic.

This city has always needed a garlic spread with nothing to mix. No butter to add. A whole new kind of garlic.

French's introduces just that. French's never-before, one-of-a-kind, easy to use Steakhouse Garlic Spread. The same spread used by some of the country's best restaurants.

Our great garlic flavour is just right for all kinds of dishes.

On a French stick for garlic bread. Brushed on steaks and hamburgers after grilling for extra zest.

Fry mushrooms in it. Stir it into hot vegetables just before serving. Or, melt it as an instant sauce for shellfish. Use it any way you wish. Next time you're expecting guests or want a special treat for your family, try French's new Steakhouse Garlic Spread. In fact, it would be very sociable for everyone in town to try it at the same time.

Pint-Sized Pianists Charm Music Festival Adjudicator

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

A flock of tiny pianists — some of whom had to use a specially constructed box to support legs that dangled less than half-way to the floor — were one of the special delights Tuesday, at the Victoria Music Festival.

The particular class that so charmed adjudicator Mrs. Phyllis Schuldt and other adults present, was for performance of a concert group by pianists who must be under 12 but could be any age below that. Most looked to be between the ages of five and eight.

Each of the nine entrants, at ease and smiling cheerfully — competently adjusting the footrest to an appropriate height — played three short pieces of their own choice (with a little in-put from teacher).

Simple morsels of Bach, Haydn and Schumann appeared to be favorites, but the mini-programs were spiced with a few bright contemporary pieces as well.

Mrs. Schuldt played her adjudicator role like a thoroughly lovable aunt but did not fail to inject all sorts of useful and memorable bits of musical lore and learning.

She asked the children if they swam and when nine arms shot up, said that was a good thing because swimming was the best exercise for pianists — "it works the back and shoulder muscles and they're what you'll be using for playing the piano a little later on."

Later in the day a diploma level group of 13 teen and young adult pianists impressed adjudicator Mrs. Alma Brock-Smith. Each was required to perform two movements of a sonata and only two of the entrants chose alike — Beethoven's Opus 111, No. 32, the composer's last.

The pianists were Claude McLean and Robert Holliston. Mrs Brock-Smith said that she was delighted at the extraordinary number of excellent young pianists in this city. Her admiration for the sonata class was warmly expressed as she commented on the "excellent tempos taken throughout", the technical competence and artistry that was general.

She spoke of the difficulty of the Beethoven 111 and praised McLean's performance for its close involvement of intellect and spirit. She placed him at the top of the class with a 92 but said that Holliston's performance had come very close and awarded him a 90. She also mentioned Judith Allan and Malcolm Woodland as runners-up.

MOFFAT
. . . festival high

A major vocal section completed Tuesday, was for oratorio, female and male voice. Nancy Holmes who possesses a lovely warm mezzo, was chosen for first place by Sherrill DeMarco with an award of 89 marks. Tied for second with 88 were sopranos Anne Bennett and Susan Westmacott. Tenor Willian Bowie won the male oratorio with an 89 and bass Dennis Goodwin was runner-up with 88. But what may possibly be the highest vocal mark awarded so far went to Jackie Moffat Monday, when this 16-year-old soprano achieved a 91.

Soaring to the 90-and-up heights in strings so far, have been violinists David Lowe with a 91 and a 92, and Mark Neumann who has had a 93 as well as a 91, the latter in his open class.

I Have Returned, Claims Zodiac

SAN FRANCISCO — Zodiac, the boastful slayer who taunted police for five years, has surfaced for the first time since 1974 by sending a letter to a newspaper, police said Tuesday.

"I am back with you," he wrote to the San Francisco Chronicle.

Police say Zodiac is responsible for at least six killings. He says he has killed more than three dozen persons.

The message claimed no new victims and made no threats. It was postmarked Monday in San Francisco and hand-printed in Zodiac's familiar style with a blue felt-tipped pen.

Police said they are satisfied the letter is authentic, but are submitting it for additional checks by experts.

The letter was addressed "Dear Editor" and started with his usual greeting, "This is the Zodiac speaking." The writer has never given any other identity.

Police homicide inspector David Toschi, who has been in charge of the case since 1969 when Zodiac first began writing about the killings, said: "It has been a long four years. I could feel the excitement in my body as soon as I saw it (the letter)."

Tuesday's letter sent greetings to Chronicle columnist Herb Caen and taunted Toschi.

"That city pig Toschi is good but I am smarter and better he will get tired then leave me alone," the letter said.

"I am waiting for a good movie about me. Who will play me. I am now in control of all things."

The last known word from Zodiac came in mid-1974 when he sent two messages to The Chronicle. One urged the newspaper to drop an advertisement for a movie he disliked and another criticized a columnist.

The police last heard directly from Zodiac on Jan. 30, 1974, in a letter in which he said he boosted his death toll to 37.

Charges Costly For Judy

CINCINNATI — Drug charges have cost Judy Carne $50,000 in bookings, complains the "Sock-it-to-me" girl of television's old Laugh-In show.

"Everything has been cancelled — films, television, dinner theatre, commercial spots," said Carne, here Tuesday for a suppression of evidence hearing on charges of possessing heroin and a forged drug prescription.

Carne, arrested last Nov. 12 while performing at a suburban dinner theatre, said the charges, to which she has pleaded innocent, have also hurt her image.

"I've been America's darling, gamin, pixy," she said. "From that it's hard for people to accept you as an indicted criminal".

Joan Kennedy Denies Split

BOSTON — The Herald American says Joan Kennedy has branded as "stupid" and "ridiculous" reports that she and Senator Edward Kennedy are separated and said rumors of romance between the senator and skier Suzy Chaffee are "boring."

In a copyright story, the newspaper quotes Mrs. Kennedy as saying: "Separated? Oh, no. Oh, God, everybody knows I'm staying in Boston. I always have.

She told the newspaper Tuesday night just before attending a performance of the Metropolitan Opera here that rumors about her husband and Miss Chaffee have sprung up because she and her husband are celebrities, adding: "It's such trash. It's too bad."

Earlier, the Washington office of the Massachusetts Democrat denied reports in two New York newspapers that his wife moved out on him.

The Post and The Daily News suggested Mrs. Kennedy, 41, and married to the senator since 1958, decided to set up her own household in an apartment overlooking the Charles River after reports circulated that Kennedy was dating Miss Chaffee, a former Olympic skier who now makes television commercials.

This Is New York . . .Honestly?

NEW YORK — British designer David Sassoon said Tuesday that three Harlem women recovered and returned 15 of the expensive dresses that were stolen from him last weekend.

"No one can tell me that New York isn't a wonderful place," Sassoon said after the gowns, part of his exclusive collection of almost 50 dresses worth $40,000, were returned just before a fashion show sponsored by the British government began.

The dresses by Sassoon, 36, who designs for members of the British Royal Family as well as actresses Elizabeth Taylor and Candice Bergen, were taken by an unidentified man shortly after Sassoon arrived Saturday.

A Harlem businesswoman returned eight of the gowns to police Monday after she saw them being sold on the street. She bought the gowns, estimated to be worth $8,000, for $500, police said.

Two other Harlem residents brought seven other gowns to Sasson on Monday night shortly after the fashion show began. The two women, described as in their late 20s, told police they were being "good Samaritans."

One Day to Freedom

WASHINGTON — John Ehrlichman is one sunrise away from freedom today, while two other convicted Watergate conspirators apparently are nearing release on parole.

Ehrlichman, Richard Nixon's chief domestic adviser, is scheduled to be released Thursday from the minimum-security federal prison camp at Safford, Ariz., after serving 18 months of his reduced 1-to-4 year sentence.

Meanwhile, a parole interview is scheduled next week for H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's former chief of staff. John Mitchell's lawyer is seeking to expedite a similar interview for the ailing former attorney general.

Haldeman and Mitchell become eligible for parole one day apart — June 20 and June 21 respectively — on completing the one-year minimum sentences. But if Ehrlichman's case sets a precedent, they may serve months beyond those dates.

Ehrlichman, who entered prison nine months ahead of them voluntarily, became eligible last October. The U.S. Parole Commission approved his parole in December, but delayed the effective date by four months.

Mitchell's parole timetable also was complicated by the medical furlough he received last Dec. 28. He is not expected to return to the federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., until late next month.

At the request of attorney William Huntley, Attorney-General Griffin Bell extended Mitchell's furlough until May 26. He is recovering from hip surgery performed April 10 in New York.

Parole Commission Chairman Cecil McCall said the commission "cannot conduct such a hearing outside a custody facility." He said the interview could take place in a nearby institution if the Bureau of Prisons reassigns Mitchell.

b) MORNING ON THE LIEVRE
Poet Archibald Lampman describes in verse the dazzling beauty of the Lievre River in Quebec as it winds past maple-wooded hills in late September. Then every tree is ablaze with color, and the riot of reds, golds and greens is caught and held in the mirror surfaces of the water. In Morning on the Lievre you see the river through the poet's eyes. Sole accompaniment is the reading of the peom, and music specially composed. QUEBEC EXODUS DOUBLES IN YEAR

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of persons who left Quebec for other provinces between June 1, 1976, and May 31, 1977, was nearly double that of the previous year, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

The net loss of population from Quebec to other provinces was 23,346 compared with 12,643 in the previous year.

The figures do not include immigration and emigration into and out of the country.

During the 12-month period ending last May 31, 399,849 persons moved from one province to another, Statistics Canada said.

Alberta and Saskatchewan registered net gains through the inter-provincial migrations of 27,500 and 6,000 respectively. Other provinces with net gains were New Brunswick with 1,782, Prince Edward Island with 1,324 and Nova Scotia with 379.

Ontario had a net loss of 5,732 persons, Newfoundland lost 2,317, Manitoba 3,105, British Columbia 1,466, the Yukon 713 and the Northwest Territories 290.

Most of the total 54,904 persons who left Quebec in the year moved to Ontario, for a total of 33,412.

But 31,558 persons also moved into Quebec, with 20,122 coming from Ontario.

Alberta experienced the second-largest gain from Quebec with 5,343 Quebecers moving there.

During the 1976-77 year, there were 142,156 immigrants into Canada from outside the country while 38,900 left Canada for other destinations.

Love Cleric Jailed

STE. JEROME, Que. (CP) — The head of a breakaway Roman Catholic sect has been charged with forcibly detaining two children and is being held without bail pending a preliminary hearing next week, police said Tuesday.

Father Jean Gregoire of the Quebec-based Apostles of Infinite Love was arrested early Tuesday after police stopped a car travelling with defective headlights along a highway near this community, 45 kilometres north of Montreal.

Police have been looking for Gregoire since September, 1976, when a Quebec Superior Court warrant was issued for his arrest in connection with the forcible detention of two children.

Gregoire, who said he was the victim of "religious persecution," told sessions court he had left the country on various occasions during the last two years despite the fact that he knew a warrant was out for his arrest.

PM Mulling Action On Sun Life Move

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday he will examine whether the federal government can or should take measures to prevent Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada from moving its head office to Toronto from Montreal.

However, Treasury Board President Robert Andras said the government has already ruled out every possible measure, including can- t i o n o f owned Sun Life th millions of the company an-

"We have examined that and it's the decision of the government not to do so because it would be vindictive and punitive beyond our view," Andras said in an interview.

About 200,000 federal employees are covered under a disability policy with Sun Life. About $25 million in premiums were paid, half by the government and half by the employees.

Robert Demers, president of the Montreal Stock Exchange, said the loss of an important head office would have a "detrimental effect on Montreal, there's no doubt about it."

He agreed the result of the vote was "expected," but said he did not expect other companies to follow suit.

Quebec Liberal party leader Claude Ryan said he deplored the decision.

"I feel that the leaders of the company would have rendered a far greater service to Canada if they had withheld their decision for the time being," Ryan told reporters.

He said the government should have begun consultations with Sun Life authorities before formulating the French language charter.

Sun Life executives had said the decision was based on Quebec's language policies and lack of investor confidence in the company while it is based in the province.

Quebec Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau says he is not surprised at the vote.

The minister repeated his contention, first made in January when Sun Life announced its intention to move, that the insurance company had underinvested by $400 million in Quebec.

He said that even though the company said it did not agree with his estimate, it would have to pay up, adding that the Quebec government has no quarrel with the insurance industry as a whole, only with Sun Life.

The move to Ontario does not affect his plans to recuperate the $400 million, he said. The Quebec government has submitted figures backing its case to the Canadian Life Underwriters Association.

But Parizeau would not say how he planned to make Sun Life pay.

Belted Issue For Top Court

OTTAWA (CP) — The question of whether motor accident victims are partially responsible for their injuries when they do not wear seat belts was raised before the Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday.

However, there were indications that the high court might bypass the question this time around.

The question arose from a routine two-car accident in which there was a legal fight over compensation for injuries. Toronto lawyer Morris Manning, arguing for a negligent driver, tried to convince the court that it should hear an appeal based on the seat belt question.

The accident occurred in Toronto in 1972 when seat belt use was not mandatory in Ontario. Ontario law now requires that belts be worn.

Mr. Justice Wishart Spence said the law in 1972 required new automobiles to have seat belts but did not make their use mandatory. He said Manning might as well argue that those injured were partly negligent because they were not wearing hard hats.

Manning's biggest problem in getting his appeal application approved is that the question was not raised in the Ontario Court of Appeal. That makes it difficult for the Supreme Court to even consider the question.

The high court reserved a decision and likely announce within a month whether it will hear the appeal.

It also reserved on three appeal applications that raise the issue of whether provincial governments must notify drivers convicted of certain offences that their licences have been suspended.

QUEBEC SNAFFLES OTTAWA ENVOYS

QUEBEC (CP) — A Canadian diplomat has resigned as vice-consul in Los Angeles to perform the same function there for the Quebec government.

An intergovernmental affairs department official said Tuesday Philippe Cinq-Mars began work at the Quebec delegation in Los Angeles as vice-consul on April 17, immediately after leaving the Canadian consulate.

Another former Canadian embassy official, Paul-Emile Connolly, is becoming Quebec's information director in Paris. Connolly worked for five years at the Canadian embassy in Paris before taking on a series of jobs with the Quebec government.

Simma Slapping Saccharin Ban As Sugar Firms' Ploy

OTTAWA (CP) — Simma Holt (L—Vancouver-Kingsway) said Tuesday she wants the government's ban on saccharin investigated because it may be related to restraint of competition the courts found among three sugar companies.

Mrs. Holt, who has been advocating the saccharin ban be lifted since it was imposed last spring, said in an interview it is possible sugar companies found guilty last month of restraining competition in sugar sales may have wanted saccharin banned to reduce competition.

She said she became suspicious when the saccharin ban was announced by the government after the three sugar companies were initially acquitted in December, 1975, in Quebec Superior Court on charges of restraining competition and price-fixing.

The Quebec Court of Appeal last month found Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd., Redpath Industries Ltd. and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd. guilty of unduly restraining competition but upheld the lower court decision that the companies were not guilty of price-fixing.

Since the ban was announced, Mrs. Holt has claimed that the scientific research used to back it up does not prove it is harmful to humans. She says the ban was imposed without parliamentary dicsussion.

"The court acquitted the sugar companies but few (people) in Canada believed the court at that time," Mrs. Holt said in the Commons.

"Shortly after, the ban was announced in this House of Commons. There was no debate in this House as to whether it should be banned or not."

Mrs. Holt said she is offended that Parliament was kept in the dark about the ban until it was announced and that MPs still do not know how the decision was made.

She asked Justice Minister Ron Basford in the Commons Tuesday for legislation that would make civil servants legally responsible for government measures which harm citizens financially or otherwise.

Angered Faulkner May Halt Parleys

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian Affairs Minister Hugh Faulkner threatened Tuesday to suspend Mackenzie Valley native land claim activities, including financing, for six months to one year.

He said he is frustrated by lack of progress toward a claims settlement in the Northwest Territories valley and is reluctant to spend more money without results.

Faulkner refused to call the proposed suspension a threat. He called it a moratorium during which the two native groups involved might set aside differences and devise a means of negotiating a single claim for the 450,000-square-mile area.

He said he will give the groups two to four weeks to respond. His proposal and expressions of frustration were contained in letters delivered Tuesday to all valley Indian chiefs and leaders of the rival Dene Nation organization and the Metis Association of the N.W.T.

Land claim talks in the valley have been going on for almost six years. Ottawa wants to negotiate one settlement in which status Indians, non-status Indians and Metis would receive cash, land, exclusive hunting rights, possibly resource royalties and more autonomy in return for extinguishing their aboriginal land rights.

The problem is that these native people, who live side by side in the same communities, have split into two claims camps.

Red Tape Tripping Foreign Musicians

OTTAWA (CP) — A new immigration policy is putting red tape in the way of some foreign performers.

The new policy basically requires employers of foreign performers to get approval from the manpower department before hiring. It requires the peformer to fill out forms and have a photograph taken for a work visa before entering the country.

Immigration officials say the official rules provide automatic exemptions from employment authorizations for performing groups of 20 or more.

The employment and immigration department's expert on the issue said in an interview the work visa system is basically aimed "at the lower end of your touring rock groups."

Immigration officials say they regard the rules as a response to Canadian musicians who resent the easy access Americans have to Canada, not only for booked engagements but for moonlighting — "chipping off most of the prime gigs of Toronto" — as one immigration official put it.

The immigration expert said generally U.S. immigration laws are tough on Canadian musicians and he expressed sarcasm in reference to the U.S. government granting Canadians free access to play in some border areas such as Buffalo, N.Y., "a dead city", and Detroit "where nobody goes out at night."

Citizenship Denied To Leprosy Nurse

OTTAWA (CP) — A Swiss nurse, who has made Canada her home base since 1962, has been denied citizenship because her job — working in leper colonies in developing countries — has prevented her from fulfilling residency requirements, Bob Kaplan, (L—York Centre) said Tuesday.

The law requires a person to live in Canada for three out of four years to qualify for citizenship and exemptions can be made in special or unusual hardship cases.

It is "outrageous" for the government to suggest that the nurse, who was not identified, should be denied citizenship, especially since the government has prided itself on giving medical assistance such as this to developing nations, Kaplan said.

BURIALS BEGIN

CALGARY (CP) — Burial of 99 bodies that have been stored in hockey arenas during the 55-day strike of outside civic workers was to begin today following the dispute's end Tuesday. City cemetery workers were among members of the Canadian Union of Public employees who voted 80 per cent in favor of a new offer from the city. About 200 foremen who joined the strike March 14 were to vote today on their contract offer with terms similar to those accepted by the outside workers. A city official said regular funeral services should resume Thursday.

Shipping Scramble Getting Closer

OTTAWA (CP) — Bulky government documents will land on the desks of Canadian shipbuilding executives by mid-May, starting a scramble for the richest single naval contract in Canadian history.

But opposition MPs are already questioning the government approach.

Conservative defence critic Allan McKinnon, MP for Victoria, said Tuesday the government is selecting the wrong ship—a large anti-submarine frigate. He wanted more than the six ships the government will be getting for its $1.5 billion.

Stuart Leggatt, New Democratic MP for New Westminster, says he wants a government guarantee the ships will be built in Canada.

Defence Minister Barney Danson says he is sure the frigates will be but much of the contents will be bought offshore. He would not make any guarantees on Canadian content.

And he says the government chose the anti-submarine frigate because it can fill several roles at once and will be sturdy enough to withstand years of rough weather in the North Atlantic.

There is a remote possibility the ships will never be built. Danson has said the government is only committed to spend $63 million to get a final proposal from the winning shipping group. The cabinet then will decide whether to proceed.

But the government is virtually certain to go through with it. The armed forces have been saying some destroyers in the 20-ship fleet are already old.

Basford Backing Down On Goyer

By RON CLINGEN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Government handling of the Larry Stopforth case was described in the Commons Tuesday as "a blot on the whole public service that has to be removed."

Opposition House Leader Walter Baker made that assessment as he attempted to pressure Supply and Services Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer to "undo a great injustice to a public servant."

Meanwhile, Justice Minister Ron Basford hedged slightly under opposition pressure on his Monday revelation that the government will pay a libel suit for Goyer, unless an appeal is launched.

"Whether damages are in fact paid is a matter for the Treasury Board to decide upon application," Basford said.

Stopforth was quickly shuffled out of a key position in Goyer's department after a deal he was handling for the purchase of 19 Lockheed Orion long-range aircraft collapsed, costing the government millions of dollars.

The Ontario Supreme Court earlier this month awarded Stopforth $10,000 in damages after it ruled Goyer made defamatory and false statements about him outside the House of Commons.

Deputy Conservative House Leader Ray Hnatyshyn Tuesday pointed out that Basford had made it clear a day earlier that the government intended to "pay for this defamatory action" unless an appeal was made.

He suggested that Basford, "if he accepts the proposition that defaming a public servant is within the course of duties of a minister," should advise Goyer to "stand in the House and apologize."

Hnatyshyn also insisted that Stopforth should be reinstated to the post he held in the department before "this very regrettable incident."

"That would depend upon whether an appeal is taken and the result of that appeal," Basford replied.

Baker referred to "the unfortunate position of Mr. Stopforth who finds himself defamed, has recovered damages, desires to be reinstated in his old job and who has not been, notwithstanding the fact it was clearly established in a court of law that he was removed for the wrong reasons."

He said the Commons should be informed at some point about what the government and the Public Service Commission intend to do about Stopforth and whether an investigation of the case is being carried out.

Secretary of State John Roberts said would advise the Public Service Commission of Baker's request "and reply on some other occasion with whatever information they provide to me."

Gains Tax Loophole Closed

OTTAWA (CP)-The government promised Tuesday to close a loophole in its capital gains tax provisions in order to avoid penalizing farmers and small businessmen.

Aideen Nicholson (L—Toronto-Trinity), speaking for Revenue Minister Joe Guay, said the government will amend the Income Act Act so a farmer who sells a farm of one type—grain, for instance—in order to buy a different kind of farm—livestock—will not have to pay captial gains tax on the sale. Under existing law, the only way he can get around such a tax is to buy a farm of exactly the same type.

Similarly a small businessman would be able to sell his shoe store and buy a clothing shop without paying capital gains tax.

Nicholson made the announcement in response to a statement by Jake Epp (PC-Pprovencher). Epp said the current regulations unfairly eat away at the small pools of capital accumulated by the country's small investors.

Bell Deal Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday Bell Canada's $1.1 billion contract with Saudi Arabia appears free of discrimination.

Answering questions from Herb Gray (L—Windsor, West) in the Commons, he said the contract does not contravene the governent's policy against the Arab boycott of Israel.

Nor did it prohibit Jews from going to Saudi Arabia.

Gray said later in an interview he is not satisfied with the statement.

"His answer was useful, but a number of questions remain unanswered," Gray said. "I intend to pursue the matter with the Human Rights Commission."

Solar Policy Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada needs a national strategy on solar energy, according to Dr. W.G. Schneider, the president of the National Research Council.

"The future of solar energy is not going to be very bright if we don't have the industry to put it into place," he told a Commons committee studying federal science and technology spending estimates for 1978-79.

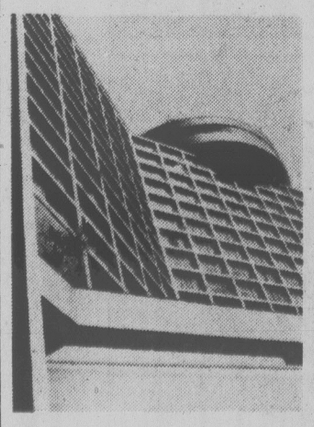

Schneider said the dilemma is that solar energy can be used in Canada but the costs are high. Experiments on single-family homes, row-house developments and low-rise apartments indicate a cost of between $10,000-15,000 to install solar collectors for a four-bedroom house.

The country needs a national strategy to help develop an industry that can put solar collectors and storage units on the market at a price consumers can afford, Schneider said.

Judd Buchanan, minister of science and technology, said the federal government will spend close to $2 billion on scientific research.

Sooke School Board Levy Jumped 25%

The Sooke school board voted Tuesday night to increase school taxes 25 per cent to 50.23 mills this year.

Almost half the 9.89 mill increase this year is to pick up a $161,000 deficit accumulated last year and to account for an artificially low mill rate in 1977.

Last year's levy was the second lowest in the province because of a $400,000 surplus the year before.

In the Greater Victoria school district, the mill levy is 45.5 mills, a four per cent increase from last year and in Saanich the mill rate is 46.9 this year, up two per cent.

Liaison Link Founders

A two-member committee intended to provide a communication and liaison link between Saanich council and the Greater Victoria school board apparently foundered Tuesday, amid a disagreement over conflict of interest charges.

School board chairman Susan Brice and school trustees say a potential conflict exists because Saanich's representative on the committee, Ald. Robert Cameron, is a school teacher and therefore an employee of the board.

But Mayor Mel Couvelier and Cameron himself reject that viewpoint because, they point out, the committee never discusses personnel matters.

When the board appointee, trustee Bud Smith, failed to show up at the committee's first meeting of 1978 on Tuesday, the mayor angrily accused Brice and her colleagues of meddling in council affairs.

"I resent this attempt to influence council's decision in terms of appointments," he said. "I consider it none of the school board's business and I think it is highly improper for them to anticipate conflicts of interest before they arise."

He was referring to a letter in which Brice advised Couvelier of the board's concern, and asked the mayor to appoint another alderman to replace Cameron on the liaison committee.

Brice stressed that the request implied no personal reflection on Cameron but it was based on a significant principle.

"Ald. Cameron, as you know, is an employee of this board and as such would not be eligible to hold the office of trustee," her letter stated.

"In the capacity to which you have appointed him, that of liaison alderman, he would advise the board regarding policy."

Brice concluded by saying she would advise Smith that the meeting scheduled for Tuesday "would be better postponed until we hear further from your office."

Although Saanich viewed the meeting arrangements as unchanged, the only school board representative to show up was community relations officer Bill Stavdal, who appeared a little uncomfortable in his solitude.

Turning to the three reporters present, Couvelier commented: "I never really dreamed it would get this far."

The mayor recalled that, despite his personal reluctance, he had agreed to Brice's suggestion that the committee be reduced in size to only one representative each from council and the school board.

The streamlining was carried out mainly to eliminate the need for staff attendance.

Couvelier said the history of agenda items discussed by the committee — including joint use of school facilities, major subdivision proposals and other matters of mutual interest — clearly shows that there is no fear of conflict-of-interest situations arising.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tomlinson examine copy of their prize-winning slogan

4 WIN DEAF SLOGAN AWARDS

Four Victorians were given prizes Tuesday by the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Institute of Vancouver Island in a contest to find appropriate slogans to help promote hearing awareness next month.

May has been designated as Hearing Awareness Month across Canada.

"Peace and quiet ... forever? Prevent hearing loss," was selected as the best slogan. It was submitted by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tomlinson, 4237 Gordon Head.

The second-place finisher ("Something to tell? Fingerspell.") was the work of Jean Cathro, 101-978 Heywood.

A.J. Anderson, 3929 Hobbs, finished third with his submission: "Ear protection makes sound advice."

Fourth place went to Nora Gardner, Albert Head Light Station, R.R. 1, Victoria, who coined the slogan: "Communicate ... face up to deafness."

The slogans are to be used by the institute throughout May to help promote understanding of prevention of hearing loss, hearing impairment and sign language.

Over one million Canadians suffer from a hearing problem.

Statue Stolen

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Manneken Pis, Belgium's best-known landmark, was stolen again during the night.

Brussels police said unidentified persons wrenched the statue of the small boy urinating from its stand on a street near the Grand Place, the main square of Brussels.

The statue, which once served as a fountain, has been stolen a number of times, usually as a student caper. But the little figure that is photographed by most foreigners who visit Brussels is not the original bronze sculpted by Duquesnoy in the 17th century. That is kept in the Municipal Museum on the Grand Place.

The legends of the Manneken are numerous. One says it commemorates a boy who saved the city in the 13th century by wetting the fuse of an enemy bomb.

Inco's Victims Tracked Down

TORONTO (CP) — John Gagnon is a Sudbury nickel worker whose obsession has earned him a reputation as the "$2½-million man".

Playing the role of industrial detective one day a week, Gagnon is tracing cancer victims who once worked at Inco Ltd.'s sintering plant which closed in 1963 in Sudbury, Ont.

His work is estimated to have cost the Workmen's Compensation Board $2½ million in payments to widows and children of those who died of cancer after working in the plant and for disability payments to plant workers who have contracted cancer.

Gagnon, a small man with a rasping voice, worked in the plant for 12 years before it closed.

He says the sintering plant, where sulphur was burned off nickel ores at 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit, exposed workers to deadly nickel dust, arsenic and other toxic chemicals.

For 10 years, Gagnon, working through Local 6500 of the United Steelworkers of America, has been tracking down cancer victims who worked at the plant and has brought their claims before the board.

He has processed 38 claims, losing only one. Six are being appealed.

Gagnon estimates that 200 sintering plant workers who were employed by Inco in Sudbury and at a similar plant in Port Colborne, O't., have died of cancer.

Compensation for former sintering plant workers has been limited to cases where death resulted from lung or sinus cancer.

Down Mexico Way Dishes

Some of the popular south-of-the-border foods

There's been an increased awareness of Mexican cuisine in North America over the last few years. Ten years ago, if you asked what a "taco" was, you might have got a shrug and a blank stare. But, today, an "about-face" has occurred; the delight of south-of-the-border spiciness has found its way to popularity.

The reason? Those irresistible flavor combinations often using tomato, avocado, cheese, tortillas and chilis can be enough to entice the most finicky eater in the family. But there are other attractions: one is the speed and ease of preparation, and another is the low cost of many foods used in Mexican cookery.

These recipes for quesadillas con guacamole (cheese tortillas with avocado dip), chorizo (spiced pork sausage) tacos and enchilada casserole are "cooled-down" versions of their authentic ancestors. Quesadillas con guacamole and chorizo tacos exemplify the simple preparation and the time-saving virtues of Mexican cuisine. These can be prepared as fast mini-meals, ideal for working homemakers, or served as a combo with enchilada casserole for suitable company fare.

Ingredients for most Mexican dishes, such as the year-round supply of avocados, are normally plentiful and easy to find in supermarkets.

FOOD & nutrition

QUESADILLAS CON GUACAMOLE

6 (12-inch) flour tortillas; or 12 (6-inch) tortillas
1 cup Monterey Jack cheese, grated
1 cup Cheddar cheese, grated
1 (4-oz.) can chopped green chilis
1 talespoon butter, melted

Onto each open flour tortillas, sprinkle portion of both cheeses and chopped green chilis. Fold tortillas in half and place on large baking sheets; brush tops of each with melted butter. Place in 350° oven for 10-15 minutes, or until tops of quesadillas are golden brown.

Cut each quesadilla into triangular quarters. Serve with guacamole (recipe below).

GUACAMOLE

2 soft avocados, peeled and seeded
¾ teaspoon seasoned salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mash avocados with fork. Blend in other ingredients.

Makes about 2 cups.

CHORIZO TACOS (OR TACO BURRITOS)

¾ lb. ground beef
¾ lb. chorizo (store-bought or follow recipe below)
½ onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
½ head lettuce, shredded
2 cups Cheddar cheese, grated
1 medium tomato, chopped
1 (2 ¼-oz.) can ripe olives, sliced
1 soft avocado, peeled, seeded and diced
Hot sauce
12 taco shells; or 12 6-inch flour tortillas

Brown ground beef; drain off fat. Remove chorizo from casing (if store-bought) and crumble into pan with ground beef. Add onion, garlic and salt. Heat and stir until chorizo is cooked through.

Meanwhile, place lettuce, cheese, tomato, olives and avocados in individual serving bowls. Place taco shells (or flour tortillas) in warm 250° oven to heat.

To serve, scoop portion of meat into taco shell (or toritllas) and top with lettuce, cheese, sprinkle of tomato and olives, and several cubes of diced avocados. (If making burritos, roll flour tortillas around filling; tuck in ends.)

Serve with hot sauce.

Makes 12 tacos or taco burritos.

HOME MADE CHORIZO

¼ lb. ground lean pork
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon ground coriander
2 tablespoons vinegar

Mix pork, salt, chili powder, garlic, oregano, coriander and vinegar thoroughly. Refrigerate several hours or overnight before using. Chorizo may also be frozen.

Makes ¾ pound chorizo.

ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

2 cups cooked chicken, cubed
1 cup chicken broth
1 (10-oz.) can cream of chicken soup
1 (4-oz.) can chopped green chilis
½ medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed
Butter
12 corn tortillas, cut into quarters
1 cup Monterey Jack cheese, grated
1 cup cheddar cheese, grated
1 soft avocado
3 cherry tomatoes

In medium bowl, mix chicken, broth, soup, green chilis, onion and garlic.

Into 1-½ quart buttered baking dish, layer ⅓ of the tortillas, chicken mixture, Jack and Cheddar cheeses. Repeat layers, ending with cheese on top.

Bake in 375° oven for 25-30 minutes.

Meanwhile, slice avocado lengthwise. Twist halves to separate. Remove seed by carefully whacking pit with sharp knife. Hold cut halves, one at a time, flat side down in palm of hand and peel or pare skin back. Slice avocado halves lengthwise.

Before serving casserole, arrange avocado slices spoke-fashion over all.

Garnish with cherry tomatoes, sliced in half.

SPICY CHILI TARTS

FILLING:
250 mL chopped onion
125 mL chopped green pep . per 25 mL fat
500 g (about 1 lb) ground beef
1 can (213 mL) tomato sauce
5 mL salt
5 mL chili powder
1 mL pepper

Saute onion and green pepper in fat until onion is transparent. Add beef and brown. Drain off excess fat. Add sauce and seasonings. Simmer, uncovered for 30 min.

PASTRY:
500 mL all-purpose flour
20 mL baking powder
3 mL salt
75 mL skim milk powder
100 mL shortening
175 mL water

Sift together first three ingredients. Add skim milk powder and mix thoroughly. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles fine bread crumbs. Stir in water to make soft dough. Knead on lightly floured board for 30 seconds. Roll to 3 mm thick, and cut in 12 11-cm rounds and 12 5-cm rounds. Place the 11 cm rounds in muffin tins. Spoon 50 mL meat mixture into each one. Top with a 5 cm round. Bake 10 to 15 min at 220 degree C. Makes 12 tarts.

CHEESE-TOPPED CHILI TARTS: Make as CHILI TARTS but top each tart with a quarter slice of process cheese. Makes 12 tarts.

dear abby

Hope I'm Able to be Quiet If Someone says 'on a Diet'

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the hostess who was upset because some of her guests brought their own "dinners" in a jar:

A HOSTESS' LAMENT

I've cooked a roast
And mashed potatoes,
Baked two pies
And sliced tomatoes.
Polished silver
And set the table.
I only hope that I am able To be charming
And keep quiet
If someone says,
"I'm on a diet."

Mrs. Olson in St. Louis

DEAR MRS. OLSON: Thanks — and I like your coffee, too.

DEAR ABBY: Our only child, a son, died leaving a young wife and a small son I'll call Tommy. Tommy's mother subsequently married a man in rather modest circumstances and now they have two more sons besides Tommy.

At Christmas time we always remember Tommy's half-brothers generously, but naturally we go all out for our only grandchild.

Now Tommy's mother refuses to let our grandson spend weekends with us because we favor him over the others. What is your advice? — Grandma

DEAR GRANDMA: You can't be faulted for favoring your only grandchild, but his mother calls the tunes, so don't alienate her. Since Tommy must live with his half-brothers, don't make life difficult for him by giving his brothers reasons to be jealous.

If you want to do something special for Tommy, go "all out" on his birthday, or set up a trust to be used for his education, but at Christmas time treat all the boys with equal generosity.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that you or one of your readers may be able to help me with. I own several ranches and when I meet a city person for the first time and he learns that I'm in ranching, he invariably asks, "How many acres do you have?"

Abby, I consider this a very personal question. It would be like asking someone, "What is your net worth?"

or, "How much is in your bank account?"

I realize that they mean no harm, and are just trying to make conversation, but I also feel that how many acres I have is none of their business.

Can you (or one of your readers) suggest an answer that wouldn't hurt their feelings, and at the same time wouldn't give them any information about the size of my operation? — Rancher

DEAR RANCHER: Any evasive response will do provided it's given in a friendly, good-humored tone. (a) "Too

Gone Are the Days when Porridge Was Really Made of Oats

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

eating right

Dear Ruth and Zak:
I have a book in my possession, "The Manitoba Farmer's Library of Practical Cookery" published by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture and Immigration: May, 1919.

In that book, there is a page which describes cooking oatmeal and cornmeal. It says, "To obtain the greatest possible nourishment from cereals, they must be thoroughly cooked, otherwise the food value isn't valuable for use in the body. Two general points are important: (1) softening the fibre by long, continued low temperature with a supply of water present, and (2) Complete opening of the starch granule by the boiling temperature of the water.

General Directions: Have the water boiling. Allow one tsp. salt for one quart of water. Gradually add the cereal so slowly that the water does not stop boiling. This keeps the grain in motion and heat penetrates evenly. Boil 5 to 10 minutes. Then place over hot water or in a fireless cooker to cook more slowly. Cook for 4-5 hours."

Why is there such a difference in todays' cooking method which says to boil for 5 minutes and it is ready to eat? Is the oatmeal not as nutritious as it used to be?

T.S.—Winnipeg, Man.

Dear T.S.:
Ah, memories of yesteryear! Things were simpler then; when oatmeal was oatmeal and you knew what to expect from it. Deciphering products was simpler then but certainly not cooking methods.

In 1919, oatmeal was the seed of the oat grain. It had a tough outer shell and needed to be cooked for hours to soften the shell and cook the starch inside. It needed tender loving care.

Today things are sometimes not what they seem. Oatmeal in fact, could be one of three things . . . oops, four things, if you take into consideration the oats that you buy in the feed store but which is not graded nor inspected for human consumption.

The three forms of oatmeal that you find in supermarkets are: (1) Regular oatmeal: which has been hulled and rolled. That is it. It is similar to Scotch type oatmeal which has been hulled and ground. These two are closer to the original oats in nutritional content than any other form of oats. Most of the nutrients and fibre are still there. They require longer cooking time and, depending upon which kind of cook you are, you will either cook the cereal the night before in a double boiler for one hour and re-heat in the morning, or stand over the pot and cook over direct heat for 20 minutes in the morning. The double boiler method is the method of choice for most of us because it takes very little attention and can be done while you're busy preparing something else or even reading the evening paper. If you have a microwave oven, you'll already have discovered that this type of oatmeal can be prepared in the cereal bowl in about 2½ minutes, depending upon the number of bowls you're doing at once. Regular and scotch type (often referred to as slow cooking oatmeal) are the same as the one to which you refer in your letter. Only the shell has been removed or crushed to get at the goodies inside. The cooking time for the starch cooking remains the same.

Then there is type (2) "Quick" or "5-minute" oatmeal: This has been hulled, rolled and partially cooked for you. It is still more nutritious than most cold cereals you're likely to buy. If time is of the essence, either in the cooking or the cleaning and you must prepare for a large family before you rush off to your bus, then this is probably your choice. We would argue that the double boil method the night before and an all-day soak of the porridge pot is just as simple, but do whatever fits your kitchen routine best.

The final type is the one to which you refer: (3) "Instant" oatmeal. It has first been steamed, then rolled, then cooked and then dried. It is almost a brand new product. Many of the oats nutrients which are sensitive to heat or dissolve in water could be lost. It looks like oatmeal to those who don't remember the old fashioned lumpy oatmeal of our youth, but the resemblance stops with its' appearance. This instant variety is often sold with sugar and flavours added. It is not as nutritious as either of the others and not even as nourishing as some of the cold, whole grain unsweetened cereals.

Dear Ruth and Zak: My husband and I use a bread called Hollywood bread and we have not been able to find any mention of it in books or in your recent column about breads. Where does it fit into the scheme of things?"

E.M.—Ayr, Ont.

Dear E.M.:
Hollywood bread is a trade name for a light or dark loaf which established an impression in the mind of some people as being low in calories. If memory serves right, the manufacturer did this when they first put out this bread by slicing it more thinly than others, and while each slice had fewer calories than the slices from other breads, the caloric content by weight was the same. Now Hollywood bread has the same number of slices as most other breads, at least by our count. It is certainly equivalent to other breads in calories. A 16 ounce loaf with 22 slices gives 60 calories per slice. This is what you get from other breads.

There isn't anything different about this bread, either dark or light. In spite of a lengthy and varied ingredient list, the light loaf is not substantially different, nutritionally, from the regular loaf of white bread. The dark loaf would correspond to the 40% whole wheat, judging from the order in which the ingredients are listed on the label.

We found Hollywood bread to be on the expensive side. The 16-oz. loaf was 64¢. By comparison, a similar weight and sliced loaf of 100% whole wheat bread cost 51¢. If you like the taste, flavor and texture, it's your bread of choice. It has no special benefits but the usual benefits of a tasty bread.

Dear Ruth and Zak:
Is it possible to substitute corn oil for margarine in recipes in order to lower our intake of saturated fats?

E.M.—Ayr, Ont.

Dear Mrs. E.M.:
Sometimes 'yes' and sometimes 'no.' How's that for a direct answer? You can and should use oil for all cooking, such as for browning meats and onions in a small amount of fat before cooking. (It's amazing, though, how you can get away without that browning step, if you try. In a stew, we've successfully eliminated it completely, simply adding the whole works together for a slow simmer.)

If you need to use a lot of fat and can chill the dish before serving, try using hard fat such as shortening, butter or lard, then chill in the refrigerator and remove the hardened fat before re-heating.

Baking is a little more difficult. You'll need to use butter or soft margarine for cakes that require creaming. Oil will not hold the mixture as well. If you are making a loaf, or muffins, or pancakes, or a coffee cake that does not require creaming, you can substitute oil for margarine successfully.

We recommend a blend of oil and butter for this kind of baking and the recipe for the blended butter is in our book, 'NutriScore', a copy of which will likely be in your local library.

A tip for you if your family likes the flavour of butter. Use if for greasing the muffin or loaf pans. This way the first taste is a familiar and pleasing one to them while they have the large share of their fat from the polyunsaturated oil in the mix.

How easy it is to dry artichokes for dried flower arrangements. Place them — even the lower-priced, not-so-fresh ones — on a shelf for a few weeks. They'll dry to a natural color, and a quick spraying of acrylic varnish keeps them that way. Don't try to oven-dry "chokes" or you'll take out a mushy mess.

The Bridge Expert

Much more often than not, the mind of the expert functions in a rational, orderly, logical way. At times, however, the mind encounters a blind spot, or perhaps has a temporary abberation which cannot be explained. Today's deal falls into this latter category.

In case the reader, after seeing what happened, comes to the conclusion that the players were beginners, let me state for the record that the deal arose in the World Championships of 1937. The four participants were each of the class of the world's best players.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

♣ J 9 8 7 2	♣ A 10 6 3

SOUTH
♠ J 9 8 6 5 4 3
♡ J 9 2
◇ K 7
♣ K

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

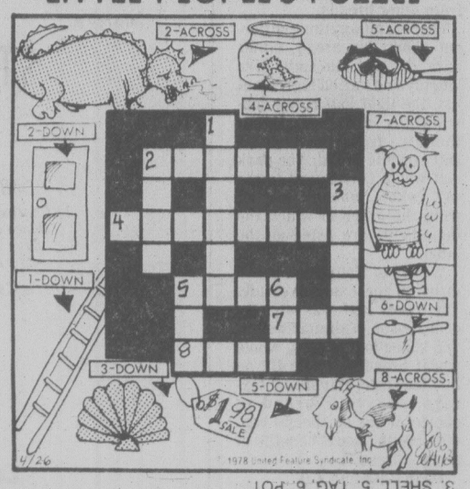

Opening lead: Nine of ♣.

Against the one-spade contract West opened the nine (repeat, nine) of clubs, dummy played low, as did East, and South's singleton king won the trick. The seven of diamonds was then led towards dummy's queen, West followed with the three-spot, and the board's queen cap tured the trick.

The five of clubs was led next, and East, thinking that South was trying to "steal" his remaining (presumed) jack, put up his ace — and South ruffed. Declarer then led a heart to the board's ace, after which he discarded his king of diamonds on the board's established queen of clubs.

A diamond was now led, South ruffing. If the reader thinks that he has seen it all, he is wrong. The climax is yet to come. South's next play was a low trump out of his hand towards dummy's queen — and great was the fall thereon! West put up his king, which East was compelled to overtake with the singleton ace. With the assistance of the opponents, South thus succeeded in making 12 tricks. In presenting this deal, I have not tried to belittle the expert. I merely wanted to illustrate that all bridge players are human, and, as such, will blunder and err at times.

Astrological Forecast for Thursday, April 27
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You might have reason to celebrate. Shakeup at upper level benefits you. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently. Display adaptability. Express willingness to expand point-of-view. Social contact pays dividends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good Moon aspect coincides now with journey, publication, long-range policy. You find outlet for expressing philosophy, other views. Aquarius, Scorpio, Leo figure prominently. No person should trifle with your feelings. You are convinced, determined and dedicated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Exchange victories, miseries; those who have similar reactions can become valuable allies. Virgo, Sagittarius figure in scenario. Change of scenery could be beneficial — and necessary. Accent in exploration, the occult, resolving a tax dilemma.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lie low — be alert to signals, trends, subtle nuances. Accent on legal matters, partnerships, public responses marital status. Domestic adjustment, remodeling, possible change of residence — these are on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Hold off on direct confrontations. Go slow, play waiting game. Time is on your side. Adhere to diet, health, nutrition resolutions. Emphasis on service, employment, pets and dependents. Steer away from imagined slights, self-deception. Pisces in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You get results, actions make solid impact. Relationships are heated — nothing is halfway. It now is all or nothing. Children, changes, travel, special written material — these are integral part of your personal scenario.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct. 22): You finish important assignment, chore or project. Deal is closed, transaction completed. Don't hang on to past. Aries, another Libra and Scorpio could figure prominently. Stick with number 9. Older individual will make concession.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Activity abounds — visits, calls, ideas, affairs of heart all crowd into your personal agenda. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently — so does the number 1. Relative confides emotional dilemma. Be attentive without becoming inextricably involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on gathering necessary data, collecting and analyzing facts, dealing with older woman, following through on hunch. One who taught you in past could make reappearance. Aquarius, Cancer figure prominently. Stick with number 11.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take lead, adapt yourself to changes, travel, long-distance calls, messages, instructions. Be confident concerning your own hunches, judgment. Recent setback boomerangs in your favor. Gemini, Sagittarius figure in scenario — so does number 3.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Check the "backstairs." Look behind scenes. Proper interpretation of dream could provide enlightenment. You have what you need. Key is to make most of available data, material, finances. Stay with number 4.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on desire, wishes that come true, friendship that becomes a serious relationship. Adventure, change, variety and travel also featured. Stick with number 5. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius figure in active, exciting scenario.

IF APRIL 27 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are fiery, stubborn, an innovator, temperamental, creative, capable of expressing yourself in unique, powerful manner. Aries, Libra persons play key roles in your life. June could be your most important month of 1978, a year in which you establish greater security at home. If single you could marry, if married, there might be an addition to your family. Married or single, you could have added responsibility of your own business.

Nothing Like a Fresh Fruit Pie

hilda beastall

Desserts need not always be pies or fancy cakes piled with sweetened whipped cream; neither do they have to be plain fresh fruit although when garden ripened berries are in season they are hard to beat. Just now we can make use of prunes, dates, raisins, canned or fresh pineapple, prepared as though for pie filling.

These same recipes can be used to make the various pies, quite delicious and nutritious with a good pastry, a bread dough crust or a sponge shell in a flan tin.

Notice there is little sugar added to the fruits, only molasses to the prune dessert which is a bit flat without it because it is thickened with rice polishings. Orange and lemon juice or rind points up the fruit flavors.

DATE CREAM DESSERT

¾ cup pitted, chopped dates
2½ cups water
1 cup skim milk powder, preferably non-instant powder
5 level Tbsp rice polishings
¼ tsp salt
½ tsp grated orange rind

Mix rice polishings with ½ cup water; add to all remaining ingredients in saucepan. Cook and stir until thickened. Cool. Spoon into individual dessert dishes (glass look attractive) and serve with spoonful of homemade yogurt on top. Will serve 4.

PRUNE CREAM DESSERT

2 cups cooked prunes
½ cup water
3 Tbsp level rice polishings
1 tsp lemon juice
¼ tsp salt
1 Tbsp blackstrap molasses

Rice polishings are used as a nutritious thickener. Lemon juice and blackstrap sharpen the flavor while adding their small quota of nutrition.

Mix rice polishings with water in saucepan. Add cut-up prunes and other ingredients; cook until thick and smooth. Cool.

Serve in dessert dishes topped with homemade yogurt sprinkled with ground raw peanuts or sunflower meal.

RAISIN CREAM DESSERT

1½ cups seedless raisins
½ cup water
3 Tbsp level rice polishings
1½ cup water
¼ tsp salt
1 Tbsp orange juice
1 Tbsp soft margarine

Cook raisins in ½ cup water in saucepan for few minutes. Mix rice polishings with 1½ cups water; add salt, add to raisins. Cook until thickened. Stir in orange juice and margarine. Cool.

Serve in dessert dishes topped with homemade yogurt.

For Pineapple Cream Dessert, conrnstarch will cook until clear so that the light yellow fruit can be seen in its natural color, but cornstarch adds little to the nutritive value of the food.

PINEAPPLE CREAM DESSERT

2 cups canned crushed pineapple, juice drained from pineapple
¼ cup cornstarch
few grains salt
1 tsp frozen orange juice OR
1 Tbsp fresh orange juice

Mix cornstarch with pineapple juice (about 1 cup) in saucepan. Add pineapple and salt. Cook until thickened. Then add orange juice. Stir. Cool. Serve in glass desserts, topped with one teaspoon of sunflower seed meal, or ground raw peanuts.

Pineapple is one of the few foods whose sharp flavor does not go with homemade yogurt. (My opinion).

These desserts may be as readily used as a filling for a quite attractive dessert using a sponge cake mixture baked in a "flan" tin. This is a conveniently shaped pan which turns out a firm hollow "shell" to hold the cooled fruit cream mixture. An ordinary glass pie plate will do. Bring the sponge mixture evenly up to the rim but don't build it up as for an ordinary pie.

Rhapsody In Red

1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon marjoram, crumbled
¼ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2½ cups tomato juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon liquid red-pepper seasoning, optional
Lemon slices and chopped parsley, garnish

Saute onion with marjoram and tarragon in butter until soft. Stir in remaining ingredients except garnish. Pour into empty ice cube tray. Freeze until partially frozen, about 1 hour, stirring with a fork at 15-minute intervals to break up ice. When mixture is slushy, spoon into sherbet glasses. Garnish each with a fluted lemon slice with chopped parsley border. Yields 4 servings.

Note: If made ahead, use heavy-duty glassware; keep in freezer. To serve, remove from freezer, let stand at room temperature for about 45 to 60 minutes. Stir with a fork; garnish and serve.

SPONGE SHELL FOR FRUIT CREAM DESSERTS

½ cup soft margarine
3 Tbsp sugar
2 small eggs
1 cup unbleached flour
1 tsp baking powder
1 Tbsp wheat germ
¼ tsp salt

Cream margarine and sugar until fluffy. Beat eggs; add gradually to mixture beating until light.

Sift in mixed dry ingredients, and mix lightly with large wooden spoon only until all is dampened.

Lightly grease and flour pie plate or flan tin. Spoon in the mixture to cover evenly.

Bake in moderate oven 177 deg. C. about 20 minutes until lightly browned.

Cool. If in flan tin, turn out on large shallow plate and spoon in the prepared Fruit Cream Dessert as chosen from the recipes given above. Use yogurt topping as suggested.

One or two of these fruit fillings as a Dessert Cream or as a pie is sure to become a favorite.

Use them often in this off season for fresh local fruit. While saving on sugar in these desserts there will be an increase of available nutrients in the food you enjoy

Tenderloin Casserole For Four Lucky People

Again and again I have repeated how much you help me.

This time an old regular remembered back to 1955 when I had given a recipe for a pork tenderloin casserole. That was back in the good old days when you did not have to pay over $3.00 per pound for them.

She wanted that recipe to serve at a small anniversary dinner and I hunted through our back files and found it.

This is a special occasion dish that is easy to make and serves four lucky people.

PORK TENDERLOINS EN CASSEROLE

1 1-lb. pork tenderloin
3 tbsp. flour
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. celery seeds
1 can undiluted cream of mushroom soup

On a board trim off any fat and cut the tenderloin into eight crosswise slices. With the rolling pin pound them until they are less than ½" thick.

Into a paper bag measure the flour, pepper and celery seed. (No salt is needed for the undiluted soup provides plenty.) Add tenderloin fillets and shake until they are thoroughly coated.

Grease bottom of medium shallow baking dish with the fat trimmings and discard them. Arrange floured tenderloin pieces in it overlapping. Sprinkle any flour remaining in bag evenly over. Spoon the undiluted soup over and with back of spoon spread over meat. Cover baking dish with lid or foil and bake at 325°F. 1 hour, removing lid or foil during last 15 minutes.

An unwitting but particularly fitting vegetable served with this was spinach for the surplus sauce from the meat was delicious where it touched it. I served buttered brown rice too.

Few Dishes Beat Fresh Fish

tiny bennett

Right now, all across Canada, fish are engaged in their spring runs, seasons are opening for freshwater angling and sea fishers are preparing tackle and tuning boats and preparing for the recreational joys to come.

Outside the sheer joy of the sport, most of these anglers will win a glorious bonus of fresh fish in the prime of condition from cold spring waters that can be used to create gourmet dishes in the most simple of ways. For there are few dishes to beat plain panfried small trout, or indeed any other small species of freshly caught fish.

There is however a right and wrong way to this most simple of cooking methods.

PANFRIED SMALL FISH

The best fish for this cooking system are the little ones up to about nine inches long, and while trout are ideal, good results are obtained from all kinds of edible small fish. The fish are cleaned with a minimal amount of cutting, the heads and tails are left intact and dipped in cornmeal or seasoned flour and put into a skillet in which a small amount of butter has been brought up to foaming stage.

Always panfry over a low heat, checking for when the undersides are evenly browned, and then turn over and brown second side, so that the skin is crisp and the interiors moist.

Serve with lemon wedges and (hopefully) new baby potatoes and baby peas.

Fish a couple of inches larger, especially trout are superb when broiled and brushed with a mix of butter/lemon, or butter/dry white wine. Here's my method.

BROILED SMALL FISH

Here I'm dealing with trout or other fresh whole fish that reach around 10 inches in length. They can be trout, but again all delicate fish are fine for this method.

Once again use careful but minimal cleaning, leaving on heads and tails so the fish retain their shape. Indeed the tails of trout go crispy-crunchy in the cooking and may be eaten as a delicacy.

Oil a cold broiler pan, set the rack about six inches below the heat, turn on the broiler and let it come to full heat.

While it is heating up, carefully layout the dressed fish evenly on the broiler pan, brush with the butter mix of your choice, and pop it under the broiler.

I always sit in front of the oven, with the inside light on, watching the fish and when they start to brown or bubble on top, I swing out the pan, quickly brush the tops of the fish, turn the pan right around and push it back in until the fish are crispy browned.

Then out comes the pan again, the fish are turned over, and the process repeated until the second side is bubbly crackly. What is left of the brushing sauce can be heated and poured over the fish.

Bigger fish present more problems that these toothsome delights and most people have got into the habit of turning them into cutlets, or slicing large fillets off each side. And if a very large fish, such as a large salmon, lake trout, or striper bass is involved, this is a practical solution, on oven space alone.

I once triumphantly brought back from a southern big game fishing jaunt a seven-foot-long wahoo, that I'd caught that morning and had flash frozen. Never mind getting it all in my oven — I had to saw it in half with a meat saw, just to get it in my deep freeze chest.

Most of us however can bake a fish of up to 9-10 pounds, even if forced to cut off the head, and they are delicious and a party piece in this style.

BAKED STUFFED FISH

Clean your large fish so it will fit into a roasting pan, line the pan with foil and brush with light cooking oil. Cut shallow crimps down each flank, about two-inches apart, stuff with an onion dressing, or herbed cooked rice fluffed up with diced onion and celery. (Whenever I'm in the money, I add some cooked wild rice to the herbed long-grain, and this is super.)

Pin thin strips of bacon, or salt pork over each slash on the flanks of the fish, and bake in a preheated 450 degree oven for about one hour.

At the end of that time, pour in one cup light cream, and baste constantly for the next 15 minutes or so, by which time it should be a glorious brown in color. And serve with very simple vegetables such as plain, boiled potatoes, steamed broccoli and best of all asparagus.

Angling is fun.

Let's make cooking the catch a great joy.

UPBEAT REFRESHER

1 can (46 oz.) tomato juice
1⅓ cups sauerkraut juice (or 2 cans, 5½ oz. each)
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
Sour cream and chives, optional

Combine tomato juice, sauerkraut juice and seasoned salt in a large pitcher; stir, cover and chill. Keep on hand for quick appetizers and between-meal juice breaks, any time of day. Stir before pouring. Serve with a dollop of sour cream and sprinkling of chives, if you wish. Yields 8 to 10 servings.

Arthritis and Rheumatism Differ

your health

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

With all I read about arthritis and rheumatism, I can't make heads or tails about the difference. I know I have arthritis. Does that mean I also have rheumatism? — Mr. E. McM.

Dear Mr. McM.:

You're not alone in your confusion. Many people use the term interchangeably when, in reality, they are distinctly different.

Rheumatism is a general term which widely describes pain, tenderness and soreness of the muscles, the joints and the ligaments. The American Rheumatism Association lists about 100 different conditions that could be sub-classified under rheumatism.

One of the major subdivisions of rheumatism is arthritis. Arthritis itself has two major divisions. The first, rheumatoid arthritis, refers to chronic inflammation of the joints and the tissues around them. This type of arthritis seems to occur about three times more frequently in women than in men. Salicylate, the basic ingredient in aspirin, is still one of the most effective ways of treating rheumatoid arthritis. Many other drugs have, in recent years, been effective in controlling the pain and discomfort. The research that is accumulating everywhere seems to portend greater hope for the control of this type of arthritis.

The second large classification of arthritis is called "osteoarthritis." This chronic, sometimes incapacitating, condition more often occurs in the older age group and in those who are excessively overweight. Degenerative changes within the joints and hard, knobby enlargement of the joints cause deformities which may interfere with the ease and freedom of movement. The wrists, the spine, the shoulders and the feet are most usualy affected. Here, too, new drugs have been beneficial. Ultrasonic vibrations, massage, mud packs and water therapy can offer relief. Cortisone is, of course, used with great discrimination by the doctor in all forms of arthritis.

Probably the most remarkable strides in surgery have been made in the replacement of joints that are unworkable because of long-standing, chronic, degenerative changes.

There is constant and endless research all over the world that is aimed at learning more about methods of prevention of all forms of arthritis. The horizon of medicine is dotted with heartening evidence that the ever-present painful condition of arthritis may one day be eradicated.

My daughter, like all teenagers, sits at the telephone endlessly. She cradles the phone in her neck while talking. Can't this be harmful? — Mrs. L. E. P.

Dear Mrs. P.:

I know it can, because it happened to me. From overdoing this trick, I had to wear a neck collar for weeks!

Irish Lamb Stew

2-3 lbs. stewing lamb
1 cup chopped onion
1½ cups grated potato
2½ cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 small onions
Chopped parsley

Cut lamb into 1" cubes and place in a saucepan with chopped onion, grated potato, water, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer covered for 1 hour. Skim off excess grease. Add potatoes and onions and continue cooking for 45 minutes to 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

4-6 servings.

What's in a Name? a Lot, in U.K., If It's Johnstone

By FRANK RUTTER
Times London Bureau

LONDON — JOHNSTONE.

The Morning Star hauled out its big type for the main frontpage headline. Just the name. Underneath, in smaller type, was the explanation: "The name only MPs may say."

The name Johnstone was also stamped out in ten-foot-high letters on the sand of Whitely, a seaside town where the National Union of Journalists was holding its convention.

It appeared, too, in smaller type, in every major British newspaper except the Daily Telegraph and the Financial Times.

It just happened that the Communist Star, for reasons of its own, perhaps, gave biggest play to the story of a name.

But it is an important and far-reaching issue involving freedom of speech and of the press, the conduct and privilege of members of Parliament, the broadcasting of parliamentary debates, and reform of the Official Secrets Act.

The name had been previously published in two radical newspapers, The Leveller and Peace News, as well as in the Journal of the NUJ.

It was also uttered by four MPs during question time in the Commons which was broadcast live to the nation.

Colonel Johnstone, initials H.A., was identified as the mysterious "Colonel B" who was a key witness against two journalists and a soldier who are being prosecuted under the Official Secrets Act for a story which appeared more than a year ago in a magazine called Time Out.

The story contained details which the government did not want published because they were held to be prejudicial to the interests or the safety of the state.

The colonel, whose name was protected during a preliminary hearing in which the three were committed for trial to be held later this year, was believed to be an intelligence officer.

Publication of his name has brought contempt-of-court proceedings against The Leveller, Peace News and the NUJ Journal.

Two detectives went to Whitley to warn officers of the NUJ that the name was not to be bandied about at the journalists' convention.

And, when the MPs mentioned "Colonel Johnstone" in Parliament, the director of public prosecutions warned all British newspapers and broadcasters that publication of the name could bring contempt charges against them, too.

In fact, Attorney-General Sam Silkin backed away from this Friday morning when the name was widely published.

The British Broadcasting Corp. simply ran the tape of the Commons question time to get the name on the air.

This prompted the suggestion by Prof. Clair Palley of Kent University that there should be a "bleeper" to cut out untoward language from parliamentary broadcasts.

But the dreadful name was also published on Friday in Hansard, the official record of parliamentary debate.

And, that's available to anyone.

Speaker George Thomas said he would not rule that MPs could supersede the courts. But the privilege to say anything with impunity in Parliament was a cherished tradition.

But when it came to the press, he observed a distinction between "the absolute privilege of a member's speaking in the House and the qualified privilege of a publisher reporting the words spoken."

Press reports of Parliament, he suggested, were to be guided by the same rules as reports on court cases.

In other words, the press does not enjoy much of the privileged immunity granted to MPs.

Anyone who wanted to take this further, he suggested, could get it before the parliamentary committee on privileges. That may happen because a number of MPs have vowed to clear up the questions of privilege, of broadcasting and of press reporting once and for all. There is also renewed pressure for the Labor government to make good a 1976 promise of reform in the Official Secrets Act, which is criticized as being far too sweeping.

William Ress Mogg, editor of The Times, which has carried partial verbatim reports on debates for 190 years, said it would be dreadful to censor them.

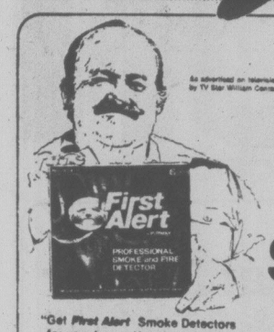

If there is something wrong with the four MPs talking about "Colonel Johnstone" then "that is a matter for Parliament which cannot be resolved by the press resorting to censorship or giving an inadequate report of what has happened."

Neither the press, nor Parliament and probably the public has heard the last of the mysterious colonel, who will pop up at the Old Bailey trial in the Official Secrets Act case. The contempt case has been put off until early May, if it proceeds. But debate in Parliament, broadcast or not, is likely to continue for some time.

OLD DOORSTOP WORTH FORTUNE

LONDON (UPI) — The funny-looking bronze figure of a man in a headdress astride a horse served for 30 years as the doorstop in a northern England home.

Christie's auction house today annouced that it was a superb example of a 16th century Benin bronze — made for a king — and probably would fetch between $116,000 and $190,000 when it is auctioned June 13.

The bombshell announcement recalled earlier auctioners' discoveries such as an early Ming dish which was found in Cornwall in 1974, being used as a dessert bowl at children's parties. It sold for $33,915.

Sir Peter Arbuthnot of Christie's tribal art department said the statue, probably portraying a chief or emissary from northen Nigeria, was brought to him by a friend.

Previously, only five Benin horsemen of this type were known — all in famous museum collections.

Christie's said the horseman had been collected by the present owner's great-great uncle, Jack Swainson, who was a trader on the Benin River in the 1890s.

Inflation Solution: Change the Index

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — In Argentina; where last month's 35-cent bag of oranges costs twice as much this month, the government is working on a new way to fight the world's highest inflation rate — shortening the yardstick that measures it.

Economy Minister Jose Martinez De Hoz says statisticians overestimate inflation by including in their calculations products and services the average Argentine family doesn't buy.

He contends the average family, which earns a peso equivalent of about $285.50 (Canadian) a month, doesn't spend any of it on photography, beauty parlor visits, flowers, private schooling for children or eating out.

So these luxuries are being dropped from the list of items the National Institute of Statistics and Census uses to compute the inflation rate, which Martinez De Hoz expects to drop dramatically as a result.

Millions of Argentine workers have given up extras in the last three years as their earning power eroded under annual inflation rates of 335, 348 and 160 per cent, respectively.

Martinez De Hoz claims his austerity measures will hold inflation to 60 per cent this year, but observers are skeptical.

"The prices of necessities are going up just as high as those of luxuries," said a foreign businessman. "Martinez De Hoz can change the 'basket' any way he wants—by leaving out flowers or shampoo or whatever—and the effect on the index is going to be minimal."

Martinez De Hoz announced the new measure after the statistics agency said living costs had risen 9.5 per cent in March and 31.8 per cent for the first three months of the year. The figures, he said, "do not reflect the true evolution of the cost of living, and even less of inflation."

Countered one political leader who asked not to be identified: "The statisticians he's complaining about are the same ones who told us a few months ago that the annual inflation rate had been cut in half. That time there were no mistakes, so how can he say they are wrong now?"

Hardly an item for sale in Argentina costs the same a month ago as it does now.

Clothing prices shot up 15 per cent. Gasoline prices went up this week from about 29 cents to 33 cents a litre, about one-quarter of a gallon. Last month a kilogram of oranges (2.2 pounds) doubled in price to 69 cents, and a kilogram of sugar went from 49 cents to 60 cents.

A dozen roses that cost $2.70 a month ago now sell for $3.76. A ticket to the movies has gone up from $1.24 to $1.56 in the last month. And a woman who paid about $7 for a shampoo and a manicure in February now pays more than $12 for the same treatment.

The statistics agency had a high reputation for professionalism under the regime of Isabel Peron, who was ousted by a three-man military junta two years ago. Agency director Carlos Noriega disappeared soon after the coup.

Martinez De Hoz, who has depressed wages to fight inflation, pays himself more than $1,100 a month—a small fraction of what he says he could earn in private industry. And his employees earn much less.

Some Argentines on the lower rungs of the wage scale aren't too excited about the prospect of an inflation rate lowered by adjustments in the computation list because they don't believe government figures.

"The government said inflation was 160 per cent last year, but our food bill went up nearly twice that and used up most of our earnings," scoffed a railroad worker whose wife is a teacher. "So whose figures do you believe?"

NEW 'TELEGRAPH' BEAM ZAPS THROUGH EARTH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Naval Research Laboratory physicists said Tuesday they are studying the feasibility of a radically new "telegraph" that would send coded messages through the Earth rather than around it.

The proposed technique would use coded beams of sub-atomic particles called neutrinos. They travel at or close to the speed of light and have enormous penetrating power — enough to go through the centre of the Earth without significant weakening.

According to Dr. Herbert Uberall, Catholic University physicist who first proposed neutrino communications, such a system would offer the protection of almost assured message secrecy.

He said a neutrino beam would defy jamming or reception by an "outsider" and would not be affected by weather, nuclear explosions or sunspots.

Dr. Albert Saenz, head of the NRL research team, told the American Physical Society it is hoped in the new few years that enough will be known about neutrino communications to proceed with a demonstration project.

A man-made neutrino beam would be generated by a high-energy atomic accelerator such as one at the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory at Batavia, Ill.

Saenz said although neutrinos cannot be detected directly, an array of optical instruments immersed in a large body of water could detect and decode the radiation byproduct of neutrinos moving through the water.

Signs Tourists Hate to See

NADI, Fiji (AP) — Signs, portents and announcements that drop a tourist in his tracks quicker than an elephant gun:

"Because of Sharks Swimming in These Waters is Unsafe." This notice on the beach in front of the Hotel Mendana on Guadalcanal cuts drastically into the daily bikini count on those loneliest of lonely white sands.

"Do Not Use in Fire or Earthquake." A common elevator sign throughout the Philippines which begs the annoying little question: What if one is already aboard when the Richter needle begins climbing with the floor indicators?

"Use Staircase During Air Raids." Checking into the 22nd floor of the Tel Aviv Hilton, the visitor learns right off that war is a way of life in Israel.

"Stings of our hornet bees very poisonous . . . if you get bitten on head get maybe double, triple vision . . . no good." Our boat guide delivered this fascinating bit of entomological information during the morning jungle cruise up Fiji's Nadi River. He was wearing a hat; no one else on board was.

"In the event this plane has to land on water, your lifejackets are located under your seat . . . a light will come on when you come in contact with the water and there is a whistle for attracting attention." Bumping over the high-noon thunderheads, with rain sheeting across the little round windows, the air passenger over the South Pacific grips the seat arms and half expects to hear Nearer My God to Thee on his stereo headset.

"Ladies in Miniskirts and Shorts May be Stoned." On the streets of strict Moslem Dacca, some of them seem to be, as the sign in the lobby of the Intercontinental warned, especially when the plane is in from Nepal.

"Welcome World Diarrhea Congress." Only a few weeks ago a banner with this strange device festooned the arrival lounge of the Bangkok airport, where the message was considered fair warning to the globe-trotting gourmet.

"Watch for Crocodiles Near 7th Tee." The rough can be very rough on the front nine at the Santo course on the island of Espiritu Santo in the New Hebrides.

"Tonight Our Charcoalette Ba-ba-cue" the chef in Fiji's Regent Hotel was trying to tell us something about the exotic native dishes, but we weren't quite sure what.

"We hate to disturb you at this time of night, sir, but you know the terrible troubles we do be having in this country, sure it's a terror, but they say there's a bomb in the hotel and you have three minutes to get out." At the Europa Hotel in Belfast, blown up a couple of dozen times, courtesy was always a watchword on the switchboard.

"Unexploded Bombs . . . No Smoking . . . No Fires". The sign marking Hell's Point, an old Second World War ammunition dump on Guadalcanal, warns that you enter at your own risk.

Now a Rare Chance to Invest in a Lawsuit

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The prospectus looks like any common, run-of-the-mill stock offering. But the investment offer is one of the most unusual ever filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission: a chance to buy shares in a multi-million-dollar law suit.

It is designed to raise money to cover the high cost of the suit, such as getting expert witnesses, paying for transcripts of pre-trial statements and hiring assistants to the lawyer.

As such, it is a unique effort to solve one of the major problems facing middle income Americans who want to take a case, especially one involving a major corporation, to court — the high cost of going to trial.

These costs can mount into the thousands of dollars, even when the lawyer takes a case on contingency fee basis, which means he gets paid a percentage only if he wins. Transcripts by court reporters, for example, can cost as much as 90 cents a page.

"We want to open up access to the courts," said Carl E. Person, the New York lawyer who came up with the idea of selling stock to finance the suit his client, Brooklyn inventor Christian Thee, has filed against Parker Brothers Inc. charging the company stole his idea for a game.

"There has to be ways made so the average person has recourse to the courts," added Thee. He is 43, self-employed painter, designer and part-time developer of games, whose income would not allow him to pursue an expensive lawsuit without help.

He is seeking $32 million in damages.

While Person said he cannot estimate the cost of the lawsuit, his detailed submission to the SEC indicated it could run to between $20,000 to $30,000 a year — not including his legal fees. This figure includes $13,000 for a paralegal aide; $3,000 a year for computer services, and secretarial and proofreading expenses which would be charged at the average rate of major law firms in New York City. There would also be a first-year expense of close to $10,000 to cover the cost of selling stock in the lawsuit.

The stock offering appears perfectly legal. It was registered with the New York office two years ago, but an official here said, "I've never heard of anything like it."

But the stock offering failed to win investor approval. Person said the only people willing to invest wanted just one or two shares — probably for their curiousity value — while the stock offering said shares are sold only in lots of 100.

Nonetheless, the lack of public response didn't daunt Person and Thee. "It was quite a stroke of genius on Carl's part," said Thee. "I do believe it is a step forward in making it possible for the average consumer to have some sort of leverage in the courts.

Person, a 1962 Harvard Law School graduate and former attorney with a major Wall Street law firm, now spends his life trying to make it easier for small businesses to take cases to court. He especially likes the notion of selling stock in lawsuits because, "I'm using capitalism to check the excesses of capitalism."

Person wanted to sell $500,000 worth of stock in the law suit — 100,000 shares at $5 each. The investors would get 25 percent a year on their money if he wins the suit. He said the investor would be paid before he gets his legal fees — 35 percent of any award — or Thee gets his money.

If he loses, he said, they will most likely get their original investment back, but they would not have earned any interest.

His plan, as described in an interview in his lower Manhattan office and in the offering circular filed with the SEC, calls for his investing the money gained from the stock sale in government bonds. He would use the interest from those bonds — estimated at about $30,000 a year if the entire 100,000 shares were sold — to finance the lawsuitdv

In this suit, Thee charges that Parker Brothers — a major marketer of games, including the perrenial best seller, Monopoly, which is now owned by General Mills — stole his idea for a game involving the buying and selling of art by players who move pieces around a board. Thee called his game Articrat and Artifax, and tried to sell it to Parker Brothers up until 1969.

One year after Thee submitted his idea to Parker Brothers for the last time, he charges, the company came out wih a similar game called Masterpiece, which it said was developed by a Chicago company called Marvin Glass £ Associates.

ROME — Members of the Red Brigades make model neighbors if a recently discovered manual on life in the underground is any indication.

It calls for constant, time-consuming efforts to appear to be as respectable, house-proud and hard-working as possible.

Via Gradoli 96, the apartment that apparently served as a hideout for at least some of the kidnappers of Aldo Moro until it was stumbled upon by police last week, was the perfect illustration of how members of the terrorist underground are expected to live, according to the loose-leaf manual entitled "Security Rules and Work Methods" found in the flat.

Any dwelling that is bought or rented, the manual says, "must be proletarian, modest, clean, neat and completely furnished. It must appear from the outside as a decent house — curtains, an entrance light, a doormat and a nameplate." There should be plants on the balcony, the manual says.

Brigades members are also instructed to take their automobiles to car washes regularly because dirty vehicles attract police attention.

"As a matter of principle," says the manual, "every militant must be reassuring and kind to neighbors, but strict discretion is absolutely necessary." Occupants should not make noise after hours, it says.

"The locks," says the manual, "should be replaced with anti-theft security locks."

As much attention should be paid to the street and the neighborhood as to the dwelling itself, the manual indicates. "The street must be easy for a militant to keep watch over and to observe any police surveillance, that is, if possible, it should not be near bars, public buildings,shops, institutes, warehouses, etc."

Above all, militants are expected to nurture their social images. Occupants must establish "a well-defined social identity, even in the smallest details," it says. "For example, (a militant) decides to present himself as a Fiat worker, or a teacher, or a salesman or a land surveyor, married or not, who lives with his brother, his fellow worker, etc.

"The role that each comrade chooses must then be consistently demonstrated in his everyday life. If, for example, he has assumed the role of an artisan, he must leave home every day before eight in the morning and not return before 12:30 p.m., go out again at 2 p.m. and come back home at 7 p.m. or after. This means that every comrade must organize his own work according to regular hours . . . . The role assumed must be carefully studied so that any irregularities in one's behavior can be explained."

The manual provides that documents, weapons and other organizational materials be kept in suitcases ready for quick getaway. Every month, it says, the contents of the dwelling should be reviewed to "clean out all useless, dangerous or compromising materials."

Among the things found in the third-floor apartment, uncovered only because the downstairs neighbor complained about a leak, was a register showing that $20,000 had been paid to buy weapons from regular gun shops.

There were also false Italian and foreign licence plates, uniforms thought to have been used by the Moro kidnappers, wigs, women's dresses, a large stock of canned food and blank stationery from Rome police headquarters.

Also found in the apartment was currency police said they could identify as being part of the ransoms from several kidnappings.

One of the rare successful police infiltrators into the red brigades, Silvano Gisoho, recently testified how Renato Curcio, the founder of the group on trial in Turin with 14 others, complained about the high costs of keeping people underground. Curcio allegedly spoke of financing the organization by "proletarian expropriations" — bank and payroll robberies, kidnappings and so forth.

The brigades; most lucrative known coup was their $1.6 million take to ransom Genoa shipping magnate Pietro Costa last year.

SPLIT OUT IN OPEN IN ARGENTINE JUNTA

Washington Post

BUENOS AIRES — The rivalry and tension that have long existed among Argentina's three armed services has spilled into the open with the ruling military junta suspending two newspapers for reporting that the army planned to reappoint Gen. Jorge Videla unilaterally as president.

While it does appear that Videla — with the strong backing of the army — will be selected at a formal meeting of the junta scheduled for Thursday, the government said it was "reckless" for the two newspapers to suggest that the navy and the air force would have no say in the matter.

In theory, all decisions must be unanimous, so the navy or air force could veto Videla's bid to remain as president. Adm. Emilio Massera, commander of the navy, has said privately he would use his veto power, apparently hoping some army generals who do not like Videla would look for another presidential candidate acceptable to the navy.

The generals, however, met last Friday — even as the two newspapers were being closed — and voted overwhelmingly to give Videla their support. Massera huddled with his admirals and, late on Friday, sources within the navy acknowledged that their four-month game over Videla's future was probably over.

The succession question arises because military regulations — obeyed here even when the constitution is not — dictate the retirement shortly of the three current service commanders who comprise the junta. The navy has contended that as Videla retires as commander of the army, a new "fourth man" should be named as president.

Even the navy agrees the president must come from the army because of its overwhelming power.

The navy could still veto Videla's bid for president, the sources said, but if the army refused to come up with another candidate, there would be a serious crisis that the navy could not abide.

Many people here believe a public split would hasten the day when the armed forces had no choice but to return the country to civilian rule.

Most Try Pot: Survey

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A three-year, countrywide study of 17,000 high school seniors indicates that by 1977, 56 per cent of them had at least tried marijuana, University of Michigan researchers report.

The University's Institute for Social Research said the use of marijuana went up nine per cent from 1975 to 1977, while there was no significant increase in the use of other illicit drugs.

The survey showed about one of every 11 students smoked marijuana on a daily basis.

Researchers Lloyd Johnson, Jerald Bachman and Patrick O'Malley said the survey showed a steady decline in the percentage of seniors who associated detrimental effects with marijuana use or disapproved it.

The proportion favoring decriminalization has increased so that now only 22 per cent of the seniors believe marijuana use should still be treated as a crime, the study showed.

Fewer than 10 per cent of the young people believe marijuana experimentation is risky with only 36 per cent saying regular use involves significant risk.

The research team said those studied generally consider regular smoking to be more harmful than marijuana use and regular drinking to be about as harmful.

About 36 per cent of the seniors said they have used a drug, other than marijuana, without medical supervision.

Aerocar's Time Still Hasn't Come

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) — Twenty-eight years ago, Moulton B. Taylor thought his flying car would revolutionize transportation.

Today, the Aerocar sits in his workshop here, still waiting for its time to come.

"It would be one thing if this were a dream, but it's not," says Taylor, 65. "My flying auto is way ahead of its time."

Taylor designed and built his first Aerocar in 1950. The Federal Aviation Administration certified the vehicle in 1956, but financial problems have blocked production.

He estimates it would cost at least $200 million to begin producing the Aerocar, which would sell for about $10,000. Most of the initial investment would be spent satisfying government safety and anti-pollution regulations, he says.

Timing has to be right. People have to be right and the interest has to be right, says Jim Pope, chief of the industry and government liaison division of the office of general aviation in Washington, D.C. "We haven't been able to put together those variable's so far. Maybe sometime in the future."

Inquiries still trickle into Taylor's office and workshop.

With a 500 mile range in flight, the Aerocar cruises at about 125 miles an hour with two adults and 100 pounds of baggage, he says. It burns eight gallons of fuel an hour in a 143 horsepower Lycoming engine. On the highway, the car travels up to 60 m.p.h. at 15 miles per gallon.

The vehicle tows its wings, tail and propeller around on a self-contained trailer system and Taylor says the car can be converted to an airplane in about five minutes. The wings fold forward and the tail section with a pusher propeller attach to the rear of the car.

Taylor says he hasn't flown the Aerocar in over a year because the vehicle is not currently licensed. He said the car takes eight licences to operate legally, including federal and state airplane licences, state auto licence, state trailer licence, federal radio licence, federal radio-telephone operator's licence, state pilot's licence and federal pilot's licence.

"It's the only vehicle that will get you from my house to your house and average more than 50 m.p.h.," Taylor says. "The name of the game is time."

Before The Judge

Three men were charged in Victoria provincial court Tuesday with conspiracy to fabricate evidence to be used in a judicial proceeding.

Charged were 25-year-old Bruce John Anderson, 3715 Belgrave, 24-year-old Bruce William Shinnan, 616 Kent, and 18-year-old Dennis Michael Nanos, 1625 Belmont. Anderson and Shinnan are also facing nine counts of theft and possession of stolen property.

Judge Blake Allan denied bail to Anderson and Shinnan but ordered the release of Nanos on his own recognizance in the sum of $2,000.

All three were remanded to Friday to fix a preliminary hearing date.

Victor Leroy Burridge, 63, of 812 Langham, was charged with possession of materials to commit forgery. The charge alleges Burridge had two rubber stamps.

Defence lawyer William McElmoyle made an application Friday when Burridge first appeared. He moved to quash the original charge of possessing an "instrument" to commit forgery and was ready to argue that the legal definition of instrument was a "written document."

However, Crown counsel Don Laughton prevented the necessity of legal argument by substituting the word "material" in the new charge.

McElmoyle elected trial by county court judge without jury and a preliminary hearing date of Aug. 23 was set.

Burridge was charged after Colwood RCMP arrested a man March 23 as he left the Colwood Rubber Stamp Co., 577 Hallsor, with two bank cheque certification stamps.

An 18-year-old youth pleaded guilty to seven counts of false pretences and was remanded in custody until Friday for a pre-sentence report and sentencing.

Corey David Baird, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to writing seven worthless cheques totalling $321.96 between Feb. 9 and 28. Four of the cheques were to Canada Safeway and the others were written to Radio Shack, Woolworth's and Econo-Mart.

Laughton also told the court further charges may be forthcoming from California and Alberta.

A 37-year-old man was sentenced to one day in jail and placed on 12 months' probation after pleading guilty to defrauding the Royal Bank of Canada in Port Coquitlam of $200.

Kenneth Robert Crawford, serving a 12-month term for 18 counts of false pretences imposed in Vancouver Nov. 23, entered the plea. Laughton told the court Crawford went to the bank Aug. 29 and opened an account with a $300 cheque on a closed Surrey Credit Union account. Laughton said Crawford then returned to the bank later that day and withdrew $200.

Defence counsel Scott Marshall told the court Crawford has been trying to get all outstanding charges cleaned up when he was sentenced in November but this one escaped him.

Allan, in agreeing with Marshall's suggestion of a short sentence with probation, also ordered Crawford, who is presently on a work-release program, to make restitution to the Royal Bank in Port Coquitlam.

Sentence Suspended

Two years' probation was imposed Tuesday in county court when sentence was suspended for two counts of indecent assault against Rick Darrell Eric Gouge, 24, of Victoria.

Gouge pleaded guilty to the charges, involving a six-year-old girl in January and an 18-year-old girl in September of last year.

The Crown did not ask for a jail sentence in view of the fact that there were neither aggravated circumstances nor violence, and that Gouge had been in custody nearly four months.

Judge E.J.C. Stewart ordered Gouge to be of good behavior, to attend a day hospital program at Eric Martin Institute of Psychiatry and take other psychiatric treatment as required.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. N. R. Stewart and to all the staff at Sandringham Private Hospital for the sympathetic care, acts of kindness and understanding given to my mother, especially during the last few months. My heartfelt gratitude to Mrs. Chandler, Mrs. Dube and the nursing staff, the A-wing Aides and to Mrs. Reynolds (now of Oak Bay Manor). —Betty Fiddess.

309 IN MEMORIAM

FULTON — In loving memory of James Ware, who passed away April 26, 1977.
Our kind and loving father,
We think of you today.
And recall the happy hours
Ere the day you passed away.
Never shall your memory fade,
And although we miss you so,
We are waiting till we, also Leave this world of strife and woe.
—Daughter and son-in-law Dorothy and Neil, grandchildren Sharon and Tom, and great-grandchildren.

SUTHERLAND — In loving memory of our dear sons, Phillip Lawrence and Bernie Daniel Sutherland, Suddenly on April 26, 1975.
Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain;
But, though we're parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
Some day, we know not when,
We shall meet in a better land.
And never part again;
We shall meet with many a loved one
That was torn from our embrace,
We shall listen to their voices,
And behold them face to face.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
—Always remembered by Mom and Dad, Granny Planes, and Leona, Bob, Connie, Brandy, Pat, Frankie, Debbie, Cherie, Lorraine Sutherland, Danny and David.

In loving memory of our 2 brothers,
Time speeds on, three years have passed;
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast.
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Their vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
—Remembered by sisters Janet and David Tubman, Cristie, Trina, Heather and Alan Lund, Cheryl, Michael.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE. SANDS

Mexico Plans Nuclear Plant

CARDEL, Mexico (AP) — Mexico's first nuclear power plant will be operating by 1982 and will produce 1.3 million kilowatts of electrical power a year, managers of the plant say. The $1.1-billion plant, on the Gulf of Mexico in the state of Veracruz, will receive it first shipment of enriched uranium in November. It is believed the uranium will come from the United States.

Namibia Independence Accepted by S. Africa

Times News Services

CAPE TOWN - South African Prime Minister John Vorster announced Tuesday that his government has accepted a Western-sponsored plan to bring independence to the disputed territory of Namibia by the end of the year.

Vorster's decision to accept the Western formula for ending 58 years of South African rule over the mineral-rich territory seemed likely to bring strong international pressure to bear on the guerrilla group that has been battling South Africa, the South West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO).

If SWAPO also can be persuaded to accept the Western plan — which calls for an end to the guerrilla war, introduction of a U.N. peace-keeping force and free elections for a constituent assembly — a transition to majority rule will prove possible without the kind of civil war looming in Rhodesia.

In New York, where the U.N. General Assembly is holding a debate on the Namibian situation, SWAPO leader Sam Nujoma declined immediate comment on Vorster's statement.

"That's his problem," Nujoma said.

The independence plan, drawn up during the past year by the United States, Britain, France, Canada and West Germany, envisages a phased withdrawal of the 20,000 South African troops currently based in Namibia by the end of the year.

Meanwhile, the government of Namibia warned black guerrillas to halt all fighting while the independence question was under discussion, saying new violence would be met with all possible force.

Marthinus Steyn, administrator-general of Namibia said he would oppose attacks by the South West Africa Peoples Organization "with all the means I have at my disposal."

Steyn said it was too early to say when one-man, one-vote elections would be held.

The South African-appointed administrator-general said SWAPO guerrillas and the United Nations General Assembly had not yet approved the Western plan.

"But South Africa's acceptance has shown that South Africa and the West are in agreement that a peaceful political process has to be followed to obtain independence," Steyn said.

Exam Cheats Expelled From Party

HONG KONG (AP) — Two education officials on the south China island of Hainan have been expelled from the Communist party and two others have been reprimanded for giving college-entrance exam questions in advance to their own children, a Hong Kong Communist newspaper reported. Wen Wei Po said the four, who included the chief of a county educational bureau, also encouraged their children to copy from other students.

Talks 'Doomed'

SALISBURY (WP) — Rhodesia's multiracial leaders Tuesday rejected as "doomed to certain failure" the British-American proposal for a conference including militant guerrilla factions opposed to the new government here.

In an interview, Prime Minister Ian Smith said he and his three black colleagues in the ruling Executive Council had sent a message to Britain and the United States telling them they were on the wrong track with such a conference.

"We believe they would be well advised to direct their energies into considering the very real and constructive success we've achieved in our agreement here," he said, referring to the accord signed in Salisbury March 3 between his government and leaders of three black internal groups.

Rest Haven Future Decided by Firm

The B.C.-based development company of Abacus Cities Ltd. has been asked by the Seventh Day Adventist Church to develop plans for future use of the Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney.

The church owns an 11-acre site which includes extensive waterfront property on Tsehum Harbor and the three-acre island on which the hospital stands.

Built in 1912, the 59-bed hospital closed April 10 and the patients were transferred to the new 75-bed acute-care wing of the Saanich Peninsula Hospital. The move was made because of Rest Haven's age and the difficulty in making renovations.

The church, which has owned the hospital since 1921 had suggested it be used on a temporary basis for intermediate or extended care as a means of solving the shortage of such beds in the capital region.

When the regional district's hospital and health planning commission turned down the suggestion the church began considering other uses.

Pastor A.W. Kaynor, president of the B.C. Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, says the church chose Abacus because of the company's expertise and experience in the western Canada development field.

Walter Rogers, the church's development secretary, says the church hopes to retain its "long-established identity" with Sidney.

P.A. Levitt, Abacus vice-president and general manager of the company's Victoria office, says extensive environmental and social impact studies will be made, as well as market studies, before proposals are prepared that will retain the property's unique values and the church's association with Sidney.

Market Square in downtown Victoria is one of the company's developments.

BAY STREET CLOSED

Bay Street between Government and Douglas Streets will be closed to traffic this weekend, Traffic Engineer Derek Wild announced today.

Wild said the closure, which takes effect 7 a.m. Saturday and lasts until 7 a.m. Monday will allow for reconstruction of the road at Bay and Government as well as completion of a major deep sewer project at Bay and Douglas.

Traffic on the street will be limited to single lanes until Sunday, May 7.

Walkout At CBC

TORONTO (CP) — For the second time in a week, most staff announcers at CBC's head office in Toronto have walked off the job to protest the corporation's position on contract negotiations, a CBC spokesman said today.

Cec Smith, CBC public relations officer, said about 30 announcers, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), left their jobs at 6 a.m. EST. It was not immediately known how long the announcers would remain off the job.

Smith said their work was being done by supervisory personnel and that no major effect on radio and television programming was anticipated. He said he did not think there would be any interference Thursday with the sixth game of the Toronto Maple Leafs-New York Islanders finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Lamontagne Picketed

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

Members of the Victoria local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) used the unveiling today of Captain Cook stamps to register some complaints about the post office right to the top.

The employees set up an information picket line this morning outside the Maritime Museum in Bastion Square where Postmaster General Giles Lamontagne was introducing the new stamps.

The CUPW members carried placards protesting federal legislation which prohibits postal strikes during a federal election — Bill C-45 — as well as conditions at the Victoria processing plant.

Of particular concern to the employees, who have been engaged in a battle with plant manager Duncan Brooks for more than three months, is a recent move to hire five casual workers.

This, the employees say, is in direct violation of their contract.

The postmaster-general met earlier in the morning with some union members — the CUPW people did not show up — and said the employee-employer situation here is better than in most other areas.

However, he did say there is a local problem involving communications between the employees at the processing plant and the plant manager.

"I think that can be cured," he said. "I intend to talk to him about it."

Lamontagne said he is unaware of a report that mail redirectory service had been discontinued as a matter of policy on Monday and reinstituted the following day.

A CUPW spokesman said the post office told area managers last week to no longer redirect first class mail which for one reason or another could not be delivered either because of a wrong address or change of address.

This policy was only to be applied for mail sent within the country and not for mail from other countries.

The union spokesman said the new policy was cancelled the next day and the directory service reinstituted.

Lamontagne said he was not aware of the situation but later after the news conference, one of his aides said the post office had intended to stop the directory service on Monday but that the plan was never carried through because it was pointed out at the last moment that such a cancellation of service had to be negotiated between the unions and the post office.

SMOKE ALARMS IN GOV'T UNITS

The provincial government will install smoke detectors in all provincially-owned housing units, Housing Minister Hugh Curtis said Tuesday.

Curtis said in a news release that he has instructed the B.C. Housing Management Commission to prepare a report on the matter, involving 136 housing developments and 18,000 tenants.

The minister said there will be no charge to tenants for the estimated $500,000 project.

Women Swell Labor Force

A federal government publication says there were 3.8 million women in the Canadian labor force in 1976, 37.4 per cent of the total number of workers.

The report, prepared by the women's bureau of Labor Canada, says 45 per cent of the total female population participated in the work force and this is expected to increase to 47.4 per cent by 1980.

The latest edition of Women In the Labor Force forecasts that by 1980 there will be 4.3 million working women or 38.1 per cent of the total number of employees.

The publication says the number of women union members in all industries increased 160.2 per cent from 1966 to 1976, compared with 40 per cent for men.

The biggest percentage increase for women was in the service industries where there were 417,292 women union members in 1976 and 80,671 in 1966, a difference of 417.3 per cent.

In the construction industry, there were 136 per cent more women union members in 1976 than in 1966.

Win Sours Romance

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man engaged to a $1 million lottery winner says the wedding is off following a fight over the money, and he is suing her for half of her winnings.

Wilfred Stoeser, 58, has launched county court action in New Westminster, claiming Dorreen Holgate, 53, had agreed to share any winnings equally with him.

Stoeser, a construction foreman, and Miss Holgate, a mail clerk, had agreed to be married and looked for an apartment in Burnaby.

But the relationship cooled after she won the top prize in the March 27 draw of the Provincial lottery. Stoeser said when a lottery official went to Miss Holgate's apartment to inform her of her prize, he had to leave because the exitement was too much for his heart problem.

He said Miss Holgate was to call him later and she did so—to tell him to quit pestering her.

Judge Stewart McMorran has ordered Miss Holgate to pay half the $1 million into the court or a lawyer's trust fund until the suit is settled.

GOYER'S FILES DESTROYED?

Large Gap Bared In RCMP Reports

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-four monthly reports by the RCMP to the federal solicitor-general giving details of the force's surveillance operations are missing and might have been destroyed, according to the CBC.

In a report from Ottawa the network says the reports for 1971 and 1972 were requested by the McDonald royal commission investigating RCMP activities but have not been found.

It says the practice of reporting monthly to the solicitor-general continued until 1974 and that the McDonald commission has the reports for 1973 and 1974. Jean-Pierre Goyer was solicitor-general in 1971 and 1972.

The CBC says the missing documents cover crucial years when the RCMP was under strong pressure to avoid another crisis similar to the one in 1970 involving the Front de Liberation du Quebec. It says the RCMP began some highly questionable activities such as the break-in at the Agence de Presse Libre du Quebec during those two years.

In the Commons, meanwhile, Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais said Tuesday government lawyers have determined that about 400 RCMP break-ins without warrants, revealed last week at a federal royal commission, were legal operations.

Blais told opposition MPs justice department lawyers have prepared a legal opinion "to the effect that these procedures are legal."

He told reporters he thinks the legal argument has already been tabled before the federal commission investigating illegal RCMP acts. He refused any further comment.

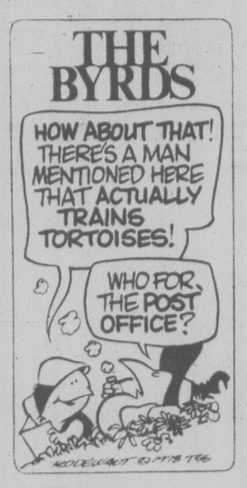

Blais said that if an illegal act is revealed contrary to instructions given the RCMP by the government "that activity will be the subject of possible prosecution."

In Toronto, the Globe and Mail says that selected members of the RCMP were issued detailed instructions on political surveillance and on reporting on candidates in federal, provincial and municipal elections in the early 1970s.

In an Ottawa story, the newspaper says seven pages of instructions, apparently taken from an RCMP manual, were received in the mail Monday by one of the national political parties.

But a spokesman for

MISSING MAIL BEHIND SAFE

KAMLOOPS (CP) — About 85 pieces of mail, including post cards, hydro bills and income tax returns, misplaced during the last 10 years, have been discovered behind a safe in a postal substation at Knutsford, seven kilometres south of here.

The postmistress "poked" behind the safe that supported the basket used to catch posted letters" and found the missing letters.

B.C. Seeks BCR Deal In Ottawa

German-built locomotive set for last haul over to Port Angeles

The provincial government is trying to negotiate a multi-million dollar deal for Ottawa to help B.C. with transportation in the north, including the upgrading of the financially-troubled B.C. Rail link to Fort Nelson.

In a proposal presented to Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen last week, the B.C. government says it wants the federal government and a pipeline consortium to help pay for the upgrading of the financially-troubled railway link to Fort Nelson, arguing that the rail link will be used to carry supplies for use on the pipeline project in northern B.C. and southern Yukon.

The suggestion is that without the requested financial assistance from Ottawa, the B.C. government will have to collect the needed revenues by imposing higher and perhaps discriminatory taxes on the pipeline that passes through B.C.

Under a U.S.-Canada agreement Canada agreed that there would be no discriminatory taxes imposed on the pipeline.

But since Ottawa cannot restrict the constitutional right of the affected provinces — B.C., Alberta, and Saskatchewan — to levy taxes on projects within its borders, the federal government has been trying to complete agreements with each of the three provinces to guarantee that they would refrain from imposing taxes.

Premier Bill Bennett said Tuesday the talks have been going on for several months and have reached a detailed, ministerial level, involving Economic Development Minister Don Phillips, Labor Minister Allan Williams and MacEachen.

Bennett discussed federal

Committee Slams Wolfe

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

The Crown corporations legislative committee Tuesday criticized Finance Minister Evan Wolfe's for turning over questions regarding B.C. Hydro to the committee.

Committee members — a majority of whom are Socreds — unanimously passed a resolution to investigate the Vancouver Province questions on its own initiative.

Committee chairman Elwood Veitch (Socred — Burnaby Willingdon) tabled the list of questions along with a resolution which said in part: "The committee regrets the manner in which the question was drawn to its attention; namely a statement by the minister responsible for B.C. Hydro in the house."

The committee also said it does not intend to be used as a clearing house for questions from the media.

The 45 questions, mainly concerning the letting of contracts for Hydro power projects, will be the basis for the committee's inquiry which will commence May 10.

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson who initiated the motion, said the fact it passed unanimously is an indication of how important the independence of the committee is to all its members, even the Socred backbenchers who form the majority on the 13-member committee.

Meanwhile, in the Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) produced an internal B.C. Hydro memo telling employees to keep mum if approached by newsmen.

The date on the memo, which went out over the signature of D. G. McKillop, manager of general services, shows it was issued two days after the reporters met with Hydro chairman Robert Bonner seeking answers to the same questions.

Under the heading protection of confidential information, the memo warns employees that if approached by

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — A bomb was thrown through the window of a bus carrying West German tourists in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan today, killing two people and wounding six, witnesses reported.

Loco Puffing Southward

After years of trying to find a home for his steam locomotive in Victoria, Leonard Hutton has finally made a sale — south of the border.

Buyer Al Simpkins arrived today with crane and truck to lift the eight-ton engine out of Hutton's backyard at 1770 Townley for the trip to Port Angeles.

Simpkins plans to develop a mini-rail-line, something Hutton tried but could not ever seem to get permission to do here.

"He'll probably do okay," said Hutton, a 74-year-old former steam engineer.

"I sure don't like to see it go. But I'm getting up in years and can't seem to find a place for it here."

Hutton bought the engine through a an ad in a train buff magazine in 1964. Made by Henschel & Son of Kassel, Germany, it had been used on dam construction projects in Germany after the war.

He tried unsuccessfully to convince Saanich it would be just the thing for Beaver Lake Park.

He tried Surrey but only got an offer of a five-year lease without any guarantee of renewal.

He said always thought Beacon Hill would be the ideal place but didn't ever bother approaching the city.

"I knew they'd just turn me down."

Hutton said he isn't sure what he'll do now.

"I've been thinking of picking up something else . . . maybe a steam roller.

Exchange Controls 'Fiction'

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday denounced as "fiction" the claim by the official opposition's financial critic that the federal government has now prepared in draft form legislation that would impose foreign exchange controls.

Progressive Conservative Finance Critic Sinclair Stevens informed the commons that he had learned from two officials that the justice department has drafted a measure which would impose a limitation of $600 on the amount of Canadian funds a resident of this country could take out of Canada, in one year.

Trudeau said since he had been drawn into "this fictional account" by the opposition's finance critic he wanted to assure the commons that the statements by Stevens had no foundation in fact. He said there was no such legislation "in my hands."

In New York today the Canadian dollar was down slightly at $8.22 cents U.S. after a modest recovery Monday and Tuesday.

BRYCE QUITS QUE. SEAT

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Bryce Mackasey resigned his seat in the Quebec national assembly Tuesday.

His resignation puts pressure on Claude Ryan, the former publisher elected April 15 as leader of the Quebec Liberal party, to run in Mackasey's Montreal riding, Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

Ryan says he will make a decision on whether or not to run in the next three weeks.

2,4-D Spraying Delayed Year

A one-year postponement of plans to spray the herbicide 2,4-D along power line rights-of-way on Vancouver Island will be used by B.C. Hydro to increase research into alternative methods of controlling vegetation.

Gordon Roper, Vancouver Island manager, said the Crown corporation will continue research into limiting the growth of alder and maple trees, the main problem on rights-of-way on the island.

Roper said maintenance requirements for power line rights-of-way were re-examined following meetings with residents in the Campbell River area, where spraying of the herbicide was proposed.

Hydro had proposed that crews using backpack spray equipment would apply 2,4-D to alder and maple stumps along power lines between Black Creek and Campbell River and between Gold River and Tahsis. Strong opposition to the spraying was voiced by area residents.

Black Creek residents had threatened to set up picket lines to stop the spraying and to refuse to pay Hydro electric bills until the use of 2,4-D was cancelled. The Campbell River Environmental Council feared it would be toxic to numerous fish habitats.

Council secretary Shirley Duncan said Tuesday that Hydro appears to have considered the feelings of local residents be cancelling spraying.

Roper said studies show selective cutting of higher trees one year later would not jeopardize the safety of power lines. Hydro studies will concentrate on non-chemical maintenance methods, including clearing by hand and introducing species which will dominate alder and maple.

He said limited spraying might be needed for comparisons but Ms. Duncan questioned Hydro's plans to continue the use of 2,4-D in small test-plots, saying the corporation has been spraying for 25 years and should have all the information it needs.

Roper said Hydro will apply limited amounts of herbicide on some sections of rights-of-way elsewhere on Vancouver Island, primarily to stumps after hand-cutting to prevent re-growth.

Mexican Police Hold 3

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mexican state police are holding three suspects in connection with the murder of an elderly Canadian couple found Friday shot to death in their beach home at Playa Azul, a Canadian consular official in Mexico City said Tuesday.

The three, arrested in nearby Manzanillo, are being interrogated by police as the search continues for other possible suspects, the official said in a telephone interview.

The bodies of Robert McJannet, 67, and his wife Cynthia, 57, of White Rock, were found by police who began an investigation after the couple's car was found abandoned on a nearby road.

Mr. McJannet had been shot four times, once in the head, while his wife had been shot once in the head, police said.

300,000 Jobs Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien said Tuesday a minimum of 300,000 new jobs should be created in 1978 but he declined opposition invitations to estimate the jobless rate over the next year.

The growth in the number of jobs is based on government projections of five-per-cent real economic growth this year, Chretien told the Commons finance committee.

He noted that despite a seasonally-adjusted jobless rate in March of 8.6 per cent, there were 330,000 more jobs in March than a year earlier.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, tried to get Chretien to speculate about unemployment levels for the rest of the year and 1979 but the minister refused.

Stevens noted that a paper prepared for the February meeting of federal and provincial premiers had predicted 5.5-per-cent unemployment by 1981.

Why was it easier to predict the unemployment rate for 1981 than it was for the next few months? Stevens asked.

"That's a target, not a prediction," Chretien retorted. "The target (for 1979) is lower unemployment."

Finance officials also told the committee they had looked into the cost of allowing deduction of municipal taxes and mortgage payments from income tax but concluded they would cut too much into government revenue.

McGeer Wants ICBC Award Scale

A major reform in the automobile insurance system was urged Tuesday by Education Minister Pat McGeer.

McGeer, the minister responsible for the Insurance Corportion of B.C., said in an interview that he wants a system of compensation for bodily injury with a set scale of benefits, similar to that provided under the Worker's Compensation Act.

The benefits would be predictable and therefore fair to all concerned.

"The present system seems to be in a little bit of chaos because we don't really know what an appropriate award for a given bodily injury might be," McGeer said.

"One victim of an automobile crash may receive 10 times the compensation that another receives."

The minister said he was outlining a personal view which had not been presented to cabinet, and anticipated that it will be opposed by lawyers.

McGeer said disputes frequently go to court — he estimated that 50 per cent of the cases before the B.C. Supreme Court are automobile injury cases — and the plaintiff frequently has to pay a large share of his award to his lawyer.

"It's an excellent thing for the lawyers but it's not a particularly good thing for the public because so much time, energy and money are wasted while these decisions are thrashed out in lengthy court trials."

McGeer said drivers now pay the same premiums "but you might be able to claim in the event of injury many times what I would be able to claim simply because your earnings were higher or you might have a smarter lawyer working for you in court."

McGeer said the decision to go to such a system would have to be made by the legislature with the consent of the public and the legal profession.

ICBC has put aside $76 million this year to take care of anticipated bodily injury claims for prior years.

Haven for Sea Otters May Honor Explorer

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

The director of the B.C. Ecological Reserves department has come up with a unique proposal to honor the memory of Capt. Cook.

Bristol Foster suggests that Checleset Bay — on the west coast of Vancouver Island — be established as an ecological reserve for sea otters.

Foster also wants to see a transplant of sea otters from Alaska to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The ecological reserve would provide a permanent home for the otters, which were almost hunted to extinction in B.C. waters during the 19th century, he said.

And the transplant proposal would restore the otters to the Charlottes where they once thrived in the thousands.

Foster's reason for proposing Checleset Bay as a memorial reserve is because Capt. Cook is considered one of Canada's first conservationists.

"Cook was aware of the impact Europeans would have both on wildlife and on the native people once his discoveries were made known," Foster said.

"He foresaw what was coming.

"But there is another reason. We owe it to these friendly animals which once were hunted to the brink. It (establishment of a reserve) is something constructive."

Checleset Bay, situated about 15 miles west of Kyuquot, includes the Bunsby Islands.

The area is where 89 sea otters from Alaska's Amchitka Island were released between 1969 and 1972 in a B.C. government project to restore them to provincial waters.

The colony is reported to be doing well. Seventy otter were counted around the Bunsby Islands in February and several other family groups are believed living in small inlets around the bay.

Foster said the Checleset Bay proposal is before the provincial government and has the backing of scientists.

The Island Protection Society in the Queen Charlottes has been pressing for an otter transplant from Alaska but so far has got nowhere because of bureaucracy.

"It's strange that the Vancouver zoo can obtain six sea otters from Alaska without any trouble while the Queen Charlottes request just sits there," Foster said.

"I know Prime Minister Trudeau would be in favor if we could get through to him. But I think it would take someone like Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf to get things moving in Ottawa."

Ian MacAskie, a biologist with the federal biological station at Nanaimo visited the Bunsby Islands last fall and found the Checleset Bay transplant was a huge success.

"But the best way to protect these animals is to designate the bay as an ecological reserve," he said.

Like many biologists and conservationists, MacAskie believes history alone is a good enough reason to set aside Checleset as a reserve.

Man's treatment of the sea otter over the years doesn't make pleasant reading.

Early records show that when Cook arrived on the coast, the otter was a friendly mammal with little or no fear of man. They numbered in the hundreds of thousands off the B.C. coast.

— Indians took them only as needed and the otter population was undiminished.

But when Europeans offered iron tools to the Indians for the furs, a lucrative and bloody trade opened.

Otter fur was fashionable in China and fantastically high prices were paid for pelts from this continent.

Captain Dixon, in his voyage discovery to the Queen Charlotte Islands — which he named in 1787 — was greeted by Haidas wearing sea otter robes.

It is recorded that he bought 1,821 skins which at current Canton prices would have been worth $80,000.

In the late 1700s and early 1800s many vessels were engaged in the otter fur trade. The Russians obtained pelts from the Aleuts in Alaska, and the Europeans, mainly Boston traders, bartered for them from the Indians on the coast.

The greed of some Boston traders was such that they opened fire on native villages if the inhabitants did not produce furs.

The otters were clubbed to death wherever they were found on the coast and by the turn of the century, were practically extinct on the Pacific Northwest.

The slaughter of the sea mammals appalled poet-author Rudyard Kipling when he visited the coast in the early 1900s and his writings on the subject may have had some effect.

In 19ll the animal was finally given the protection of an international fur seal treaty.

In Alaska, the sea otter was able to make a comeback and today in the Aleutians there are now more than 150,000.

The Soviet Union has also established colonies off the coast of Siberia but has provided the world with little information on their progress.

Few British Columbians today have ever seen a sea otter.

The animal they often mistake for the sea otter is the river otter, a smaller animal weighing about 30 pound.

The sea mammal weighs between 50 and 80 pounds and frequents kelp beds where he is sometime seen sleeping on his back.

He is sensitive to pollution and like a sea bird will die if his fur comes in contact with oil.

Student Job Scene Looking Brighter

The youth employment office which opened in Victoria today will find work for about 2,500 students this summer, up 100 per cent from last year.

As a result, more than half the 6,000 students looking for work will find jobs, says Gordon Hubley, director of Employment and Insurance for B.C. and the Yukon.

"All but about 2,000 should be able to find work. The unemployed total could be even less if we have a better tourist year than expected."

The forecast is based upon 2,000 jobs provided in Victoria through various federal government programs plus about 500 in provincially-funded jobs.

Both levels of government will be operating out of the single office at 2653 Douglas, which was officially opened at 12.30 p.m. today by Postmaster General Giles Lamontagne (in place of Employment and Immigration minister Bud Cullen) and provincial Labor Minister Allan Williams.

Hubley said that, in addition to the students placed through the youth employment office, several hundred more would find work on their own, leaving only about 2,000 students without jobs.

"The unemployment level is still serious but conditions are improving."

Last summer only 1,200 of 6,000 Victoria students found work through the federal youth employment office.

The tourist boom is credited for the improved conditions for young people. Many jobs will be available in hotels, restaurants and other service industries.Forest industry jobs will also be more plentiful than in past years.

This is the first year the federal and provincial government are operating their programs out of a single office.

Employers can offer jobs or make enquiries by phoning 388-3458. Students looking for work should come to the office in person rather than phoning.

During the opening ceremonies, provincial Labor Minister Williams announced the province would provide jobs for 13,700 students this summer at a cost of $22.8 million. It was not immediately know how many of these would be available in Victoria but one spokesman estimated it would be at least 500.

Barber, Bawlf Argue Over Job Cutbacks

Victoria's two MLAs locked horns in the legislature Tuesday in a lengthy debate on the effect of civil service cutbacks on Victoria.

NDP MLA Charles Barber accused government spokesmen of making speeches throughout the province saying the civil service is being reduced, while claiming in Victoria the cutbacks won't amount to much.

During debate on Finance Minister Evan Wolfe's spending estimates for the current fiscal year, Barber asked Wolfe to detail the extent of the job loss in Victoria.

But it was Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf, the other Victoria MLA, who eventually rose to present the government's view.

The minister said Barber was once again getting hysterical over the alleged reduction of employment by government in its Crown corporations in the capital city.

He accused Barber of not having any facts and said his questions to Wolfe were an attempt to find figures to support his allegations.

Bawlf said the termination of an established position which may not be filled is not the same as laying workers off.

The latter number of people has not changed dramatically by any stretch of the imagination, he said.

Barber continued to press Wolfe unsuccessfully to get details of the 1,407 positions which the treasury board says have been terminated.

Quoting from Wolfe's own statements Monday Barber said: "Now listen carefully please, especially Sam (Bawlf). Get it right this time — 'a net reduction in provincial government employment of some 1,407 positions."

Barber said Bawlf's lame defence of Wolfe is unbelieveable.

"The impact on the economy of Victoria has been very bad, very heavy and very devastating."

WOMAN BILKED

Two con men posing as bank examiners have bilked an elderly woman of $1,700 and Victoria city police have warned the pair may strike again.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the fraud occurred Monday when the men asked the woman to help them nab a dishonest employee who was illegally withdrawing funds from bank customer's accounts.

The woman agreed to withdraw $1,700 and hand it over to the men, who told her it would be returned to her account.

If anyone makes such a request, the person involved should notify police immediately, Stewart said.

Dept. Store Plan Backed

Victoria Downtown Business Association director Bob Chorley said today he fully supports Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf's campaign for a third major department store in downtown Victoria.

Reginald Hind, Victoria manager for Eatons, said he also backs the proposal.

Chorley, manager of The Bay, said the verbal battle between Bawlf and Victoria Real Estate Board president Bev Highton, who said a convention centre is a higher priority for downtown than a third department store, is an example of the petty disputes that erupt in the Victoria region.

"There is no sense firing bullets at each other on this," Chorley said.

"It makes no sense to be quarrelling when it is clear we need both a convention centre and a third department store downtown. We should stop fighting and start working together."

Chorley said the lesson is clear from other cities that business must expand downtown or the core of the city with whither away.

"We are talking about something that can not happen before 1979 at the earliest. If a third department store is to be establishied downtown it will take many months of planning."

Other Victoria businessmen also supported Bawlf's proposal. Derek Denny of Standard Furniture said a third department store is long overdue.

Phillip Holmes, past president of the International Real Estate Federation and a past president of the local real estate board, said top priority should go to a convention centre but a third department store is also needed.

Tax Hike Looms For City Homes

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Property taxes will jump an average of 12 per cent on single family homes in Victoria this year unless city council can work some major changes between now and May 11.

Council's finance committee chairman Ald. Murray Glazier said today that after 20 budget vetting sessions the committee has tentatively settled on a mill rate levy for 1978 that calls for an increase of 5.9 mills.

In 1977 the mill rate was 98.8 but as the budget stands now that will increase to 104.8 mills, a jump of 6 per cent.

The city approved a $41-million budget last year and is now poised to pass a $45.7-million budget for 1978.

To avoid tax increases council would have to cut more than $2.5-million from spending estimates.

Although the mill rate is going up 6 per cent, the overall increase in taxes will be more because of shifts in assessment by the province.

"Now that we've worked out this tentative levy we know that we've got an impact here that will average 12 per cent on the ordinary single family home," said Glazier.

He explained that recent provincial government changes in the assessment act has shifted the tax burden in the community, so that owners of single family dwellings will be hit with increases while apartment owners will enjoy a decrease in taxes.

The city is pressing the government to change the assessment rates, and if it is successful — or if some sudden and unexpected chops are made from the city's provisional budget — the average property tax increase might be well below the 12 per cent mark.

But Glazier admits tax payers hoping for such a last minute reprieve might be overly optomistic.

He said council has done a thorough job on the budget, sometimes sitting for six hours at a time in the vetting sessions.

"And more than half of the total levy is in requisitions from other departments (hospital requirements, Capital Regional District, school purposes and the B.C. Assesment Authority).

"In the 50 per cent of the budget that is actually under our control the majority is in salaries and wages (where cutbacks are extremely difficult to make)."

Mayors' Help Sought

The Victoria Motorcycle Club plans to take the fight to regain its hill to city hall.

Club spokesman Gary Nordstrom said today that Mayors Mike Young and Mel Couvellier, of Victoria and Saanich respectively, will be asked to overturn a recent Victoria and Saanich parks board decision to ban the bikers from using Mount Douglas for its annual hill climb.

For more than 50 years the club has been holding a one day event at the park.

Nordstrom said that since their plight showed up in the local papers there has been lots of supportive public reaction.

He said the club will write the two mayors involved asking them to step into the controversy.

Meanwhile Victoria Ald. Robin Blencoe, one of the park committee members who voted to withold the hill climb permit, said it would probably take a massive public outcry for him to change his mind on the matter.

It's a Court Appearance That Max Will Enjoy

Right away I could tell he was going to be awkward.

As I pushed my British passport across the customs desk at the Vancouver Airport (after arriving back from a brief trip to London last summer) the frowns started.

"Where's your Landed Immigrant slip?" he asked abruptly.

Haven't the faintest idea, I told him.

"Well this is a new passport," he said.

I know, I replied. I lost my old one.

"This one doesn't have a stamp to show when and where you arrived in the country. There's no indication that you were ever here!"

Oh come on! I said, getting a little impatient. It was issued in Canada.

"That doesn't mean anything," he insisted. "You'd better have the slip with you next time or you won't get back in."

Then suddenly, there was a cheeky glint in the man's eye.

"Why don't you do yourself a favor — become one of us. Because you know now you'll never go back over there to live again don't you?"

I knew. But I didn't take his advice. Not right away. I thought a lot about it, though. And this year (in November it will be 10 years since I first came to Canada) I decided I'd "do myself a favor."

And so one day recently I popped into the Customs Building on Government Street. Wandering lost along a long corridor on the third floor, I passed offices with little signs on the doors "Health of Animals", "Poultry Division" and "Fruit and Vegetable Division." I didn't figure I fitted into any of those but finally I found immigration which, of course, was the wrong place.

Downstairs is the place for you, I was told. On the first floor, and sure enough there it was: Canadian Citizenship Court Room 115.

I picked up a form to fill in and a young lady told me I could expect to wait four or five months.

"If you had come under the old system, it would only have taken eight weeks," she explained. "You just had to come in and take an oath then. Now you have to appear before a court and we have to receive verification from Ottawa before we can schedule you."

It was just over a year ago — February 15, 1977 — that the citizenship court system was introduced with the requirement of five years' residence in the country being reduced to three years. Suddenly, a million more new Canadians became eligible for citizenship. There was a flood back then when the gates were opened and judges at citizenship courts across the country are still busy today trying to catch up.

In Toronto, where about half the country's immigrants head for, 27,000 people went through citizenship courts in the first three months of this year.

"They have 11 judges in Toronto citizenship courts alone," says Victoria writer Betty Campbell, whose new book Becoming a Canadian (it's published by the International Self-Counsel Press and sells for $3.50) is the first real guide on the subject.

"They're putting 600 a day through in Toronto and they're trying to push it to 900 to catch up," she says.

Originally from Britain, Betty and her husband Doug lived here almost 20 years before deciding to become Canadian citizens. Their experiences in the court and contacts with other landed immigrants gave Betty, a freelancer, an idea for a magazine article. She found she had so many notes, however, that she decided to write a book and, with that in mind, set off travelling around the country with various citizenship judges.

She tells the story of one newcomer to the country who, when asked who is Pierre Elliot Trudeau, said "the leader of the Dhukobor Party."

And in another court a Hungarian was asked if he knew what the letters NDP stood for. "No down payment," the man replied quickly.

"The judge laughed and laughed," Betty says. "Everyone in the court laughed and soon the man himself realized it was funny and he laughed, too. But the judge gave him another try at it and he got his citizenship."

Well, I expect to be put through my paces in about another five months so I'll tell you more about it then. But Betty says it's a very moving experience.

"When you go through it you realize that, despite all the complaints we have, we've got a lot to be thankful for in Canada. You go to a citizenship court and the people are weeping. To them, this is a dream come true.

"To most people I talked to, it's a very emotional thing and very important to them.

"You feel like a visitor in someone else's house . . . but when you become a member of the family you can complain about things like the rest — and try to get something done about them."

Sooke School Board Levy Jumped 25%

The Sooke school board voted Tuesday night to increase school taxes 25 per cent to 50.23 mills this year.

Almost half the 9.89 mill increase this year is to pick up a $161,000 deficit accumulated last year and to account for an artificially low mill rate in 1977.

Last year's levy was the second lowest in the province because of a $400,000 surplus the year before.

In the Greater Victoria school district, the mill levy is 45.5 mills, a four per cent increase from last year and in Saanich the mill rate is 46.9 this year, up two per cent.

Liaison Link Founders

A two-member committee intended to provide a communication and liaison link between Saanich council and the Greater Victoria school board apparently foundered Tuesday, amid a disagreement over conflict of interest charges.

School board chairman Susan Brice and school trustees say a potential conflict exists because Saanich's representative on the committee, Ald. Robert Cameron, is a school teacher and therefore an employee of the board.

But Mayor Mel Couvelier and Cameron himself reject that viewpoint because, they point out, the committee never discusses personnel matters.

When the board appointee, trustee Bud Smith, failed to show up at the committee's first meeting of 1978 on Tuesday, the mayor angrily accused Brice and her colleagues of meddling in council affairs.

"I resent this attempt to influence council's decision in terms of appointments," he said. "I consider it none of the school board's business and I think it is highly improper for them to anticipate conflicts of interest before they arise."

He was referring to a letter in which Brice advised Couvelier of the board's concern, and asked the mayor to appoint another alderman to replace Cameron on the liaison committee.

Brice stressed that the request implied no personal reflection on Cameron but it was based on a significant principle.

"Ald. Cameron, as you know, is an employee of this board and as such would not be eligible to hold the office of trustee," her letter stated.

"In the capacity to which you have appointed him, that of liaison alderman, he would advise the board regarding policy."

Brice concluded by saying she would advise Smith that the meeting scheduled for Tuesday "would be better postponed until we hear further from your office."

Although Saanich viewed the meeting arrangements as unchanged, the only school board representative to show up was community relations officer Bill Stavdal, who appeared a little uncomfortable in his solitude.

Turning to the three reporters present, Couvelier commented: "I never really dreamed it would get this far."

The mayor recalled that, despite his personal reluctance, he had agreed to Brice's suggestion that the committee be reduced in size to only one representative each from council and the school board.

The streamlining was carried out mainly to eliminate the need for staff attendance.

Couvelier said the history of agenda items discussed by the committee — including joint use of school facilities, major subdivision proposals and other matters of mutual interest — clearly shows that there is no fear of conflict-of-interest situations arising.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tomlinson examine copy of their prize-winning slogan

4 WIN DEAF SLOGAN AWARDS

Four Victorians were given prizes Tuesday by the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Institute of Vancouver Island in a contest to find appropriate slogans to help promote hearing awareness next month.

May has been designated as Hearing Awareness Month across Canada.

"Peace and quiet ... forever? Prevent hearing loss," was selected as the best slogan. It was submitted by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tomlinson, 4237 Gordon Head.

The second-place finisher ("Something to tell? Fingerspell.") was the work of Jean Cathro, 101-978 Heywood.

A.J. Anderson, 3929 Hobbs, finished third with his submission: "Ear protection makes sound advice."

Fourth place went to Nora Gardner, Albert Head Light Station, R.R. 1, Victoria, who coined the slogan: "Communicate ... face up to deafness."

The slogans are to be used by the institute throughout May to help promote understanding of prevention of hearing loss, hearing impairment and sign language.

Over one million Canadians suffer from a hearing problem.

Statue Stolen

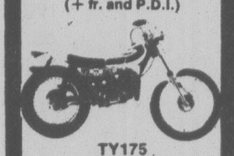

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Manneken Pis, Belgium's best-known landmark, was stolen again during the night.

Brussels police said unidentified persons wrenched the statue of the small boy urinating from its stand on a street near the Grand Place, the main square of Brussels.

The statue, which once served as a fountain, has been stolen a number of times, usually as a student caper. But the little figure that is photographed by most foreigners who visit Brussels is not the original bronze sculpted by Duquesnoy in the 17th century. That is kept in the Municipal Museum on the Grand Place.

The legends of the Manneken are numcrous. One says it commemorates a boy who saved the city in the 13th century by wetting the fuse of an enemy bomb.
